Auction plans are in full swing

Plans for the annual Back Mountain Memorial Library Auction are in full swing. For four nights in July, the grounds of the library will open to a flurry of shopping, bidding, eating and mingling with old friends and neighbors and making lasting memories for children and grandchildren.

Many volunteers are returning to help set up for the 2010 auction and to sample the delicious food prepared and served by the many people who donate their cooking expertise to feed hungry volunteers at lunch. Anyone may volunteer to help set up for the auction and bring along a crock pot full of one's special cooking would be greatly appreciated.

Donations are now being accepted from yard sales, estate sales and rummage sales. Call the library at 675-1182 to make arrangements or take small items to the library front desk.

The Jewelry Boutique is in need of jewelry of all kind, perfume bottles, dresser sets, jewelry boxes, prom and wedding accessories, leather gloves, scarves and designer handbags.

Nearly Old, Attic Treasures and Cottage Keepers are in need of glassware, crystal, art, framed pictures, lanterns, lamps, jewelry, baskets, primitive items in any condition, Christmas items and collectibles, baseball and football cards, barware, ice buckets, small furniture, Plasticville buildings and railroad items. Please label donations as Nearly Old. Antiques for the block are always welcome.

All items are tax deductible.

Farmers' Market opens July 17

The Back Mountain Farmers' Market begins its fifth year on Saturday, July 17, on the Back Mountain Memorial Library grounds, Huntsville Road, Dallas, and will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. every Saturday through September 25.

With more vendors than ever at the market, patrons will find the summer's best in locally-grown seasonal fruits and vegetables, homemade baked goods, gourmet fresh foods and more from Dymond's Farm and Farm Markets, Brace's Orchard and Bakery, Golomb's Farm and Greenhouse, Creekside Farm and Nursery, Emma's Bakery, Mockingbird Bakery, The Soup-

Chic, Kerry's Fresh Roasted Coffee Beans, Natural Chef, Dancing Hen Farm (organic) and Penn State Master Gardeners (monthly).

Vendor stalls will be set up on the pavement of the library parking lot. Patrons are asked to park on the lawn behind the library and along the side streets on the west side of Huntsville Road. Parking is not permitted on Franklin Sreett adjacent to the library property for safety reasons.

For more information about the Back Mountain Farmers' market, stop in at the library's reception desk or call 675-1182.
