Camp allows youths to learn the game

The Lake-Lehman School District held its annual youth boys basketball camp recently.

Jared James organized the camp as his senior project with the help of his varsity coach Brian Cutter and members of the varsity basketball team, including Adam Dizbon, Cody Paraschak, Ben Pilch, Tyler Bonner, Bill Hillman, Mike Simeon and Kyle James.

The camp ran from July 16-20 and was attended by 40 youths.

This year's camp saw a wide variety of both boys and girls from the Lake-Lehman and Dallas school districts whose ages ranged from 8 to 13. They were instructed on new stretches, drills, movies and fundamentals of the game and were all able to see improvement in their skills throughout the week.

The camp also saw guest appearances from Trevor Woodruff, head basketball coach at Misericordia University, and John Szela, director of Proshot Basketball Camp, who both worked with the young cagers on shooting and ball handling drills.

Each participant received an NBA t-shirt and Lake-Lehman hand towel. Other prizes, such as basketballs, arm sleeves and medals, were distributed to the winners at the end of the camp. The camp concluded with a pizza party in the cafeteria for everyone who attended.

All monies raised will help support the Lake-Lehman basketball program.

B TEAM

Dallas 20
WWWE 12

The Dallas Jr. Mounts and the Wyoming/West Wyoming/Exeter Panthers squared off in the battle of the unbeaten on Sunday with the Jr. Mounts coming away with a 20-12 victory.

The Panthers took an early 6-point lead, but Dallas countered with a Todd Phillips to Steven Newell touchdown pass. Sean Cuba, Matt Fararra and Blake Chopyak provided the protection and opened the holes the offense needed.

Newell added two second-half touchdown runs. Then Hunter Love, Jack Zeyher and Xander Shaner and the rest of the Dallas defense took over the game.

Love made multiple stops in the backfield as the Panthers kept trying to get to the outside but he wouldn't let them.

Next up for the Jr. Mounts are the Kingston Huskies.

Soggy loss for Dallas

The violent wind blew the heavy rain nearly sideways at times at Mountaineer Stadium last Saturday afternoon while fans held tightly to umbrellas, some of which blew inside out when greeted with big-gust gusts.

First-year Dallas football coach Bob Zaruta cited reasons other than the weather for this team's 28-7 loss to Abington Heights — mistakes and missed opportunities.

One big mistake came on the ensuing kickoff after Dallas took a 7-0 lead on a 31-yard touchdown pass from Ryan Zapoticky to Darik Johnson at 2:56 of the first quarter.

Another came late in the third quarter when Abington receiver J.C. Show got past the Dallas secondary, hauling in a 55-yard touchdown pass for a 21-7 lead.

The Mountaineers pulled off a successful fake punt after the second Abington fumble — successful until the Comets recovered a fumble at the end of the run.

Abington scored its last touchdown with 7:38 left in the fourth quarter when the Comets took advantage of a short punt and Dallas' inability to sniff out a screen pass on a fourth-and-7 on the 11-play, 32-yard drive.

Dallas football fans weather the storm while watching a game against Abington Heights.
