

Blue Cross employee Kate Orlando, of West Wyoming, plants shrubs at The Lands at Hillside Farms as part of National Volunteer Week.

Lending a hand

Employee volunteers from Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania supported The Lands at Hillside Farms during National Volunteer Week. Volunteers helped trim bushes and weed flower beds for spring planting at the Shavertown farm. National Volunteer Week, April 15-21, celebrates the power that volunteers have to inspire the people they help, as well as to inspire others to serve. Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania created the Caring Corps Employee Volunteer Program in 2005. Throughout the year, BCNEPA employees are encouraged to volunteer in the community through BCNEPA's Progress Volunteer Day policy, which provides paid time off for community service projects.
