

CHARLOTTE BARTIZEK PHOTOS/ FOR THE DALLAS POST

Members of the Gate of Heaven pre-school class search for their parents before their performance at a Thanksgiving Day program and lunch.

Thanksgiving fun

It's an annual tradition at the GateHouse when the pre-school students there dress like Pilgrims and Indians and learn all about Thanksgiving. The students also join with members of their extended families to partake of a traditional Thanksgiving dinner.

Playing the roles of Pilgrims at Gate of Heaven's Thanksgiving dinner are, from left, Claire Dougherty, Aiden Waslin and Zachary Crahall.

Parents, students and nature were in harmony for the annual Thanksgiving day program at Gate of Heaven School.

GOH singers participate in 'We Are The Boys' festival

Six fourth-grade students from Gate of Heaven School, Dallas, were selected to sing with a regional group of 160 boys in the "We Are The Boys" Boychoir Festival held at Lackawanna Trail High School on November 5. The festival, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Choral Directors Association (ACDA), provides a singing experience for boys with unchanged voices in grades four through seven. The choir was conducted this year by John Stroud, conductor of the Philadelphia Boys Choir and Chorale and The Haverford School. Those from Gate of Heaven who participated are, from left, Susanne Motyka, elementary music director and PMEA member; Matthew Blaum, Justin Marshall, Anthony Khoudary, Michael Parmelee, Christopher Huntington and Michael Lyons.
