are held every Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m. and the youth group meets Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m. The Rev. Kenneth hopes to soon begin having services at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday evenings as well.

Though this is only the first time Vacation of Bible School has been held at River of Life Ministries, Loydene Kreller says it was definitely a success. The church plans to continue having the Bible School each summer, which Kreller says is a necessity.

"Each day the kids plunged into the word in the Bible and learned how Jesus used the element."

"I feel there are a lot of children who don't know about Jesus, and it's a needed thing for the community to have these," she said. "It's needed for the children who don't go to church."

while managing the responsibilities of work and family. There are chartered chapters throughout the United States, making Alpha Sigma Lambda the largest chapter-based honor society for adult learners.

Heintz named to Dean's List at York

York College of Pennsylvania named Elizabeth M. Heintz of Dallas to its Dean's List for Spring Semester 2007. To receive this distinction, students must carry at least 12 academic credit hours and attain a semester grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

Heintz, a graduate of Dallas High School, is pursuing a degree in nursing. She is the daughter of Marian N. Heintz.

Sem art students receive certificates

Andrew Levandoski, of Dallas, and Noah Sunday-Lefkowitz, of Shavertown, both students at Wyoming Seminary Lower School, received awards and certificates of merit for their participation in this year's 52nd Annual Fine Arts Fiesta art exhibit. The works were on display May 17-20 on Public Square, Wilkes-Barre.

Levandoski received a Certificate of Merit, graphic; and Sunday-Lefkowitz received Certificates of Merit, two paintings and one graphic.

Two named to Sigma Kappa Delta

Alice Basil and Eileen Halloran, both of Shavertown, were among 72 Luzerne County Community College students inducted into Sigma Kappa Delta.

BARN

But, because it rained so hard that day, the event was continued to the following Saturday. The barn and its stalls then became a storage place for antiques and merchandise for the following year.

Lemmond remembers the year rain overflowed the gutters of the barn and single lines of ladies passed the precious antiques one by one back from the tables to the safety of the barn.

Despite fond memories of the auction on Lehman Avenue in the Risley barn, voting to move the auction to its present location was, according to Shawn Murphy, "One of the best votes I ever cast." By 1972 the auction had outgrown its original home and was better accommodated in a building behind the library, off Rice Street, the site of the Dallas Senior Center.

Although now in a different setting, the character, charm and, particularly, the sense of communal generosity and unity are still in keeping with the best intentions of the original founders of the library auction.

This week - July 5, 6, 7 and 8 - you can still bring a baked pie or cake to be auctioned off the auction block. Teenager, as well as adults, still love to go to the auction. Imagine that. And there are plenty of animals, albeit stuffed, for the little kids to enjoy at the children's auction on Saturday.
