

MU grad is external affairs coordinator for Cabot Gas & Oil

To a certain degree, William desRosiers is an explorer.

As an adolescent, he closely examined Mother Earth at his family's aggregate mining business and became keenly aware of her bounties and fragilities. In college, the Highland Falls, N.Y., native learned about the inner workings of state government during an internship, and investigated the role of entrepreneurship in Skopje, Macedonia, and as a contestant in the annual Great Valley Technology Alliance Business Plan Competition.

Today, the enterprising spirit he displayed as an adolescent and collegian is benefiting the emerging natural gas industry in the Marcellus Shale's Susquehanna County region, about a one-hour drive from the Misericordia University campus he called home for six years.

Since 2012, desRosiers has been the external affairs coordinator for Houston, Texas-based Cabot Oil & Gas Corp., serving as the go-to person for educational, charitable, public and government relations and workforce and economic development issues.

"My heart was always in natural resource development," says desRosiers, who received his undergraduate degree in business management and history/pre-law in 2009 from MU. "I love working in an industry where every day natural gas is produced from the Marcellus Shale, the United States is one step closer to energy security. That is something I am very proud of."

Dunkin' Donuts supports St. Joe's

Through a regional in-store fundraiser and contributions from local franchisees, Dunkin' Donuts of Northeastern PA announced it has donated $30,500 to support St. Joseph's Center in Scranton.

It is Dunkin' Donuts' fourth consecutive year working with St. Joseph's Center, donating more than $95,000 in total since their initial fundraising program in 2010. Participating from the

Knights of Columbus donate to families

Continuing with tradition, the Dallas Council of the Knights of Columbus again this year made its annual Thanksgiving donations to Back Mountain organizations. The Council donated $200 each to the following: Gate of Heaven Church, Our Lady of Victory Church and St. Theresa's

Church to provide help to needy families during the Thanksgiving holiday. Pictured making the presentation to the Gate of Heaven Church are,
