President Martin Maransky, a police officer for Kingston Township, was elected to his position with the association in January. Maransky plans to continue rebuilding the organization and expanding its events. He also recently saw that the association's Web site, backmtpolice.org, was updated for the first time since 2004.

The Back Mountain Police Association is supported financially through membership dues, donations and an annual mail solicitation drive. The money raised goes toward supplies and equipment, such as portable breath testing equipment and body armor for police departments represented by the association. In addition, the association will financially support members of represented departments who find themselves in work-related legal problems.

Funds from the association also go toward community events including the Trout Derby. A golf tournament held last year at the Wilkes-Barre Golf Club raised $1400 for Fallen Officers Remembered and two bulletproof vests were purchased as a result of the money raised. The organization plans to hold the tournament again this year.

One goal of the association is to sponsor a large training session once a year for local police departments. The association is co-sponsoring a presentation by the Pennsylvania State Police on the Amish school shooting at 1 p.m. on Friday, April 18, at Best Western Genetti Hotel and Conference Center in Wilkes-Barre. "Sometimes we get together and people identify needs," Piazza said. "They identify what's lacking and that we can do better at certain types of training."

The Back Mountain Police Association meets at 8 p.m. on the second Thursday of every month at the Kingston Township Municipal Building. Meetings are for members only. Applications for membership are available at www.backmtpolice.org for an application form. Applicants must be a law enforcement officer from one of the association's member departments.

leges and college Web sites, take virtual tours, request applications, look for scholarships and secure recommendations.

"Everything is geared online," Ryan said. "I believe Penn State will only take online applications beginning this fall."

That could be a concern to parents who don't consider themselves technologically savvy.

"I learned a lot about how to get help online," said Robbins, whose son wants to be a sniper for a SWAT team. Though Casey is the fifth of Ann's six children, he is the first one planning to attend college.

Junior Marina Orrson, of Shavertown, hopes to become a nurse. She liked the program but now feels a little behind in the college process.

"I learned that I probably should have looked into the SAT and ACT more," Orrson said. "I thought it (the information session) was helpful in the sense there are a lot of things that needed to be cleared up going into senior year."

Parents were invited to an additional junior information session during the evening of Tuesday, March 18, at the school.

MUNICIPAL BRIEFS

Dallas Township parking restrictions

Except in locations where ordinance prohibitions against vehicular parking are more restrictive, vehicular parking on township roads is prohibited through April 30 between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Violators are subject to a $15 fine for the first offense and a $25 fine for the second offense.

Jackson Township zoning news

Jackson Township residents are reminded that the township has an ordinance that requires a building permit and contractor registration for any new construction, repairs, alterations being done to any building or property.

Building permits and contractor registrations may be applied for at the zoning office in the municipal building, 21 Huntsville Rd.

Zoning office hours are 9 a.m. to noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

With the arrival of spring, all Jackson Township residents should make every effort to clean up their properties and discard junk, debris, junk vehicles that could be considered a nuisance by other residents.

Inspections will be conducted.

The township also has a burning ordinance to which all residents must adhere.

For more information, call the Jackson Township Zoning Office at 675-9594.
