THE MILFORD LYCEUM. Last week's PHESS contained an article by a director of the Association giving an outline of the present situation of its affairs. We can all join heartily in the wish that the severe blow, it has received in the abode will only stir the people to greater activity in putting it on a solid basis of prosperity again. While not intending to " rake over any ashes " we think such an institution should be run on a business basis and governed by just as rigid laws as any corporation for profit. To effectually accomplish this end the Association should be incorporated under our laws, and its constitution and by-laws provide for the election to office only of those who are " bona fide " members, and of stock.

We intend no reflection on the present board of direction, but experience has taught that the Lyceum was subjected to considerable annoyance, criticism and possible great loss by reason of the fact that an irresponsible, designing and as we view it dishonest party was urged for chief officer, and tacitly allowed under the guise of obtaining funds for its aid to materially swell his own private account."

While this may not have brought probably did deter those who were sincere in its welfare from taking

REPORT OF DR. ROTHROCK.

The Commissioner of Forestry presents an able review. In March last the report of the Commissioner was presented to the Legislature, and it has just been printed in a separate volume comprising Part Il of the report of the State Department of Agriculture for 1895. The volume is mainly comprised of the report of Dr. Rothrock the learned botanist of the commission and the active Commissioner. For years it has been apparent that the massive forests which once covered the hills and valleys of our State seven photographs which toll a switches secured. Near by stood a by year we have seen the amount illustrate the text.
