LAYTON.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.) LAYTON, N. J., April 27. Mrs. Lester Van Etten remains very feeble. Her illness dates from an attack of measles in midwinter, and her friends feel very solicitous through doubt of her final recovery to health.

A party of light fingered gentry got away with a lot of chickens one night last week that Junior Layton had boxed to take to Fort Jervis next morning. It is supposed they went to Stroudsburg instead. Junior has blood in his eye now, and they say he sleeps with one eye on a musket loaded with buckshot which he will transfer gently to their worthless carcasses when they try that racket again.

Some young people, who annoyed the worshippers at Sunday evening services by their indecorous behavior in the hallway, should be tied to their mothers apron strings yet awhile, or at least until they learn to act like ladies and gentlemen.

I wonder what all our road overseers stones are not thrown out, nor are the roads being worked yet to any extent. Too bad! The early spring and a good road machine for good roads, and economy to tax payers. The time is slipping by.

The last hatchings of eggs are in the incubators at the Pine Hill Farm Poultry yards. When they are out the season will close. There will be about 1000 chicks on hand at that time, and the days will be none too long to meet the 1000 little requirements of this happy family. Should it meet with the approval of ye editor I shall endeavor to briefly describe hatchings, breeds as followed at the Pine Hill Farm Poultry yards.

Two cases of measles in Centerville, not more than usually severe this spring and it is a question if it is worth while to isolate the little folks from it. At this time of year it is not necessarily dangerous under proper care, especially with the children. The mortality among grown people seems to be greater.

Mrs. Ellen Shay after her venue of the 30, will move into the David Lacey house for the balance of the year.

The farm of Oscar Van Auken recently vacated by Linn Debus is now occupied by Will Westbrook of Montague.

Comments upon Rev. Van Ghahsen sermon preached at Centerville last Sunday night were very complimentary. The instructions it contained as to the duties of members of the church were concise and sensible. If the members do not live up to their professions, it is evident that the minister is not to be blamed for not blessing the road.

Mrs. J. N. Miller while moving about her home a few nights ago without a light overturned a wash bowl breaking it. Her foot coming in contact with one of the pieces was severely cut. Doctor took four stitches to close the wound, and enjoins perfect quiet.

H. E. Montross is making repairs to the front of his popular Hotel. We naturally look for a tasty bit of improvement when he gets his hand in.

Quite a bit of joking about the sluice bridge, on the road leading to the river, near Mr. J. B. Youngs is going around. Sold for three dollars and a half, two men built it in three hours, freeholders fee, four dollars. "Whoopie" here is economy, and no water runs through it for ten months of the twelve.

The Hurst brothers at Centerville, Warren C. and George E. Hurst, have completed telephone connection between their homes. Ben. D. Hurst does the line work and that it gives excellent satisfaction goes without saying. Ben is an expert and has the science at his finger tips.

MONTAGUE.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.) MONTAGUE, April 25.—We had a thunder shower last Tuesday evening, also a little hail.

The reformed church Sunday school was reorganized last Sunday with the following officers: Superintendent Lewis Martialis; Assistant Supt. Miss Nettie Brink; Secretary Miss Lottie Lane, Librarian, Chas. Cortright, Assistant Libr. Estor Cole, Treasurer, Nettie Brink; Organist, Miss Maggie Westbrook. The school will meet every Sabbath morning at 9.30. Everybody is invited.

The Leap year social at the reformed church was well attended the young girls took good care of the boys, and everyone had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson, of Arlington are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Godfried Wieland. Miss Lizzie A. Wilson, of Bayone, N. J., is also a visitor at the same place.

Mrs. S. Merrill is on the sicklist. The appointment of Henry Huston as Judge of this county gives entire satisfaction to Democrats and Republicans alike. Shake.

John Vancoy the boss fisherman of the Millville brook caught a three pound sucker the other day.

Arbor day as far as I know was duly observed by the schools in this town.

The boys on the grounds of School house No. 1 have been filled up. Now for the holes on the Stone bridge, and the slab bridge next.

This town has a case or two of chicken-pox.

Geo. Reinhardt has worked the upper end of the Riverroad with the road machine. Now George bring on your gravel, Dick.

LEDGEDALE.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.) LEDGEDALE, April 27. County Supt. Sawyer of Pike county, and John Ball of Honesdale were guests of J. F. Simons last Tuesday night.

Ira Kellam is afflicted with pink eye, also Wm. Kruger and his mother, and a great many others.

Mrs. M. Malson, of Lake Ariel was a caller here last Wednesday.

Mrs. J. F. Simons spent Thursday and Friday with Mrs. Ira Kellam.

Hortin Cross, of Honesdale is visiting his parents in Greentown. A. J. Kimble, of Paupsc and Horton Kimble of the Narrows, came to Ledgedale Saturday night to fish for suckers. We heard that they had fish for breakfast, but they did not get them in Ledgedale just the same. WAYNE CO.

DINGMAN'S FERRY.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.) DINGMAN, Pa., April 28.—George Courtenan, an old resident of Lehman township, departed this life on Thursday night of last week, aged sixty-seven years. His death was due to apoplexy. Deceased was a genial hearted old man, and had many warm friends who deplore his sudden death. He resided near the Middle Bushkill Creek, about three miles from Bushkill village. He is survived by his widow and a large family of children. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon last, and the services were held at Sand Hill church, and were conducted by Rev. Blackwell, assisted by Rev. Price. The attendance at the funeral was very large. A child of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Timman, of Bushkill, died last week. The gentleman who purchased the Phelps J. Howell property, in Lehman, is preparing to erect new buildings thereon.

Ottensheimer's Forest Park will open during the summer for about two months. We are told the greater part of the rooms in this large and picturesque resort are already engaged.

George M. Anst has built a neat dwelling house on the property near W. H. Stoddard's residence, and has chosen a tasty location for the same.

The telephone line from Port Jervis to Bushkill is now completed, the wire and fixtures having been placed in position during the last few days. KIRO.

WOMEN AS TROLLEY CONDUCTORS.
A Day's Receipts Under Such Aspects to Aid a Hospital.

A novel proposition has been made by the Middletown Goshen Traction Company to assist Thrall Hospital, in that city. The company proposes to donate one day's receipts of the electric road to the hospital providing the managers of the institution will select young lady conductors to collect fares on all cars during the day and evening.

Young society women will accept the proposition and hope to give the hospital a great benefit at an early date.

Coal at Marshall's Creek.

A find of coal in the neighborhood of Marshalls creek has thrown that place into a state of much excitement.

While John S. Fish, who has a farm about two and one-half miles from Marshalls creek, was digging along a ledge of rocks on his property his shovel threw up a peculiar black looking substance.

Fish picked up the substance and upon close examination was convinced that it was coal. He carried some to his home and placed it in the fire. He was agreeably surprised to find that it burnt easily though it was composed of a little slate.

Elated with his find he took some of the stuff down to blacksmith Cole who is authority on black diamonds through forty years experience in using them. Cole tried some in his furnace and found that it burnt freely. He stated that the coal is of a superior quality.

Fish will get an expert's opinion of the coal and in the meantime is digging up portions of his farm to see if there are any more traces.

It will be remembered that some time ago coal was discovered at Resica. The whole country within a radius of five miles from Marshall's creek was at one time leased by the Pennsylvania Oil and Gas company who were going to bore for oil, but owing to the company disbanding no operations were made. Monroe county has several times shown evidences of coal, gas and oil.

Mr. Botsford, who is interested in the oil wells near Henryville, was in town Monday and stated that they had bored to a depth of 1600 feet, going through two stratas of rock, finally striking oil, which mixed with water, yields about fifteen barrels a day. He further stated that they would bore still further.—Daily Times. Whilst all hope that coal may be found, the substance discovered by Mr. Fish is probably nothing more than Marcellus shale, which has led many in the past to believe that it is coal.

A Vassar Maiden's Love.
"I wish," said the young man, as the twilight deepened, "I could believe you loved me as much as I love you."

"That," replied the Vassar maiden, "is simplicity itself. Suppose I demonstrate it to you mathematically."

"Well," he responded somewhat doubtfully.

"You and I," continued Miss Axton, "belong to a certain circle, do we not?"

"Yes," he assented.

"Consequently," she said, "we might call ourselves 'radii' of that circle."

The young man nodded.

"Two radii of a circle are equal to a third radius of the same circle." He did not contradict her.

"It is established beyond all possible dispute that things which are equal to the same thing are equal to one another."

The young man was interested, but still puzzled.

"Now," she concluded in triumph "if you and I are both equal to an unknown quantity, which we call X."

"What is X?" he interrupted.

"If, she repeated, "you and I are both equal to X, our mutual love then, as things which are equal to the same thing, are equal to one another, I must love you in the same ratio that you love me."

And he was so satisfied that, not needing any more light on the subject, the gas was not illuminated for fully two hours.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Shating in Summer.
The opening of the St. Nicholas Club skating rink brings one of the most perfect, healthful, and graceful exercises within easy reach of city people. New York knows very little of the practice of skating, no opportunity being afforded between the Battery and the Harlem, except the Central Park lakes, which on the rare occasions when they are frozen over, are covered so thickly by the throngs of skaters that the exercise becomes almost impracticable. The St. Nicholas rink occupies a substantial light, and roomy structure, built for the purpose.

The ice is artificial, and is renewed several times daily, presenting a hard clear and smooth surface, two hundred feet long and about seventy-five feet wide. It is admirably lighted by day and by night. There is no need for the visitor to burden himself or herself with skates; they may be rented at a nominal fee. Uniformed attendants provide for the comfort of visitors, and give instruction. The building is properly warmed, but not heated. If you want heat, you can seek the vicinity of a large open fire-place, in which a wood fire is blazing. The location of the rink is very convenient,—Sixty-six street, just east of the elevated station on Columbus avenue; at hand are the Columbus avenue cable, the Sixth avenue, and the Boulevard cars. There is music afternoon and evening. The St. Nicholas rink is fashionable, and, though the admission fee—fifty cents during the day and seventy-five cents at night—may seem high it serves its purpose in excluding undesirable company.
