excitedly.

Later on, Nathan and Drew were going to paint the truck. Once it was dry, they would sand the plastic wheels, glue on the axles, put on the wheels and glue the required weights underneath.

Nathan's older brother, Andrew, 7, made his car as soon as he got his kit.

"I thought it was going to be fun," Andrew said. "It was fun because I like to work with my dad."

"He loves to come home and play with the kids. He likes to have them come down here (to his workshop) and make something or do something."

Andrew painted his car green, his favorite color, with lightning on the sides. He included his choice number, 11, and a WWJD ("What Would Jesus Do?") license plate on the back. As a finishing touch, Andrew glued the head of a Lego man on top.

Wanting to be just like his big brother, Nathan asked for a Lego man's head on his car.

Drew enjoys working with the boys, along with the couple's 3-year-old daughter, Sarah. Drew grew up with only sisters and his wife says he finally has boys to do brotherly things with.

"He loves to come home and play with the kids," Kellie said. "He likes to have them come down here (to his workshop) and make something or do something."

Drew admitting to loving the activities he does with his children.

"It's one of my favorite things," he said. "It teaches them how to be self-sufficient. And it's fun."

FOR THE DALLAS POST

Drew Jubis and his son, Nathan, 5, discuss plans for Nathan's Pinewood Derby car. Nathan envisioned a low-rider pickup truck painted in red with blue on the back. Flames would run across both sides of the vehicle and a cross would adorn the front.

Drew Jubis helps his son, 7-year-old son, Andrew, make this pinewood car for the Royal Rangers Scout Competition at the Back Mountain Harvest Assembly Church

Drew Jubis and his son, Andrew, 7, display Andrew's finished Pinewood Derby car the two made in Drew's wood shop. Andrew was set to race his car in the Northeast Section Royal Rangers annual Pinewood Derby Race on April 12.

NASCAR Event... Raises large amount of $$$ for Groups

Pocono 500
Pocono Raceway
June 6th - 8th, 2008

D.J.'s National Food Service, leader in food service management and consulting, is looking for groups who are interested in raising funds for their organization. Interested groups would work in one of our food court locations under the direction of our management staff. Each participant of the group will receive a dollar figure amount for each hour worked with one check being issued to the group for all participants. Groups' participants will also receive a raffle ticket with chances to win such items as gift cards, TV's and much more! Please inquire about other incentives including a bonus for group coordinators. Groups of 35 or more have the opportunity to raise $7,000 - $12,000 in just one weekend! Any size groups are welcome.

Join our Team and be a part of this NASCAR event while having fun, and raising a large amount of money for your organization! For more information, please contact D.J.'s National Food Service at "pocono@djsfood.com" or (800) 241-3315. Please visit "http://www.poconoraceway.com" for additional information regarding this racing event.
