natural gas development as a principal permitted use, but Carson Helfrich of Community Planning and Management LLC said townships have to provide space for companies looking to develop in the area.

Planning commission chairman Frank Hilstosky said he would like to see information about pipeline setbacks in the new ordinance, as well.

"You can't just eliminate any of that ... I think we have to address it," he said.

Hilstosky said while some property owners can sign an easement for a pipeline, neighbors need their safety ensured.

"At least we should be looking at what the recommendation is as a setback for an existing dwelling," he said, "so they don't put it right next to the boundary line and say, 'Well, you don't (have) zoning.'"

Williams Field Services LLC plans to run some of its 33-mile Springville Gathering Line through Franklin Township, and while neighboring Dallas Township maintains local zoning laws apply to natural gas pipelines, Helfrich believes approval is left to the federal government.

"There should be state recommendations," he said.

The planning commission will review the drafted ordinance at its meetings on the last Monday of the month for the next several months. The board of supervisors will need the commission's recommendation and will need to conduct a public hearing before the document can be passed.

Wurfel testified the project fits into the characteristics of the area because of an existing pipeline, the Transco interstate pipeline, and electrical power lines.

He also said the permits required for completion of the project from organizations such as the state Department of Environmental Protection and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers ensure certain aspects of the land, including wetlands and endangered species, are not disturbed.

"I believe the pollution emitted from the site is insignificant," he said.

Board member Bob Bayer asked Wurfel what company will be responsible for maintaining the site - he said in previous testimony offered by Wurfel and operations manager Steve Hamilton, Transco would take part in some of the operations at the unmanned facility.

Wurfel said Transco will monitor the data measured at the metering station and operate a valve from which natural gas from Chief's pipeline would be transmitted into the Transco line. Chief would be responsible for the metering site and pipeline integrity management program.

"It will be a Chief-owned facility; it will be a Chief-operated facility. We are responsible for the integrity management system," he said. "However, there are parts of the facility that Transco is responsible for."

Wurfel maintained that any emergency situation at the site, whether it involved Transco's valve or Chief's pipeline, would be handled immediately by a Chief employee.

Ostrowski's bases-loaded base hit lifts Blue to win

Brett Ostrowski delivered a walk-off base hit with the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh inning and Back Mountain Blue defeated Back Mountain Royal, 9-8, in a thrilling extra-inning game.

The game saw several lead changes with Royal coming back from a 6-4 deficit to take an 8-6 lead in the top of the sixth led by a key hit by Sam Nocito, followed by Blue scoring two runs in the bottom of the sixth to send it into extra innings led by a key hit by Kyle Sincavage. minds him of the days of firemen's bazaars at the lake - and he hopes to see more resident volunteers keep that tradition going.

"Public officials are stepping back and it's nice to see the residents themselves still interested in doing things for the community," he said.

The Harveys Lake Homecoming has a host of new events - from a wing-eating contest to a kayak race, everyone will be able to find something to enjoy.

Friday is the kick-off night with the annual Homecoming Dance from 6 to 11 p.m. at the Harveys Lake Beach Club. The committee opted to hire a live band, Strawberry Jam, instead of a D.J. for this year's fete.

Saturday is Kids Day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the beach, sponsored by the Harveys Lake Fire Department. In addition to the splashy fun and games, Harveys Lake Fire Chief Dave Davis said homecoming is a chance for kids to learn about fire safety, too.

This year the event will feature a "smoke house" from the Nanticoke Fire Department which aims to teach kids how to recognize if a fire has broken out and how to get out of the situation safely.

"We do a little spiel about touching the handles of pots, how to check a door if a fire has broken out. There are smoke alarms, a smoke machine - the whole nine yards," he said.

The fire department will also host a chicken barbeque for the first time along with the Kunkle Fire Department. Not to worry - the same satisfying fare from years past, like hot dogs, hamburgers and French fries, will be available as well.

Save room for Sunday - the firemen's pie-eating contest and a wing-eating contest will keep things sweet and spicy.

Amy Williams said, hopefully, there won't be any mishaps like last year, when, instead of pie, the homecoming gods said, "Let them eat cake." She said there was a miscommunication with the pie supplier the day of the contest and a committee member was given several cakes for the firemen's consumption.

"You can only eat so much cake," said Rich Williams, laughing.
