

'Tiny Treasures' will be exhibited

Adult and teen artists who study with Sue Hand will exhibit their "Tiny Treasures" and miniatures (small art works in drawing and painting media) on April 5, 6 and 7 at Sue Hand's Imagery, 35 Main St., Dallas, during the studio's Spring Exhibit.

Miniature art is one of the oldest and most respected art techniques of the Western world, originally used as the forerunner of today's digital camera to produce portraits and capture memories.

The exhibit will include miniature landscapes, seascapes, still lifes, animals and figure studies. Over two dozen of the artworks include small works and miniatures of The Lands at Hillside Farms and other local landmarks. Hand will exhibit miniatures in oil, acrylic and watercolor. A wide range of additional compositions will be exhibited by teen and adult students.

Miniature artworks by art students of Sue Hand's Imagery will be displayed during the studio's Spring Exhibit.

The largest artworks are a mere 5X7 inches in size. The smallest are one-inch square. Visitors may wish to bring along a magnifying glass to view the display! Studio hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, April 5 and 6; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 7.

PEOPLE BRIEF

John Metz accepts PSU appointment

John Metz, executive chairman for Metz Culinary Management, Dallas, has accepted the appointment as the next Walter J. Conti Professor of Hospitality Management in Penn State's College of Health and Human Development for the spring 2012 semester.

The Conti Professorship Program recognizes leaders within the hospitality industry and invites them to visit the school to interact with students and faculty and present guest lectures.

Metz began his career in the food service management industry in 1967 with the founding of Custom Management Corporation.

Custom Management Corporation was acquired by Morrison's Hospitality Group, during which John Metz oversaw the growth of more than 900 accounts.

In 1993, Metz was awarded franchise rights from T.G.I. Friday's restaurant chain and currently operates 13 franchises across New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

In 1994, Metz introduced Metz and Associates, Ltd., the management company for dining services, which expanded into facilities management in 2000.
