STATE SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

In his annual report the State Superintendent of public schools deals largely with the need of expert Supervision and Superintendents in the public schools. He says that in passing from the primary school through the different grades to the high school the pupils get a new teacher every two or three years, and that a careful supervision is necessary lest the brighter minds lose valuable time through lack of adjustment in the courses of study and a failure of the teachers to work toward a common end. Eight years are required for elementary and grammar schools, four in the high, four for college and three or four for the professional, so that a youth spends about nineteen years in preparatory study. This is several years more than is customary in Germany France and England. He says no one will claim that the results obtained here are more thorough than in those countries, and the question is where is the time lost? Experts are needed to supervise the work of instruction. The prevalent idea has been that our school system was nearly perfect, but the census of 1890 and the statistics subsequently published showed that among the States of the Union Pennsylvania ranks eighth in the average length of the school term, twenty seventh in percentage of illiteracy, twenty fifth in the average salary paid to male teachers, twenty seventh to female, and twenty seventh in the number of students at college out of each hundred thousand of population. The above figures show a lamentable failure on the part of our school system to produce the results which the large outlay of money should produce. We spend nearly $20,000,000 on 1,088,786 pupils, and with this vast sum we stand low in the list of States, and they include those which have not been looked on as at all progressive in an educational view. The faults are the short school year the poorly paid teachers the want of high schools, the deficient courses, and the willingness to accept for teachers a training and ability far below those required in other states and countries. All this Dr. Schaeffer says arises from a want of efficient superintendence. There is need of a change. The state should make education efficient by general examinations, and teachers not properly qualified should not be employed. It is nonsense to say that they are the best the money will afford, better not spend the money than do worse than waste it by jeopardizing the morals, manners and time of the children. Dr. Schaeffer commends the compulsory education law and shows that under its operation illiteracy would decrease. He also remarks on the unequal distribution of the annual school appropriation, and says that the present method discriminates against the districts which lack industries to hold their adult population, and operates in favor of those districts toward which the young people gravitate as soon as their school days are ended. He says the question of equal distribution is one hard to solve because the city members of the legislature point out that in many townships in the country they do not raise as much by taxation for schools as they receive from the state, and the country member retorts by saying that the city spends too much money by endeavoring to run a high school on a college basis. Many school libraries have been established, and he commends the system of county institutes. There are about twice as many female teachers in the state as males. The total number of both is 26,741. The average salary paid to males is $44.78 and to females $38.28. The report is energetic in tone and wisely asks if the praises of our school system have not lulled us to sleep? It is refreshing to read a report which fearlessly goes to the root of the matter, and that seems to be in our school system, an absolute need of more careful supervision.

Rome, New York, is to have a beet sugar factory a large plant is now being established which when completed will use 300 tons of beets daily. This new industry is hailed by the farmers as one which will greatly benefit that section. A process is discovered also which renders the refuse a good and cheap feed for cattle.

DON'T KILL THE BIRDS.
 At the recent session of the Farmers' Institute the question, "how to rid land of white grubs," seemed to evoke general interest, and to fall of a satisfactory answer. Fall plowing was suggested as an aid, said was spoken of, but the opinion was that birds were the most effective remedy. One speaker related an experience, and said a large pine tree stood near a piece of his land infested with the grubs and he noticed a number of black-birds making regular trips from the tree to the land, and on investigation discovered that the birds were after the worms which had been turned up by plowing. He found seventy birds nests in one tree. He said he never allowed a crow or a black bird to be killed on his premises, and considered them the greatest benefactors the farmers have in destroying the worm pest. This is but a repetition of an oft told tale yet one not sufficiently heeded. What possible object there can be in killing the birds no one can understand, yet farmers and farmers' boys seem to delight in doing so. There appears to be a wantonness about it, when, if they would pause a moment, they would see that they were inflicting a serious injury on themselves. The robins may carry off a few cherries and strawberries, but it is only for a few days and the remainder of the season they are working for you and doing work you cannot hire a man or boy to do. Protect the birds, let them build their nests on your premises, and see they are not disturbed. Encourage their increase, it will pay in more ways than one.

Pennsylvania cast 19,374 prohibition votes, about twice as many as any other state, Illinois is next with 9,790, Maine only had 1,571. Had it been known that "General Weyler" would be present, even by proxy, in one of our churches last Sunday morning the attendance no doubt would have been much larger. It is always safe to go to church. There is no knowing what may be missed by remaining away.

Look not mournfully into the past—It comes not back again; Wisely improve the present, it is thine; Go forth to meet the shadowy future Without fear and with a manly heart. —Longfellow.
