The Warrington Family Band, comprised of parents Peter and Jean Warrington, sons Ian and Ben and daughter Lucy, plays Celtic, English, and American country dance music. The family is formerly of the Wyoming Valley and will play at a New England Contra Dance at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 5, at the Church of Christ Uniting in Kingston.

medicine. Jean is making small documentary videos and coordinating children's programs for Historic Fair Hill in North Philadelphia. Ian now lives in Boston, Ben is in Philadelphia and Lucy attends school at Swarthmore College. Although busy, family members still perform every January at the Northeast Pennsylvania Folklore Society and the Chicory House dance and every summer at an event at the Lands at Hillside Farms. Seeing friends, old students of Jean's and former patients of Peter's make it worth the twice-yearly trip twice to perform in the area.

Performing requires a lot of stamina and communication as the music is played at a fast rate of speed and the dances are long. The first fiddler needs to be in constant communication with the caller. The caller exchanges a look with the first fiddler and the fiddler then lifts his foot to relay information to the band. In order to play correctly and efficiently, a lot of practice is required.

"Ian really gets after us and says, 'Are you looking at your music? You need to practice,'" Jean said.

The Warrington children became experienced in string instruments by participating in the Suzuki School for Strings in Kingston.

"Music was a real important part of raising our kids," Jean said. "It's happy; it's joyful; it's intimate. And it gives them something positive to do with their family."

The Warrington Family Band changes its performance each January by using new instruments. Ian is taking up the mandolin, Ben is learning the banjo and Jean is exploring percussion. The band also recruits dance participants to join them on stage and play instruments, thus altering the music and preventing it from becoming routine.

David Martin of Center Moreland, coordinator for the Northeast Pennsylvania Folklore Society, says the Warringtons have been playing at the dances each January for approximately the past 10 years. Last year's January dance was held at the Fellowship Evangelical Free Church in Dallas, which had an all-time record attendance of 125 dancers.

The dances have been held at various locations in the Wyoming Valley. Beginning in October, the Northeast Pennsylvania Folklore Society began having their monthly dances at Church of Christ Uniting.

FIFTH GRADERS CREATE RECIPES

Fine Arts Fiesta Student Contest

The 20th Annual Fine Arts Fiesta Poster and Program Cover Contest is open to all students in grades three through in Luzerne County. "Drawing Us Together" is the theme of this year's contest. The winning, original piece of student art will serve as the poster and program cover for the Fine Arts Fiesta. This year's entry may be used as the design for the event t-shirt.

Under the direction of Mary Ann Yonki, system coordinator, the Osterhout Public Library will serve as the recipient of all student entries.

Mr. Ken Marquis, owner of Marquis Art and Frame, is sponsoring first, second, and third place prizes. Judging will take place after the March 10 deadline and prizes will be awarded at the event, which is scheduled to be held May 15 through May 18.

First prize is $100, second prize is $50, third prize is $25, and there will be 10 honorable mention awards.

Each entry must be the original work of art of the student.

Entries must be submitted on firm white paper or poster board. Media and materials are optional.

The regulation size is 12 inches by 18 inches.

Color presentations are preferred but not required, with a three color maximum. No photographic materials may be used. No framed or matted tries will be accepted. No pens or colored pencils may be used. Crayon, ink, and marker are acceptable. Words and numbers may not be included.

Each student may enter no more than one piece of work.

The student should submit their work to a designated staff member of the Osterhout Public Library by March 10. Each entry should have the name of the student, grade, age, home phone number, school, and art or classroom teacher listed on the back of the entry. All entries become the property of the Fine Arts Fiesta and will not be returned.
