

Woodworth displays work at Citizens Bank

The Forty Fort branch of Citizens Bank is exhibiting artwork by Charles "Woody" Woodworth, a well-known artist from Hunlock Creek. The exhibit features a display of ecclesiastical architecture created in a variety of artistic media. Included are images of St. John's Church, St. Peter's United Church of Christ, St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church, St. John the Baptist Church, Fairmount Springs United Methodist Church and Reyburn Bible Church.

Woodworth has been painting and drawing for decades. He is retired from Design Galleries as an assistant director.

The public is invited to view this exhibit in the lobby of Citizens Bank, Wyoming Avenue and Welles Street, Forty Fort through the end of March.

This will be final year for Hometown Heroes Project

The Dallas Lions Club started its Hometown Hero Banner Project in 2011 to honor local veterans, both past and present for their service to our country.

The project was very well received with a lot of local support and positive comments and, although it was established as a one-year event, the Lions received many requests for sponsorships after the cutoff date.

To satisfy those new requests, the Lions Club extended the project through 2012.

Again in 2012, there were many requests received for sponsorships after the cutoff date.

The 2013 cutoff date is March 31 and this will be the final year for the Lions Hometown Hero Banner Project.

As was the case in previous years, all former banners will be on display with the new 2013 banners.

Frontier Communications supplies the manpower to secure and remove the banners to the poles. Without their support, this endeavor would not have been possible.

The Lions Club anticipates that, with the 2013 sponsors, there will be approximately 100 banners throughout the streets of Dallas.

The banners will be displayed from Memorial Day through Veterans Day. At the conclusion of this year's project, arrangements will be made to distribute the banners to their sponsors or family members.

Sponsorship forms are available at Dallas Borough Office, Back Mountain Memorial Library, Dallas American Legion Post #672 and NAPA Auto Parts, Dallas.

For additional information, contact project chairman Don Berlew at 675-4360 or 760-6147 or any member of the Dallas Lions Club.
