requests. "She would drive right past it and say, 'If you listen, then you can have play today.' It took my oldest brother a few drive-bys to learn to leave on time," she said. "Luckily for me, being the youngest child, I don't remember ever having to drive by because my brothers always dragged me out on time, no matter how much I refused to go."

She told the audience of classmates, teachers, administrators and parents that living in Lehman meant knowing someone wherever you go and that school was like being in a family.

Holena read a poem called "The Dash," by Linda Ellis, which refers to the dash between a person's birth and death date.

"We've all just lived our dash that began on September 7, 1999 and is ending today on June 13, 2012," she said. "It's not these two dates that matter, but the dash in between them. Are you proud of the way you lived your Lake-Lehman dash?"

Salutatorian Kristen Boyle told her fellow seniors that obstacles are there for a reason — they're an opportunity for greater achievement.

"Whether it be mental, physical or emotional, there are brick walls out there for us to take on and conquer," she said.

ing chorus practice should make students aware of these patterns in life.

Superintendent Frank Galicki spoke about the importance of parents in students' educational lives and imparted some advice on the graduates.

He read a passage entitled "Things I Owe My Parents," a witty take on the lessons one might indirectly learn from his or her family.

He told the graduates to do more than people would expect, learn how to mitigate life through thinking responsibly and treat others with respect.

"Remember, great love and great achievements involve great risks," said Galicki.
