

Joan Harris Dancers will perform at Knoebel's Park

The Joan Harris Dancers will appear in two productions at Knoebel's Amusement Park this week.

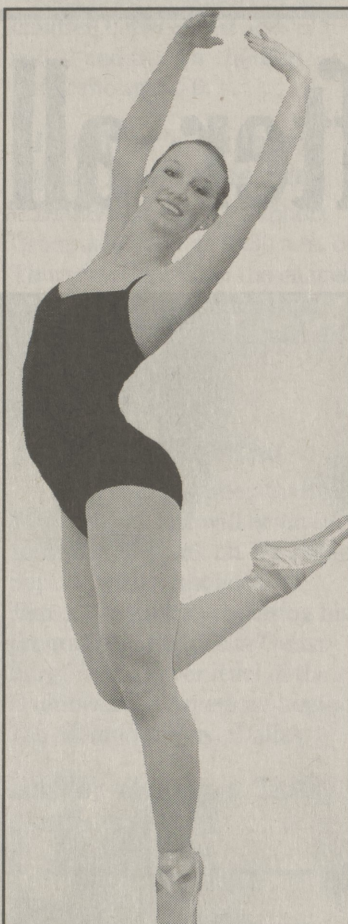

Nearly 100 dancers from the Back Mountain communities will pool their talents with 200 other dancers from across the region to produce a fun-filled, fast-paced dance review.

The dancers are scheduled to take the main stage at the park at 4 and 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 17.

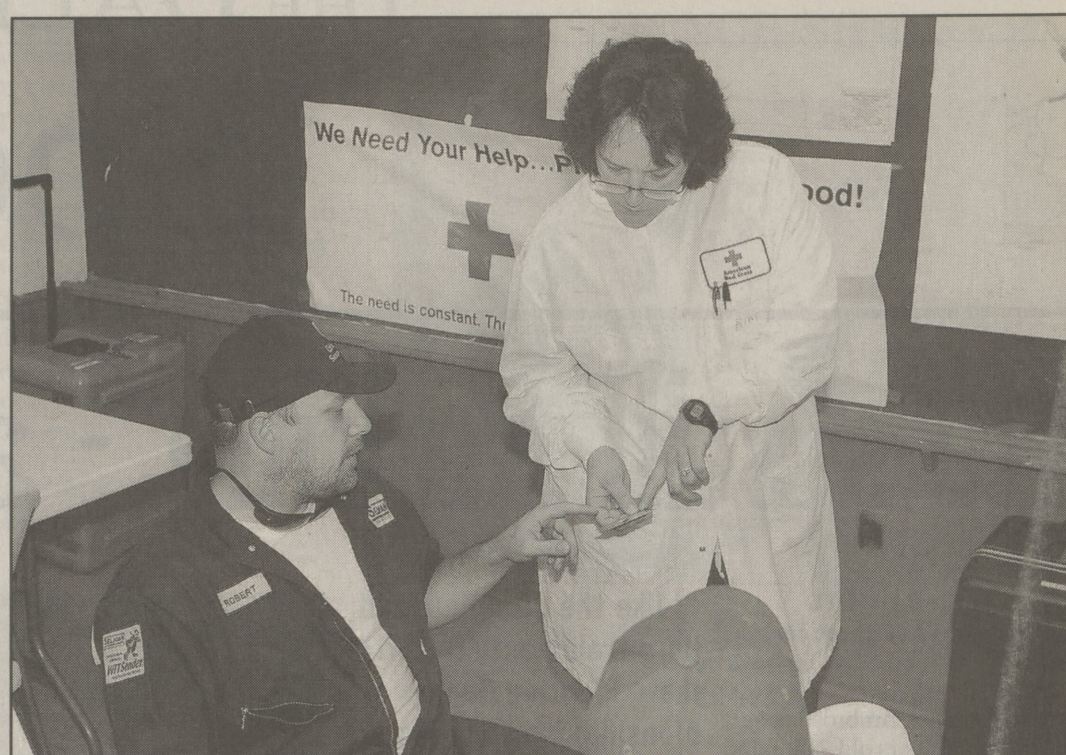

Titled "Sunshine Days!" the show will feature a wide variety of song and dance routines designed as one final salute to the summertime. Joan Harris first staged a summer picnic and showcase at an amusement park in 1961 and it has been a favorite tradition for her students ever since. This is the 22nd consecutive year the studio will perform at the park in Elysburg.

This week's shows include of a wide variety of ballet, tap, jazz, lyrical and modern dance arranged to music with a summertime theme. The productions mark the end of the center's eight-week summer program.

Aubrielle Smith, left, and Kristen Justice, both of Dallas, will perform at Knoebel's Amusement Park on Aug. 17 with the Joan Harris Dancers.

Drilling workers donate

The Old Beaumont School located off Route 309 in Beaumont was host to a blood drive sponsored by the American Red Cross of Wyoming County.

A steady stream of blood donors from throughout the community visited agency workers from the American Red Cross during the five-hour drive.

About three hours into the drive, a caller from Susquehanna County phoned the office of American Red Cross Wyoming County, asking for directions to the school from a gas drilling site in Susquehanna County.

Nancy Kulow, of Mehoopany, a volunteer for American Cancer Society Wyoming County helping out at the drive, took the call intended to alert staff members to expect quite a few workers from one of the drilling sites in Susquehanna County.

Soon after, several cars and trucks bearing license plates from Texas and Tennessee pulled into the parking area at Bob Horlacher Memorial Little League Ballpark adjacent to the school.

Jay Jones, a supervisor with Selman and Associates, of Midland, Texas, assigned as Superintendent of Geology for Cabot Oil & Gas drilling sites in the area, said all of the workers, including his wife, are geologists working under contract with Cabot Oil & Gas to do geological studies at Dimock, Springville, Elk Lake, Montrose and South Montrose.

Workers from Selman & Associates in Midland, Texas are welcomed to a Red Cross blood donor site in Beaumont.

"We had seen signs for the Red Cross blood drive posted on a bulletin board at True Value Hardware Store in Montrose for several days," Jones said. "We asked one of the managers there to call the phone number posted on the sign to get us directions. Now, we're here to give blood."

"It's important for the group to give blood today because a co-worker at one of the drilling sites was notified a few days ago that his fiancée was seriously injured in an auto accident back home in Houston," Jones added. "We wanted to do this in her name."

Blood donor Robert Kelley talked about recent flooding in his home state of Tennessee.

"Not too long ago in Nashville, Tennessee, we had a horrible flood that was worse than Katrina," he said. "It left the area totally devastated. My mom's a captain in the Tennessee National Guard. She was talking to me about how the Red Cross was helping the people."

The American Red Cross of Wyoming County sent workers to Tennessee to assist with aid relief efforts back in May.

Local residents Marita Zim, Client Caseworker, Health Care Service Supervisor, and Mary Bishop, Client Caseworker, Assistant Supervisor, were deployed to Tennessee in May to assist in aid relief efforts for those who suffered damage brought on by severe storms, tornadoes and flooding.

expanding job market.

"It allows you to embrace your traditions and your uniqueness as a community, but still have the understanding that there is a bigger world out there," he said. "Just because you come from a small town doesn't mean you have to lose your identity when you compete in a global market."

McGovern also wanted to find a way to honor the school's academic program - not just sports teams and other extracurricular activities.

"Most of our people go on to do something (in their) professional lives that has nothing to do with sports," said McGovern. "What we want to do is show (students) how they can contribute to society and how they can be successful."

The program will run through homecoming week at the high school. Speakers will present to classes during the day and at the football game, a ceremony will be held to honor the guests. Biographical information will be presented to the crowd and each speaker will receive a plaque, commemorating his or her participation as a Knight of the Round Table.
