DHS Lock-In keeps grads safe inside

The Dallas High School Class of 2010 was treated to a fun-filled evening, known as the Lock-In, after graduation on June 4.

The Lock-In is a fully-chaperoned, alcohol and drug-free party held overnight at the high school for the graduating class. The objective is to keep the graduates off the roads in a safe environment.

Started in 2000, this year's event was the 11th of its kind. This year's Lock-In was co-chaired by Tania Reinert and Beth Monahan. Over 80 parents, teachers and members of the school's administration volunteered their time during the seven-hour event.

Approximately 138 senior students attended this year's Lock-In and enjoyed various games and events, including a hypnotist and plenty of food. Each student went home with gifts, prizes and fond memories of their last time at Dallas High School.
