

DALLAS BOROUGH EASTER EGG HUNT

A kind bunny helps Landon Pollock, of Dallas, find some eggs at the Dallas Borough Easter Egg Hunt.

ON THE HUNT

The annual Dallas Borough Easter Egg Hunt was held March 23 at the Kenneth Young Memorial Park on Burndale Road and Luzerne Avenue in the borough. Children ages 1-10 hunted for eggs, played games, enjoyed face painting and a chance to win a raffle basket.

Madelyn Gonzales and Sage Morgan rush onto the tennis court for the annual Dallas Borough Easter Egg Hunt.

Young Kyra Kivler, of Dallas, isn't happy with the big white bunny next to her at the Dallas Borough Easter Egg Hunt. Maybe she'll like him next year.

Marissa Schuler, left, and Alaina Harkins, of Dallas, fill out registration forms and take a chance at the basket raffle during the annual Dallas Borough Easter Egg Hunt.

Steven Carr, of Dallas, and behind him, Sabrina Dourand, Edwardsville, have the greatest affection for the guy in a white suit at the annual Easter Egg Hunt.

CHARLOTTE BARTIZEK PHOTOS/ FOR THE DALLAS POST

BMT Business and Community Expo set for April 17

Misericordia University is hosting the 2013 Back Mountain Chamber Business and Community Expo and the spring meeting of the Back Mountain Historical Association beginning at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, April 17.

Both events are open free to the public and business community. The Expo is being held from 4 to 7 p.m., while the Historical Association's presentation is from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Expo will offer more than 60 Back Mountain businesses and entrepreneurs considering establishing or relocating their businesses to the region an opportunity to showcase their wares and services with prospective clients and fellow business owners.

The Expo also provides businesses a community platform to outline how they contribute to the economic, social and cultural well-being of the Back Mountain.

Student volunteers in Misericordia University's Business Professional Association, as well as students in Penn State-Wilkes-Barre's Ambassador's Club are assisting with organizing and running the event.

The MU and PSU mascots also will make a special appearance along with the mascot from the Wilkes-Barre/Scranton Penguins and Scranton/Wilkes-Barre RailRiders.

An array of door prizes will be awarded to attendees and a display of refreshments will be provided by Gerrity's Supermarkets and Fire and Ice Restaurant.

Businesses can register for limited exhibit space by logging on to www.BackMountainChamber.org

The Expo also provides businesses a community platform to outline how they contribute to the economic, social and cultural well-being of the Back Mountain.

Cousins Ella Fleschut, 7, left, and Madison Fleschut, 8, both of Kingston Township, wear rabbit ears and Wilkes-Barre/Scranton Penguins jerseys to the March 23 Easter egg hunt at Center Street Park in Kingston Township.

Hunting eggs in Kingston Twp.

The annual Kingston Twp. Easter Egg Hunt was held March 23 in Center Street Park.

Jason Puza, 8, of Kingston Township, participates in the egg toss during an Easter Egg Hunt in Kingston Township.

Carolyn Comitz, a kindergartener at Wycallis Elementary School, counts her eggs after an Easter egg hunt in the library.

Eggs hunted at Wycallis Elementary

Students at Wycallis Elementary School combed the school library Monday, looking for Easter eggs that had been hidden for the school's annual Easter egg hunt. Although the students found lots of eggs, it was kindergarten teacher Victoria Flynn who got the best surprise. When Flynn opened an egg marked "Mrs. Flynn," she found a note that said, "Hatching One Kindergarten Child At A Time."

Carter Vidumsky and his classmate Alex Cavanaugh check out what's in the Easter eggs they found during an Easter egg hunt at the Wycallis Elementary School Library.

Madison Eastman and her classmates look for Easter eggs in the Wycallis Elementary Library.

Ashlynn Wolfe, a kindergartener at Wycallis Elementary, shows off her dyed egg.

Children are off and running to hunt Easter eggs at the Center Street Park in Kingston Township on March 23.