Dallas Borough enforces maintenance

The Dallas Borough Codes Enforcement Office announces the seasonal enforcement of the Dallas Borough Property Maintenance Code. Property owners should be alerted that inspections will be scheduled for all property owners deemed in violation of the code and the borough will prosecute all offenders through the enforcement of the regulations.

Recent routine property inspections in neighborhoods throughout the borough revealed numerous violations, including exterior property violations for property owners failing to maintain their premises in a clean, safe and sanitary condition.

The borough will require property owners to remove all vehicles not properly registered and inspected, inoperable motor vehicles, failure to cut grass, appliances littering yards, debris, and rubbish or other inappropriate materials littering yard areas.

Dallas Borough officials strongly urge all of our property owners to respect their neighborhoods recognizing the quality of life that borough residents have long enjoyed.

Questions pertaining to enforcement actions and inspections should be directed to the Dallas Borough Zoning Enforcement Officer by calling the Dallas Borough Municipal Building at 675-1389.

'Warriors' raise $44K

Of the 13 team members on Kelly's Warriors who participated in the 2007 Susan G. Komen 3-Day Walk for the Cure in Philadelphia for women and men wanting to make a personal difference in the fight against breast cancer, seven were local and included Holly Banks-Fry, Maureen Gallagher, Melissa Hiedcavage, Glenda Pomrinke, Jon Pomrinke, Marlena Saxon, Tracy Banks and Dina Weitzman.

The other team members - Bonnie and Becky Furchner, Kate Matherson, Michelle Harris and Jen Roberts - all walked in memory of Kelly Pomrinke, who inspired them in her battle against breast cancer.

Pomrinke lost her battle against cancer in November 2006 at the age of 32, just over a month after she participated in the 2006 3-Day walk.

"I watched her cross the finish line last year and, after she passed away, I just knew that I had to participate this year," said Maureen Gallagher, of Dallas. Kelly's Warriors, led by Pomrinke's husband Jon, is so named because Pomrinke was a fighter and a warrior and the team wanted to carry on her strength.

"Kelly's Warriors" was in the top 10 fundraising teams out of about 350 total team which raised money to fund important breast cancer research, education, screening and treatments.

Gallagher said the walk was both a physically and emotionally demanding experience, but one in which she and the entire team were thrilled to participate.

"Jon carried Kelly's sneakers over his shoulder for most of the walk and we all took turns carrying them for strength," Gallagher said. "We would like to thank all of our friends, family and the community for the support they gave to us, both monetarily and mentally."

Family members and friends of the Pomrinks were present along the walk, supporting the team in every step. In addition to her husband, Pomrinke left behind a 3-year-old daughter, Kira, who was also at the walk, supporting the team as much as possible.

"Kelly's Warriors" covered 22.7 miles on Day One from the Willow Grove Mall through historic shopping areas, such as Manyunk, neighborhoods and scenic nature trails to Philadelphia. Day Two saw them walking 21.1 miles of downtown Philadelphia, passing such sites as University City and Olde City to Chinatown and Boathouse Row. The walk ended on Day Three three after a 16.2 mile trek through the suburbs,
