One Cent a Word.

For Each Insertion. No advertisement taken for less than 15 cents. CASH must accompany all orders. Address PIKE COUNTY PRESS, MILFORD, PA.

$50 REWARD. This reward will be paid to any person furnishing evidence as to the party who cut the shed out at Conshohocken last week. Apply at this office.

TRESPASS NOTICE. Notice is hereby given that trespassing upon the southern half of the tract of land known as the William Denny, No. 18, in Shohola township, for hunting, fishing, or any other purpose, also trespassing on Sawkill pond in Dingman township, or fishing in it is forbidden under penalty of the law. M. CLEVELAND MILNER, Attorney for owner.

FOR RENT. Several good houses in Milford, Pa. Enquire of J. H. Van Etten.

TRESPASS NOTICE. Notice is hereby given that trespassing upon the property of the Forest Lake Association in Lackawanna township, Pike county, Pa., for the purpose of hunting and fishing, or any other purpose is strictly forbidden under penalty of the law. ALEXANDER HADDES, President.

TRESPASS NOTICE. Notice is hereby given that trespassing on the premises of the undersigned, situated in Dingman township, for any purpose whatsoever is strictly forbidden, and all offenders will be promptly prosecuted. I. H. B. CASE, Esq.

FOR SALE. A small farm located near Matamoras, known as the Hensel or Reinhardt place, containing 21 acres. Finely located, well watered. House and barn. Fruit of all kinds. Part improved. This clear. For terms, price, etc., address Lock box 6 Milford, Pa.

$20 REWARD. The school directors of Dingman township will pay twenty dollars for information which will lead to the detection and conviction of any person or persons committing any trespass or doing any damage to any school house or property therein in said township. By order of the board, Nov. 7, 1895. I. H. B. CASE, Sec.

Correspondence.

Correspondents are particularly requested to send in all news intended for publication not later than Wednesday in each week to insure insertion.

LAYTON.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.) LAYTON, June 9.—A sort of blight is affecting many young apple trees in this section, patches of leaves die suddenly as if stung by some insect. Sometimes it is the tips of the branches and again a cluster of leaves along a large limb. The wood dies where affected and the little apples turn brown and decay at once. It is very rapid in its action, and if it continues to spread may become a serious drawback to apple culture.

E. C. Malnes Supt. of the Sussex county Alma House was caught by your correspondent last Saturday with his sleeves rolled up and his hands to the plow, not cultivator. He was personally tending a fine field of beets, grown for stock feeding. He assured me that they indicated a great flow of milk, and were especially valuable as a winter food. The product from an acre is immense. My attention was called to a small piece of ground which produced 600 bushels of beets last year. There might have been an acre but it did not look it. He has increased the planting this year. Mr. Malnes is a practical and progressive farmer, and a hustler all the time. Evidently the right man in the right place.

For the last four years the banks have held a close grip on gold. Now the country banks are paying out some to their customers. Yes, gold will be very plenty now until election, and then if the silver tidal wave is split up, it will soon find its way back to their vaults again. Twenty years of great inings for the banks and money handlers. What they have gained some one has lost. The banks a thousand millions richer, the agriculturist a thousand millions poorer, key?

An artist in company of Thomas Dutton of Montague, photographed the Hainesville school last week. The pictures when finished will be on an exhibition at the store, and the price twenty-five cents each.

"Send Burr" refers in his Gazette items to the disappointment of the audience at not finding the school room trimmed with acrobats on last day of school, May 26th. Send Burr must have a jag on again, or he would know that the blooming season their early days will influence their whole life in many cases, and cause them to lead a life of rectitude, happiness, and of usefulness.

Last Saturday forenoon Mrs. Mary A. Young's house, located on Dingman's Creek, near Cole's school house, caught fire from the chimney and burned down, together with the greater part of the contents. It is said Mrs. Young had risen early, prepared breakfast for her son, who was going away to work, and had then lain down again and fell into a sleep. Later, the family of John C. Titman saw the roof was burning fiercely, and rushed down to Mrs. Young's assistance. They her found down stairs asleep, and roused her only a few seconds before the roof fell in. Very few things were saved. We understand the building was insured for a hundred dollars, or thereabout, but this will not nearly cover the loss. The deepest sympathies are with Mrs. Young, who is old, feeble, and is now inconsolable. Her children, however, will do the best they can to lighten her troubles.

John C. Smith has lately had his residence enlarged, and refitted and is now situated comfortably and conveniently in every way. G. Y. Crane and son did the work.

James B. Angle is suffering from some singular disease of the pulmonary organs, and is in a serious condition, although able to be around. Mr. Angle has always been remarkably rugged and healthy until this affliction fell upon him. We are told that one of the features of the disease is that one lung is surrounded, or partially filled with a watery substance.

Miss Lizette North is on a visit to friends and relatives in Brooklyn, at present.

Judge Horroch has purchased the property known as the J. Wilson Van Gordon estate. The purchase was made a month or two since. The family, however, occupy the house of the heirs of C. McCarty, at Dingmans.

In tracing old surveys, dating back a century or more, one will notice numerous offsets in the lines in order to circumscribe as many swamps as possible, in almost every instance. This was done purposely, we have been frequently told, as the belief was current in those days that hemp could be easily and profitably grown upon ground of that character, and purchasers were eager to secure as much territory of that description as possible. Later, it was found the marshes, fens and swamps of this locality were not at all adapted to the purpose, and thus it transpires a great majority of the original surveys enclose one or more of these unprofitable and useless areas.

MONTAGUE.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.) MONTAGUE, June 7.—Gutter mud, O, how dusty!

Mrs. Lundy is on the mend. Mrs. Anna Shiner, of Port Jervis, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Westbrook.

Miss Anna Stephens and Miss Bella Ferguson, of Port Jervis, are visitors at the Riverside.

Miss Josie North, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. North.

Mr. A. Jewell, of Brooklyn, is stopping a few days at Maple Grove. Our blacksmith at Millville reports business brisk.

Jas. B. Kerr has been engaged by Mr. Andrew Yetter to run the steam saw mill. Geo. Armstrong is building an addition to his barn.

Fred Reinhardt has sold the Bull place near Tri-States to John Shields, of Port Jervis, for $1,000.

Children's day at the Sabbath schools of this town June 14th. Strawberries are getting ready for market, Reinhardt Bros. and Mrs. Julia Kerr each expect a fair crop.

At the Birthplace of Golf.

Many of the golf enthusiasts of this country put the old town of St. Andrews, Scotland, in their European itinerary for a look at its links. For over 400 years this Scottish place has been famous as the home of golf, and the links are well worth a visit by any lover of the game. They are laid out beyond the town on the bay of St. Andrews, with the Grampian hills in the background. The links have 18 holes, most of them named, as the hole of the Cross, the Ginger Beer hole, the High hole and the Short hole. One of the bunkers is suggestively called Hell, and a beautiful piece of level turf is naturally the Elysian fields. The longest distance between the holes is 60 yards, and the entire round nearly five miles.—Buffalo Express.

About Children Hiding Bicycles.

The best physicians are agreed that it is an exceedingly injurious thing to carry small children, particularly those under 5 years of age, on bicycles. The jarring affects the stomach and back and brain of the children who are unfortunate enough to have bicycle cranks for parents and is injurious in other ways. The proposals to legislate against the practice seem impracticable, and the only solution of the evil seems to be the creation of a healthy sentiment in opposition to the custom. Perhaps, also in extreme cases the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children may be able under the existing laws to deal with the erring parents, who, however, are not likely to insist upon their rights to injure their children if the facts are made clear to them.

Her Turn Coming.

Jessie—How is Mr. A. Klein getting along? Has he proposed yet?

Della—No; but he's improving. The first night he called he held the album in his hands all evening, the second night he had my pug-dog in his arms, last night he held Willie on his lap for an hour. I have hopes.

The morning hour has gold in its mouth.—Benjamin Franklin.

Literary Notes.

The White Pine. By Gifford Pinchot and Henry S. Graves. 12 mo. 102 pages. Bound in cloth. Published by the Century Company, New York.

This interesting little volume was compiled from sylvicultural notes made by Mr. Graves principally in the lumbering regions of central Pennsylvania, with some few measurements from New York, the general plan of work and forming of conclusions being done by Mr. Pinchot.

It contains chapters on the growth situation and occurrence, the trees found growing with the pine, its natural enemies, fire and wind, together with yield tables of volume, etc., illustrated by curves for average height and diameter, volume and yield of merchantable timber, closing with a table of diameters and areas of circles. These tables and curves were made from a large number of trees which were cut in lumbering operations. This shows that on land of the first quality the largest mean annual increment per year in merchantable timber, per scale board foot, was in a white pine tree from 130 to 140 years old, the age necessary to secure the best results increasing as the ground becomes poorer: in third quality soil being found at an age of about 210 years. This illustrates the folly of cutting young white pine timber, as is often done, at a time when it is really only commencing to give the best returns, and should be of value to those persons who are interested in the growing or cutting of white pine.—Forest Leaves.

State Nicknames.

Pennsylvania is called the Keystone State.

Kentucky is known as the Corn-cracker State, from a game bird enjoying the same name which was formerly found in most parts of the State. It is called the Blue Grass State.

Delaware has been called the Blue Hen State.

Ohio was early called the Buck-eye State.

New York was long ago denominated the Empire State.

Iowa almost from the day of its admission has been called the Hawkeye. Hawkeye was the name of a noted Indian chief.

Michigan is known as the Wolverine State.

Texas is called the Lone Star State from the single star in the arms of the commonwealth.

Indiana is called the Hoosier State.

Maine is called the Pine Tree State.

Nevada has two nicknames—the Silver State and the Sage Brush State.

Georgians are Buzzards, from a State law protecting these birds.

North Carolinians are called Tarheels, from a leading industry.

Marylanders are Craw Thumpers, a slang name for the lobster.

South Carolina is the Palmetto State.

Delaware people are called Musk-rats.

The people of Oregon are Webfeet. West Virginians are Panhandle-ites.

New Yorkers are Knickerbockers. Texans are Beehounds.

Nevadans are Sage Hens. Kansans are Jayhawkers.

Ripans Tabules: for sour stomach. Ripans Tabules: pleasant laxative. Ripans Tabules cure liver troubles.

East at Lafayette.

Easton, June 1.—Four students have been suspended from Lafayette College for hazing, and others are to go. The men suspended are all east for prominent parts in the sophomore play to be given at commencement, and the performance is to be abandoned.

One freshman was badly frightened by discharges of fireworks. It is said another was initiated into a new fraternity and that he was branded by cigars as part of the ceremony. Another story is that of a freshman who was made to exercise considerably, put through track athletic training and then rubbed down with sand.

Bigotry.

Bigotry has no head and cannot think no heart and cannot feel. When she moves, it is in wrath: when she pauses, it is amid ruin. Her prayers are curses; her God is a demon; her communion is death; her vengeance is eternity; her decalogue written in the blood of her victims, and if she stops a moment in her infernal flight it is upon a kindred rock, to what her vulture fang for a more sanguinary desolation.—Daniel O'Connell.

Words of Praise for Rev. Jas. A. McGowan.

The Monticello Republican and Monticello Watchman in noting the departure from that village of Rev. Jas. A. McGowan for his new charge at Pine Plains, Dutchess county, N. Y., have generous words of praise for that clergyman. The Watchman says:

We do not know nor care to know the cause of the differences that have existed in his church here, and which have led to his separation from our community, but we know that he will carry with him to his new abode the esteem of hundreds of friends in other denominations, as well as his own. He is an able and eloquent sermonizer and as a Christian pastor he has labored in his Master's vineyard without taking thought for the morrow, or for his own health and comfort. He has prayed by the bedside of the sick and dying, cheered the discouraged and despondent and buried the dead. In work he has not been "all things to all men."

William H. Wanamaker of Philadelphia in a quaint "ad" suggests that too many people have an idea that his brother John owns considerable more than he really does, and, while giving him credit for being a fairly shrewd and successful business man yet he wants it distinctly understood that he and John are two persons, and that he is quite a somebody in that line himself, and owns Oak Hall and its two branches individually and in propria persona. It is rather humiliating to stand in the shadow of a big man.

The Flat Headed Borer.

This insect which is so destructive to young orchards is the larvae of a small beetle which may be seen any warm day in June. It is of a beautiful greenish color and about half the size of a potato bug. The eggs are laid in June and July, and the borers work under the bark, and in a few weeks kill the tree.

Dissolve a bar or two of soap in a pail of water, add two tablespoonfuls of crude carbolic acid, mix well and apply with a white wash brush to the trunks early in June and again in the fore part of July.
