the market fresh and give patrons something to look forward during the dog days of summer, said Grant.

He also said the market tends to attract customers from faraway places.

"We see people coming in from out of state," said Grant. "When people are parking, the library board members like to look at license plates, and last year we saw people from Montana, Alaska, New Jersey, Connecticut, Kentucky. It's interesting to see."

Grant said this year the farmers' market is more important than ever for the vendors who sell there — after last year's historic flooding, many of the vendors suffered great losses.

"Every year it builds. I started doing this three years ago, and I see the volume increasing and more and more people getting out," said Grant. "We want to help our vendors, as last year was difficult year rain and flooding. We actually lost one of our vendors last year that got flooded. We're hoping vendors do well."

the township that PVR Partners, formerly Chief Gathering, has filed for an erosion and sediment control general permit for its Wyoming County pipeline project. The township has 30 days to comment on the project.

Supervisors addressed a concern from Goodleigh Road resident Jeff Dickson, who said there are issues with dust and debris from vehicles traveling on the road due to pipeline construction activity.

Supervisor Frank Wagner said he travels that road often and doesn't believe there is a concerning amount of debris on the road. Grant asked Wagner to check the road a few times daily to inspect the dust amounts and determine whether the supervisors should take action.

In other news...

Supervisors are looking for a representative to the Dallas Area Municipal Authority board for a five-year term to begin on Jan. 1, 2013. Interested residents should send a letter of interest and a resume to the township office before July 17.

Roadmaster Martin Barry discussed several paving and infrastructure projects needed to be completed this year, which he estimates will cost about $165,000. Grant said there is currently about $204,000 in the budget for road improvements, and said extra funds can be pulled from the snow removal budget if needed, depending on whether the winter is mild.

Those street projects include work on Glendalough Road, Second Street, Kingswood Drive, Westminster Drive, Kimberly Drive and Reservoir Road.

The supervisors also discussed getting legal help with cable franchise renewal, releasing the Dallas School District of its construction surety bond related to the new high school, finalizing the township employee handbook and adopting a fireworks ordinance for next

The next Dallas Township Board of Supervisors meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 17 in the municipal building. A hearing will be held at 7 p.m. about changes in the township floodplain ordinance.

serve the honor.

"When you walk by this wall, you have to say thank you," he said.

Retired U.S. Army Lt. Col. Rev. Dr. William Lewis explained each emblem on the wall, making sure those in attendance knew there were only three secretaries in the U.S. Department of Defense, despite there being five military factions.

"The Marine Corps answers to the Secretary of the Navy," he said. "And the Coast Guard answers to the Secretary of Homeland Defense, but during wartime, it answers to the Secretary of the Navy."

The Secretary of the Army and the Secretary of the Air Force delegate to their corresponding military factions.

Lewis said he hopes to have a plaque on the wall explaining that information so those examining the wall can have a better understanding of the military.

said, though others disagreed.

Mohen was a cheerleader who married her high school sweetheart — a football player, who also played several other sports.

Gene Mohen, the former class president, broke someone's leg the first time he tried wrestling while in high school.

"He could sing, too," joked Sgarlat. "He sang, 'If I Were a Rich Man.'"

"I'm still singing it," quipped Gene Mohen.

Harveys Lake Borough Councilwoman Michelle Boice joined in with the laughter, and said the group was pretty rowdy at its earlier reunions, although she declined to elaborate.

McGee enjoys attending reunions because it's nice to see the classmates she shared so much with when she was younger.

"It's fun to see how everyone is doing and how everyone has changed," she said. "We like to reminisce. I don't think we've changed very much."

Sgarlat said being with her former classmates is such an enjoyable experience, she decided to hold a reunion every year now on to keep in touch.

"It's part of who we are. School shapes the person who you will be forever and ever and ever," she said. "We share so much history. And we had (Berwick) Coach (George) Curry first!"
