was one of the most successful swimmers in Wyoming Valley Conference history while at Bishop Hoban.

She claimed five state titles and earned a scholarship to Boston College, where she'll join her older sister, Liz. "I had a great experience at Gate of Heaven," said Caroline, who is undecided on her collegiate major. "The people there were wonderful and helped to create a fun atmosphere for the students."

Byron isn't surprised that Crossin and Ostrowsky turned out to be Division I student-athletes. "You knew that Brian would be a great athlete because of his tremendous work ethic and Tim was always an outstanding basketball player," she said. "It's amazing to think that our little class could be so successful."

Crossin, the son of Tom and Eileen Crossin of Trucksville, was named the PIAA Class AA Player of the Year after leading the Bishop O'Reilly basketball team to its second consecutive state title.

He'll play at Towson State next season where he plans to study

Like Byron, he has fond memories of his days at Gate of Heaven. "The people at Gate of Heaven brought us up well," he said. "They taught us the basics about sports and life."

Ostrowsky, the son of Ed and Marianne Ostrowsky of Wyoming, helped the Bishop Hoban football team to its finest season in more than a decade.

He was an all-state selection as a linebacker and will continue his football career at Cornell, where intends to major in business management.

"One of the things that I learned at Gate of Heaven was the importance of hard work," said Ostrowsky. "It may take some time, but it will eventually be worth it."

While Byron, Crossin and Ostrowsky have gained welldeserved acclaim, Simon believes they are examples of the typical Gate of Heaven product. "Our students usually succeed academically and athletically wherever they go," he said. "We have good kids and they buy into the fact that hard work will pay off in the long run."

Perhaps not so unexpectedly, all three students singled out Simon for his approach in the classroom. "Mr. Simon was a great teacher," said Byron. "He made his classes challenging and fun and certainly prepared us for high school."
