Baseball camp set for King's College

The 19th annual Grand Slam Pre-Season Developmental Camp will be held Jan 14, 21 and 28, as well as Feb. 4, 11 and 25 at King's College.

The camp is under the direction of Monarch head coach Jerry Greeley. There will be guided instruction covering hitting, pitching, catching, defensive play and conditioning each day.

Greeley, who also serves as a coach in the Baltimore Orioles organization during the summer, guided King's to the Freedom Conference championship, the school's first NCAA playoff appearance, and a school-record 25 wins last season.

Greeley has a career record of 82-65 record during his four years at King's and an impressive 709-334 record in his coaching career.

The Jan. 14 session, which will run from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., will be for players in grades 9-12.

The session is designed for high school baseball players who wish to continue their academic/athletic careers at the collegiate level.

At the conclusion of the camp, a NCAA rules education session will be conducted by the King's staff for players and families.

The remaining sessions will be for players in grades 1-12.

All sessions will run from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Scanlon Gymnasium.

Players may attend one or multiple sessions.

The cost is $30 for one session, $50 for two, $70 for three, $85 for four, $100 for five and $115 for all six sessions.

Early registration is recommended since session size is limited.

For more information or to register, visit the Web site www.kings.edu/athletics and click baseball.

You may also call Greeley at 977-4623, or e-mail him at baseball@kings.edu.
