to retire and give it up. I thought here's an opportunity to serve my community so I ran and won.

"I enjoyed giving the administration the authority that they well deserved. The job of a school director was to make sure there was enough money so the schools could operate. We tried our best to keep the taxes down, but there was no way I was going to nickel-and-dime a kid. I was elected four times and halfway through the fourth term I ran for county commissioner and got elected."

RJ: "It was very touching because I started when I was 13.

that I am 68, people like 88 years a week. old came out to hear me call my last one. A lot of people from Plymouth Township and Harter High School in west Nanticoke chairs, work in the waiting room where I graduated came out to and talk to people who are waithear me call as well.

"I'm an emotional guy to begin with. I can't even watch Little House on the Prairie without crying. I only talked for a little bit it will move up to twice a week. and that was pretty much it. If they would have had people up there talking about me I would have been up there crying."

GH: You stopped volunteering at the Mercy Center in Dallas after 25 years of service. Do you volunteer anywhere in Georgia?

RJ: "The one place I volunteer is called The Place and it's a GH: You recently called your building where needy families last square dance. What was that come daily in a bread line. They get canned goods we bag for them, and bread, fruit, different salads and desserts. People also called more people in there 20s back into the program. My wife drive there." and 30s would come out. So now Marie and I enjoy doing that once

"When I go back to Georgia I will volunteer at the North Side Forsyth Hospital. I push wheeling for their loved ones to come out of surgery. For now it's only once every three weeks because I'm the new guy on the block, but At the Good Shepard Roman Catholic Church, I'm a Eucharistic Minister for the homebound and the sick."

GH: Why do you enjoy volunteering so much? RJ: "I enjoy helping the challenged. When you go into a nursing home, you know that a person is challenged. When you go and sit down with someone in a nursing home, they smile at you because a lot of times no one else comes to see them.
