13-year-old grandson of Harveys Lake couple publishes book

Thomas Strock, of Center Valley, is already a published author, having recently released his first book nationwide, titled "Tomato Turtle: A Trip to the Park." And he's only 13 years old. Strock is the son of Dan and Susan Strock and the grandson of Anna and Edward Strock, of Queen of Peace Road, Harveys Lake. He has a sister, Carolyn, age 15. Published by Tate Publishing and Enterprises, "Tomato Turtle: A Trip to the Park" delights children from 1 to 100 as they take part in Tomato's adventure.

The book's theme is there's no place like home, according to Thomas, a good lesson to which someone at any age can relate. The story is about a young turtle named Tomato who goes to the park and participates in children's activities when he realizes he'd much rather be a turtle and do turtle activities. In addition to promoting his book, Strock, a seventh-grader at Southern Lehigh Middle School, keeps busy by raising awareness and single-handedly collecting more than $1,000 for autism, a condition his 3-year-old cousin has. He also performs with Upper Bucks Alliance for Creative Expression, having played the piano since age 3 as well as the guitar. "Tomato Turtle: A Trip to the Park" is available at any bookstore nationwide or can be ordered through the publisher at www.tatepublishing.com/bookstore. The book is also an eLIVE title, meaning each printed copy contains a code redeemable for a free audio download of the book from the publisher's website.

Anna and Edward Strock, of Queen of Peace Road, are so proud of their grandson, Thomas Strock, 13, who lives in Center Valley and has published a book entitled, "Tomato Turtle: A Trip to the Park." Thomas' father is Dan Strock.
