MU hosts Kwanzaa dinner

Misericordia University hosted a poetry reading and a Kwanzaa dinner to celebrate Martin Luther King, Jr. Day on Monday, Jan. 19. The program began with an opening prayer by Misericordia Chaplain Rev. Donald Williams and included a poetry reading by student Jessica Bealer '12 and readings by students on the life of Martin Luther King, Jr. Students read quotes from King's "I Have A Dream" speech and reflected on what the passages mean to them. A Kwanzaa dinner followed, featuring authentic African-American food with a presentation on the traditions of Kwanzaa by Dan Kimbrough, visiting assistant professor of communications.
