MOVERS & SHAKERS

The Pennsylvania Industries for the Blind and Handicapped (PIBH) has named Dwight Gilmore of Tunkhannock a finalist for its Disabled Worker of the Year Award. Officially called The Nettie Mann Achievement Award, the prize is given annually to show appreciation for the outstanding commitment and work performed by individuals with disabilities.

Named for Nettie Mann, who died in a 1993 car accident just weeks after being named Pennsylvania's Handicapped Worker of the Year, the award is given annually to the person who most emulates Mann's attitude of independence and dedication.

Janet Elizabeth Flack will be the recipient of the 2005 Mercy Woman of the Year award at the 10th annual Swing for Mercy Golf Tournament Monday, June 20, at the Wyoming Valley Country Club.

Born in Wilkes-Barre, Janet graduated from Wyoming Seminary and Endicott College, Beverly Mass. After studying Fine Art at the State University New York, Albany, she studied interior design at Harrington College of Design, Chicago. She is a NCIDQ Certified Interior Designer.

In 1982, Flack founded her firm in Kingston. Janet is Vice President of Professional Development for the Mid-Atlantic States of the International Interior Designers Association where she also serves on the Mid-Atlantic Advisory Board. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of Harrington College of Design, and a member of the Alumni Council of Wyoming Seminary.

In the early 1990's, Janet adopted a family for Christmas through the Catherine McAuley Center for Homeless Women and Children. While processing the paperwork, she mentioned that her firm might be able to help by donating design services to the center.

Janet is now a member of the Board of Directors of the McAuley Center, where she has initiated and managed a number of fundraising projects and donates all design fees for building renovations.

Area Girl Scouts earn Gold Award

Two Girl Scouts from the Back Mountain recently earned the nationally recognized Girl Scout Gold Award, the highest and most prestigious award achievable in Girl Scouting.

A Senior Girl Scout works toward her Gold Award through the completion of four preliminary requirements that incorporate the elements of leadership, career exploration, challenge for personal growth and community action. The final step in earning the Gold Award involves at least 50 hours of work planning and implementing a Gold Award Project that meets an expressed need in the community, serves people beyond Girl Scouting and has a discernable result that will continue on.

Jennifer Mines, Dallas, is a junior at Dallas High School. She is a member of the National Honor Society, Student Council, Diversity Club, the Math Competition team, Science Olympiad, Newspaper Club, Student Government and is a class officer for the Junior Steering Committee. She is also a member of the track and field and swim teams. Jen plans to attend college and pursue a career in math or science.

Jennifer's Gold Award Project involved working with the Victim's Resource Center in Wilkes-Barre. With the guidance of a VRC counselor, she redesigned more than 30 worksheets and coloring/game sheets that are used in children's counseling sessions to help kids learn to express their feelings and understand facts about violence. Jennifer created several counseling games of her own, and reorganized and inventoried the children's room at the center. In addition, Kelly Williams, Dallas, Troop 2659, and Jennifer Mines, Dallas, Troop 2659 were honored at the Girl Scouts of Penn's Woods Council Gold Award Luncheon.

Jennifer has designed a flyer to publicize the VRC's upcoming "Mock Rape Trial" event and has created two window displays at the center.

Kelly Williams, Trucksville, is a junior at Dallas High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society, active in Key Club and a member of the regular and select choruses. She is a graduate of the Junior Leadership Class of 2005. Kelly has tutored children at the McGlynn Learning Center and is president of her church youth group. Kelly plans to attend college, majoring in communications with a minor in education.

Kelly's Gold Award Project reflects her love for working with children. She volunteered at the Catherine McAuley House in Plymouth, a center for women and children in crisis. Kelly cleaned and organized a storage room there, then created 50 craft containers for the children to use during their stay and take with them when they were able to go home. She also collected items for donation to the center, with the help of neighboring Girl Scout troops and friends from her church and school.

The girls were recognized at the Girl Scout Gold Award Luncheon, held on May 15, at the Waterfront Banquet Facility, Wilkes-Barre.

Kim Supon, news anchor at WNEP-TV Ch16, was keynote speaker for the event that was sponsored by PNC Bank, Girl Scouts Scranton Pocono Council and the Girl Scouts of Penn's Woods Council, to honor 27 Girl Scout Gold Award recipients from the two councils.
