DHS students go national

Three members of the Dallas High School Forensics Team qualified for national competition to be held in Appleton, Wisconsin over the Memorial Day weekend. Rosemary Shaver won second place in Student Congress, Lauren Kelly placed third in Dramatic Performance and David Hunter was fourth in Extemporaneous Speaking. These students, along with their fellow teammates, coached by Mrs. Candice Fike and Mrs. Yvonne Mould, competed in the national qualifying competition. The top four students in each category advanced on to the national competition.

Honoring veterans

The third grade class from Dallas Elementary School had an extra special Valentines Day event when the students, with their teacher, Reagan Palfey, took a trip to the Veterans Administration Hospital to pay tribute to some local heroes. The visit also coincided with National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans Week.

The class designed patriotic Valentines (about 175 in all) and collected simple items like hand lotion, crossword puzzles and powder to distribute to residents of both the nursing home and the hospital.

The class recited the Pledge of Allegiance and sang several theme appropriate songs to residents of the nursing home.

Members of the class who participated in the program include Aloysha Ackerman, Emma Anselmo, Hannah Baloga, John Barrett, Kaylynn Bruch, Breiana Coolbaugh, Cody Coolbaugh, Jason Culp, Jeffrey Dembowski, Paige Evans, Michele Gill, Christian Goldsmith, Nickolas Guzzo, Madison Hurst, Emma Lehman, Mitchell Manzella, Ted Nafus, David Orehtsky, Riley Oremus, James Oschal, Joshua Price, Jacob Serafin, Seth Williamson, Andy Zeyher and Abby Zondlo.

The trip was initiated by class president Riley Oremus.

Andy Zeyher, a third grade student at the Dallas Elementary School, presents a patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital with a patriotic Valentine he made in school. The students visited patients at the hospital during a National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans Week.
