Rules of the Road. Arthur Zimmerman says in the New Jersey Courier: Always observe the rules of the road.

When escorting a woman, should you come up behind a team at such a time that you will be forced to pass between it and another team.

At the corner, if you see a party of cyclists on the cross street, slow up a bit, until you ascertain which of the three possible courses they mean to take.

Never be ashamed to dismount. If you meet a runaway, a brass band, a lot of children, or a group of wheelmen filling the street you will do better on the ground.

If cyclists would adhere to these rules, so far as practicable, there would be fewer "road hogs" among riders and an end to complaining.

KIRKPATRICK FOR CONGRESS.

His Triumphant Tour in Pike County.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETINGS.

Large Crowds and Great Interest—The Court House Filled with a Large Number of People—Many Democrats in Attendance—The Milford Republican Club Attended in a Body—Cordial Greetings Everywhere for Our Next Congressman.

Our people had the pleasure last Thursday and Friday of meeting and hearing Hon. W. S. Kirkpatrick and his able lieutenants, Aaron Goldsmith and Russell C. Stewart, Esqs., of Easton. The two former came up from Stroudsburg and held a meeting at Dingmans on Thursday which was largely attended by the citizens of that place.

In the evening they addressed an audience in the Court House at Milford the like of which has not been assembled within that room in its history of over twenty years. A large number of ladies, many Democrats and an overflowing crowd of Republicans greeted the speakers.

Mr. Goldsmith in a careful and masterly manner elucidated the money question. His exposition of the false and delusive promises of the free silverites was received with rounds of applause and elicited on all sides the heartiest commendation. It was unanswerable as an argument and irresistible as a logical demonstration of that fallacious and cowardly doctrine.

He was followed by Judge Kirkpatrick who for an hour held the listening crowd in rapt attention. Never before was a subject more directly and cogently managed as he in clear language and effective, eloquent diction placed before his hearers the duty of all patriotic, honest men in this hour of the nation's extremity to wrest from the grasp of those who would drag our fair name and fame through the mire of anarchy and repudiation, the standard of democracy which they stand at Chicago and have unfurled over their heads.

He pointed out that the great leaders of the Democratic party: Thomas Jefferson whose hand traced and whose brain conceived the immortal Declaration of Independence, Alexander Hamilton who was the father of its financial principles, Andrew Jackson whose sturdy sense stood as a wall of adamant for its doctrines, Samuel J. Tilden, Samuel Randall, Grover Cleveland, John G. Carlisle, William C. Whitney, Governor Flower, Governor Russell, candidate for Governor Slinger and in fact all the men representing the brains and influence of the party in the past and the present, were arrayed against the free silver heresy of the Boy Orator Bryan and his condignators the silver mine owners.

His speech made an excellent impression and those who came to hear the truth went away satisfied with the man and his capacity to represent this district as she has never before been represented, and the few doubting Thomases who came to scoff went home carrying the impression that here was an earnest able man presenting facts and statistics with a candor which compelled attention, and with a force of reasoning which convicted.

At Lackawaxen on Friday afternoon a large meeting was held in the pavillion of the New York Hotel. Here Russell C. Stewart and Judge Kirkpatrick addressed the citizens after the meeting was organized by electing C. C. Shannon, chairman. Men came from all parts of the township and all were loud in expressions of satisfaction arising from the addresses made.

In the evening Millott's Hall at Matamoras could not contain a meeting presided over by Moses C. Cole, Esq. Many could not gain entrance, and were forced to remain away. Messrs Stewart, Kirkpatrick and Goldsmith were the speakers and were greeted with the same enthusiastic demonstrations as they met with elsewhere. A number were present from Port Jervis, and all united in expressing the belief that Matamoras would far out do the vote of 1894 when Hart the home candidate received a bare majority of 9. A careful student of these meetings cannot fail to be convinced that there is in this "one green spot" a determination to take itself out of the greenness and rank with other counties which have thrown off the yoke of Democratic oppression and partisan darkness. Our people this year are thinking, and we believe they will vote their convictions undeterred by any snap of party whip or unflinching by the cajolery of party regularity.

Vote W. S. Kirkpatrick for Congress.

OBITUARY.

NANCY ELIZA KILSBY. There passed away on Sunday morning Oct. 18, a quiet, cheerful life, beautiful in home radiance and delicate in the perfume of a conscientious Christianity a life like a flower in some hidden nook by the waters seldom seen and only rarely lifting its modest head to the occasional traveller, but which sheds within its bounds a brightness which adorns and a sweetness which charms and compels attention.

Mrs. Kilsby was a most lovely woman, her character was of that unassuming and secluded nature which does not shine outside its immediate home circle, but there it illumines and radiates. Born in Dingman township, Feb. 13, 1839 she has always resided in the home in which her life was ended. Her illness only ante dated for a few days her passing away. With a constitution naturally delicate it needed only the grasp of pneumonia to shake off the fetters which bound her to this life of toil and care, and allow her spirit to enter upon its everlasting reward.

She leaves a husband John W. Kilsby, childless and alone to mourn his irreparable loss. She is also survived by one brother, D. V. Drake and one sister, Mrs. Sarah E. Partridge, of Brooklyn. The funeral was held from her late residence Tuesday, Rev. Thos. Nichols officiating and her remains were laid at rest in our beautiful home of the dead.

Loss on the road between Gordon's mill and Travis place Sunday last a lap blanket, yellow and black plaid on one side and black on the other. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving same at Angle's blacksmith shop.

Chainless Wheels. The bicycle of the future it is said will be chainless. Inventors have for some time been busy in an attempt to construct wheels without the chain and sprocket method of transmitting power. A beveled gear closely encased so that it will escape dust, with ball bearings, will be used if this device is successful it will have many advantages over the present machine, especially in ladies wheels, as it will relieve it from the weight of both the chain, and guard now necessary to prevent the skirts from becoming entangled. The new model is said to be lighter running and an easier hill climber, besides presenting a neater and more compact appearance.

THE TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.

It Will Convene at the Court House Monday, Oct. 26 at 2 p. m.

Able Instructors Are Engaged to Be Present — Superintendent Sawyer Promises Unusually Interesting Sessions—Notes, etc.

The teachers of the County are no doubt looking forward to next week when the monotony of their daily routine will be broken by the institute and they will have an opportunity of adding much to their store of information by listening to able and experienced instructors and exchanging views as to the methods they pursue in school room work. That they may not meet with disappointment, Prof. Sawyer has secured the services of men of recognized ability and success in school work and these aided by local talent will furnish a week of genuine enjoyment and instruction.

It is earnestly hoped that as many directors as can will be present and all friends of education are cordially invited. The daily instruction will be given by Prof. Geo. W. Twitmeier formerly of Honesdale, but now principal of the Bethlehem East Stroudsburg State Normal and by Prof. W. H. Detwiler, of the Bloomsburg Normal. Tuesday evening Prof. Twitmeier will lecture, Wednesday evening Prof Kemp and Thursday evening will be occupied with a varied program in which several speakers will take part and specially prepared essays will be read. Music under the direction of Miss Lila Van Etten of the Milford Graded school will be made a prominent feature of the proceedings. It is the earnest desire of Prof. Sawyer to make this Institute a complete success, and this can only be done by each teacher coming prepared to actively participate and not be a mere passive recipient of the knowledge and experience poured out by others.

Republicans, Attention!

An important meeting will be held at the Headquarters on Tuesday evening, Oct. 27th. A large attendance is requested. Make the meeting a success.

Oil in Wayne County. Leases for lands in South Canaan, Wayne county, are being procured. The consideration is $1 and one-eighth of the value of all oils or minerals discovered. They are for two years, and in some cases there is an option to purchase. Some years since a large number of leases were obtained on lands in Pike by the East Penn oil and gas company which were recorded, but nothing more has been done. The real interest of the lessees was never clearly known, but they must have had some object for nearly $500 was spent in having them recorded besides the expense of several men for nearly a month in obtaining them.

Postoffice Robberies. Possibly the same gang of burglars which operated on our Postoffice here has been successfully following the same line of business in Monroe. The safe of the Cresco office was blown open last week and the rear of the building considerably damaged. They got about $100 in silver currency. They are evidently well supplied with dynamite for they make complete wrecks of safes they attack.

They also entered the office at Mountain Home the same night where they pried open the safe with a chisel and yokes, furnished to order. Office at farm, Layton, N. J.

Pine Hill Farm. G. E. Hursh, proprietor. Rose comb white leghorns, eggs for hatching, broilers in season and dealer in poultry supplies, incubator, brooders, wire netting, roasting folt, etc. Trees, plants and vines, furnished to order. Office at farm, Layton, N. J.

THE DEMOCRATS PARADE.

Their Orators Speechify a Little, and delight the Audience.

On Monday according to time honored custom our friends had their annual meeting. It was enlivened this year by a parade, brass band and several transparencies more or less ridiculous in sentiment. The parade was a very creditable and orderly display and deserves commendation.

The meeting in the Court House was organized by electing Hon. D. M. Van Anken, chairman who neatly introduced Laird H. Barber of Mauch Chunk Popocratic nominee for Congress. Mr. Barber evidently did not intend to be either logical or educational in his remarks and his success in avoiding both tendencies was phenomenal for a man occupying his relations to the party. His speech was a marked contrast to that of Judge Kirkpatrick on the Thursday evening preceding, and to say that Mr. Barber suffered by the comparison is to state it mildly. Perhaps however he is of such magnanimous spirit that he did not wish to have it thought for a moment that he was built on different lines or endowed with greater capacity than the statesmen from his district our Democratic friends are wont to invest with the Congressional toga.

He was followed by C. B. Staples, Esq., of Stroudsburg who fired the audience with enthusiasm by defending the Chicago platform, especially its denunciation of Courts and obedience to law, and poked a stick with a rather sharp end at his former friend Cleveland under whose previous administration by the way Mr. Staples was revenue collector and didn't think it so bad either, by saying if Bryan was elected he would find an attorney general who would jump on the trusts. He however made no allusion to the fable of the man and the viper, probably in the heat of his fervid oratory he forgot it, as he almost did to mention that his friend, Mr. Barber was a candidate for Congress. Hon. Frank P. Kinable, of Honesdale next took the one and paddled around in the Bryan pool of frogs and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1. He never got to shore, but he will after Nov. 3rd and when his cruise over the salt waters are o'er we shall greet his kindly face as of yore.

Bryan and Sewall Club Meeting. Last Saturday night was the crowning effort, the sunlit apex of glory for this devoted organization because its "orator" shed his effulgence over it for nearly an hour. In the early dusk of evening "Dory" and his faithful henchman and boarder, Mr. Holbert were seen, arrayed in cap and torch, wending their way tandem like to the rendezvous, the Mecca of the faithful, the Grand Jury room that place hallowed by the sufferings of many Democrats whose characters have herein undergone a searching scrutiny at the hands of a grand inquest inquiring for the body of the Commonwealth. The meeting was hastily called to order by rapping the gavel, but the orator had fled. Awe'd by the surroundings his timid soul refused to stay. A hunt was organized, and searchers went forth. He was finally discovered under a horse shed where his speech had been already partly delivered, and the agony had left him in a weak and dilapidated condition.
