REGULATING PRIMARY ELEC-TIONS.

Two bills have been introduced already in the Legislature for the regulation of primary elections. Both of these contain among several good features one that seems entirely wrong in principle. It is that party primary elections shall be held by the same officers that hold the general elections. A Democratic election board would hold the election for the nominations of candidates for the opposite party and "vice versa." This would enable the majority in the opposite party to pass on the qualifications of those entitled to vote of the minority party at the primaries. It is purely a placed in the hands of political op-ponents it would practically give be well for an international alliance to be formed for the purpose of prethem control of the minority nominations. We do not think either party has yet arrived at this stage, menians by Turks. and it is hard to see what advantage would be derived.

The officers are sworn and are punishable for dishonest practices, and if frauds are perpetrated it is bebasis for stable progress.

In and an institution of that kind, and that it deserves special consideration.

There seems to be a strong sentiment developing of the advisability of lopping off at least $1,000,000 in school appropriations, and that the amount of money appropriations, and that the amount of money appropriations and that the amount of money appropriations are perpetrated in the state to the school appropriations. cause the law is not enforced, and how would this condition be improved if the election was held by the general election officers?

If it is desired to have the saloon again a controlling influence, no better plan controlling influence, no better plan could be devised than the one proposed, and it is fair to assume that this is the real design of its advocates. It needs no argument to show how this could be successfully accomplished. The commission, would of necessity, have a number of deputies, not elected but with their superiors, appointed by the political party which happened to control the State, by the same methods with which matters, are now managed. A very few men could easily array the whole saloon interest in one line to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would send of mine to accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would accomplish a particular purpose, and that interest would accomplish a particular purpose. CONVERSION OF CHURCHES.

For 30 years Mr. Moody has been preaching all over the country to purpose, and that interest would some the serve one years, one to serve two years and one three years. They are to levy a tax, which shall not exceed ten mills on each dollar on the last adjusted valuation for county purposes, and a greater rate that con mills, but not more than thirty, may be levied by the court of quarter sessions upon the petition of the quarter sessions upon the petition of the board, with their unanimous recommendation, and due cause shown, each resident male taxable to be assessed the sum of $1 in addition to the millage referred to. This bill also provides that a person eligible to the office of supervisor must be a fresholder. A read master is to be seen freeholder. A road master is to be employed who shall work on the roads at least seven months in the year. One-half enough to begin his work over again, of the tax is payable in money and the other half in work. The provisions of this act is to go into effect the first Monday of March, 1898. Mr. Gould, of Erie, will offer a bill early in the session to abolish borough and township poorhouses. This will embrace many of the features of the bill introduced during the session of 1895, which was de-feated owing to its being considered too comprehensive. It is now framed to eliminsteam of the objectionable features of the former bill. The friends of this bill, who have been laboring industriously in its interests, are very sanguine of its be-coming a law.

A Blow at Corporations.
General Reader, secretary of the commonwealth, has decided a question in respect to stock dividends that has never at the primaries, the same thing will exist, as to the general elections.

And the difficulty therefore would not be obviated by this new method.

We think the election machinery for making nominations should be left in the hands of either political party making them without interference from the other and that this new proposition should be defeated as being an absolute the same thing will exist, as to the general elections.

laws on the statute books they would also be declared unconstitutional. They think that, with all due deforence to the able judicial, that his decision will not be sustained in the higher courts. The point involved was as to whether cotton seed oil sold as oilve oil came within the limits of the pure food act, which in his decision be declares this does not cover. The state authorities are determined to carry this through the higher courts, and bring to justice every offender of this law. The law is altogether too important to be set aside in any particular, as the history of the investigations in this respect has disclosed many very flagrant violations. Since this law has been enforced there has been a radical improvement in the preparation of foods. This is particularly so in condiments, and it is now unnecessary to swallow a certain amount of buckwheat huis, coccanuit shells and said to get a little pepper.

It was given out here a few days ago, that Louis Davidson, son-in-law of Senator Quay, and brother of Hon. James Davidson, deceased, will be the choice of Beaver county for congress. Although Senator Quay is bitterly opposed to this, yet some of his friends are very active in their efforts to secure the nomination of his son-in-law. The friends of Mr. Davidson feel that the dreumstances in conson feel that the circumstances in con-nection with the death of his brother en-title Louis Davidson to some considera-

Mr. McElhaney, member of the house from Allegheny, says he is receiving many letters from persons addicted to drinking urging him to exercise the strongest ef-forts to secure the passage of his anti-troating bill, and that he is flooded with communications from all parcs of the state. These letters suggest that they are heartly tired of the social custom which requires a man to drink more than is good for him, and to spend money in salcons as a matter of courtesy.

Workingmen write "that this law would be welcomed by them, and their wives and families, who would have more money for the necessities of life." It is believed that this bill will be a very pop-ular one, and will be passed with little opposition

A Longer School Term. There will be three important features of school legislation this session. Representative Hammond, of Westmoreland, has prepared a bill, which fixes seven months as the minimum duration of a school term. This is offered in the interests of the country districts.

The granger element will insist on a special appropriation of a half million dollars for the establishment of township high schools. An act was passed during the last session of the legislature, providing for the establishment of three highst at the primaries. It is purely a party matter as to who shall vote at the caucus or primary, and if the power to determine this should be placed in the hands of political on.

low condition of the state's finances gives little assurance to the success of this bill. Senator Marrick, of Tioga county, introduced a bill in the senate last week which provides for the division of the school appropriation in three parts. One-third is to be divided according to the number of paid teachers employed, one-third pro rate to the pupils, and the remaining third according to the number of taxables in the school district. The bill also provides for a triangular registration. also provides for a triennial registration of taxables, and an annual census of school childreen between the ages of 6 determination to not approve the recom-mendation of Judge Darte, the commander of the G. A. R. in Pannsylvania, favoring Thomas Samples' selection on this com-mission. It is altogether probable that an-other person will be placed in this posi-tion.

Governor Hostings is very firm in his

Senator Grady, of Philadelphia, is de-termined that he will resign his seat in the senate in March, owing to pressure of business affairs.
