

Misericordia dedication ceremony will honor the late Pauly Friedman

Misericordia University will recognize the late Pauly Friedman and her family as among the university's most dedicated benefactors with the naming of two new facilities on the campus in her honor.

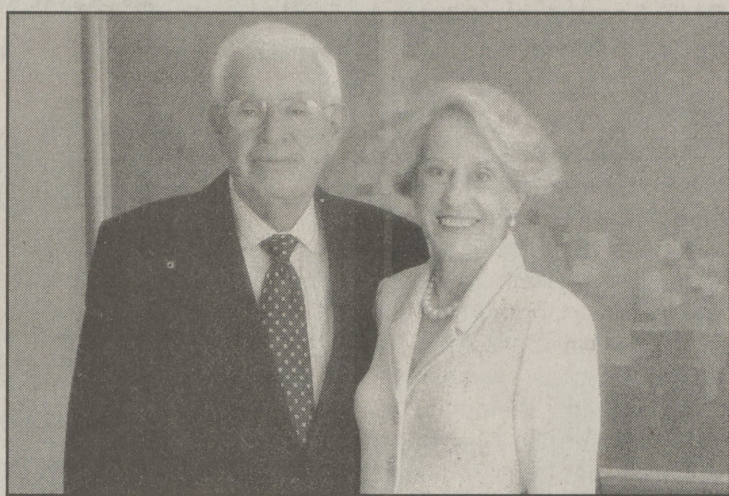

The dedications of the Pauly House and Pauly Friedman Art Gallery will be held at 1 p.m. today, May 3, at the Pauly House at 62 Lake St., Dallas. The dedication of the new Pauly Friedman Art Gallery and a reception will follow at the gallery in the second floor of the newly-opened Sandy and Marlene Insalaco Hall on campus.

The Pauly House is the newest home for single mothers enrolled in the university's Women with Children Program and their children.

Funded by the generosity of Pauly and her husband, Sidney Friedman, the renovation of the house at 62 Lake St. allowed the university to expand the novel program that provides free room and board to as many as 10 students and up to 20 children. The Pauly House opened in August 2008. Nearby Rosary Hall, on Lake Street, also serves as housing for Women with Children Program families.

The new Pauly Friedman Art Gallery occupies more than 2,700 square feet of space on the first floor of the newly-opened Insalaco Hall, a technologically smart learning environment opened to the academic community in March.

The multi-purpose gallery will be used for performing arts as well as visual arts and will have a portable stage that can be used for small musical performances and poetry readings, according to Dona Posatko, gallery assistant. The gallery also features a surround sound system, motorized blackout shades, es, three types of track lighting and a bamboo floor. A custom-designed storage area will double as a small theater for short creative film movies produced and directed by Misericordia students.

Mrs. Friedman, born Pauline Poplin, and her husband, Sidney L. Friedman, are well known for their commitment to education, community service and broad-based philanthropy. Considered among Misericordia's most active and committed volunteers, the couple was awarded the 2004 Trustee Associates Award, which recognizes those who have demonstrated outstanding dedication, service and generous support to the university in its tradition of providing a strong liberal arts education through the values of mercy, service, justice and hospitality.

A follower of the arts, Pauly served as the first president of the Misericordia art gallery in 1977 and worked for several years to improve its resources and facilities. She was also among the founders of the Ethics Institute of Northeastern Pennsylvania at Misericordia University. The family has also endowed a four-year scholarship at Misericordia for a worthy student majoring in physical therapy.

Pauly Friedman died December 17, 2008 in Miami, Fla. She is survived by Sidney, their children, Anne Friedman Glauber, of New York City, NY; and Robert Friedman, of Dallas; and four grandchildren.
