Student-teacher assignments made

Misericordia University teacher education majors recently received their fall student teaching assignments during an orientation program in the Kennedy Room of the Banks Student Life Center.

Nine student teachers from Misericordia University and two from King's College participated in the program, which prepares the undergraduates for classroom observation and instruction in several regional school districts, including the Diocese of Scranton.

The Teacher Education Department at Misericordia University requires student teachers to observe student instruction for 14 weeks in two different classrooms as part of their educational and professional experience. Students spend the school day in their assigned classrooms, at first observing and then gradually teaching classes.

The following student teachers recently received their classroom assignments: Kelly Dougherty of Shavertown is student teaching at Dallas Middle School; Suzanne Pierce of Harveys Lake is assigned to Pittston Area High School; Ryan Kearney of Archbald is teaching at Dallas Middle School; Elizabeth Kane of Kingston is student teaching at Schuylar Avenue Elementary and Third Avenue Elementary schools; Wendy Gosnell of Scranton is assigned to Dunmore Elementary Center; Amy Hughes of Scranton is teaching at Pittston Primary Center and Pittston Area School; Gerald Hudak of Hanover Township is student teaching at Coughlin and GAR high schools;
