Gardening, wine topics of classes

College Misericordia is offering non-credit courses that will give students of all ages an opportunity to develop a green thumb for gardening, and learn the subtle differences of wines.

The Wines of the World class is an introduction to the wine industry and its production throughout the world. The classes will be held from 4-6 p.m. each Sunday from March 5 through April 9. Each class will have a lecture and an overview of the wine producing region and a sampling of three reds and three whites from each region. During the six-week course, students will sample wines from France, California, Italy, Spain, Australia, New Zealand and Chili.

Dick Murphy, wine consultant for Zachys, an international wine retailer and wine auctioneer in New York City, is the class instructor. Cost of the class is $75, plus a $20 materials fee for each class. The first class will be held at the Woodlands Inn and Resort, Plains Township. Each subsequent class will be held at a different area restaurant.

A Garden of Possibilities course allows students to discover the tools that are needed to build a greener, healthier lawn, plant and maintain colorful flower beds and how to properly care for various plants. Students also will learn about fertilizers and chemicals, soil testing and the lifecycle of root-eating grubs.

The six-week will be held from 6-8 p.m. each Wednesday from April 19 through May 24 in the MacDonald Art Gallery. The instructor is Barbara Anderson and the course costs $60.

For more information about the non-credit classes being offered at College Misericordia or to register, contact the adult education office at 674-6289.

Competition to feature battle of brains

High schools from northeastern Pennsylvania, including Dallas and Lake-Lehman, have been invited to participate in the 2006 Tests of Engineering Aptitude, Mathematics and Science competition. The event will be held March 6 at the Penn State/Wilkes-Barre campus in Lehman Township.

TEAMS is an academic program and competition that introduces high school students to the world of engineering. Student teams are in training to get ready for the competition. Teams will spend several hours each week practicing sample test questions, and developing teamwork and problem-solving skills.

Teams will compete at the varsity or junior varsity level in one of nine school-based divisions. Divisions are determined by school size and selectivity of admissions. The top-scoring teams in each division from each state will be eligible for a national ranking, which will be determined by performance on Part II of the two-part test. Regional awards are based upon performance on Part I of the test.

Approximately 14,000 high school students from across the nation will compete in the annual one-day event. The goal is to get students interested in engineering while in high school, and assist them in making informed decisions about their future educational pursuits.

The local competition is sponsored by Penn State/Wilkes-Barre and the Luzerne County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers. TEAMS is sponsored nationally by JETS, a national nonprofit organization promoting interest in engineering, science, mathematics and technology.

For more information about the event, call John Barnes at 675-9238.
