compiled a 17-3-1 record in Old Shoe Games, including 10 shut-out victories.

Lake-Lehman hasn't won as many games as Dallas since the Old Shoe Game began in 1948, but the Black Knights have been downright dominant in some games. Lehman has won the game by at least 25 points six times in the game's history.

The most lopsided Old Shoe Game took place in 1972, with Dallas posting a 50-0 win against the Black Knights. Lake-Lehman's biggest win since Dallas Township, Westmoreland and Dallas Borough high schools combined to form Dallas High School in 1961 was a 33-0 win against the Mountaineers in 1984.

There have been three ties in Old Shoe history, but only two on the field. The Black Knights and Mountaineers battled to 16-16 tie in 1982 and a 21-21 draw in 1988.

Three teams - Westmoreland, Lehman and Dallas - finished with identical records in 1956, so the trophy spent part of the next year at all three schools. The trophy was originally given to the team finishing the season with the best record against Back Mountain opponents.

Over the years, several players from the former Kingston Township High School have laid claim to being the one whose bronzed football cleat sits atop the Old Shoe trophy. The cleat most likely belonged to the late Dean Johnson, a 1950 Kingston Township graduate.

The shoe was chosen by Kingston Township head coach Ted Zella from a pile of shoes worn by his players. Johnson passed away in 2001.

Who says the offenses of decades past were boring?

The first touchdown scored in an Old Shoe Game took place when Kingston Township receiver Bob Morgan took a handoff on a reverse and threw a 30-yard pass to teammate Dick Handley.
