In the revision of that tariff sepecial attention should be given to the re-manuscript and extension of the reciprocity principle of the law of itso, under which so great a stimulus was given to our foreign trade in new and edvantageous markets for our surplus agricultural and manufactured products. The brist trial given this ingleiation amply justifies a further experiment and additional theoretim ary power in the insignation of the products of our complex, the brist policies to accept the office of socretary of interior, thus complising the president's official household.

what proportion of them are thrifty and have made a good growth.

One successful teacher divided the Arbor Day work into four classes: (1) Tree planting and pruning. (2) Improving merior of school room. (3) Improving grounds and funces. (4) Supplying motorial for Arbor Day work. Each of these departments was in charge of a committee of six pupils, who were to be responsible for the carrying out of all work in their respective lines. The committees were named respectively, "Tree Committee," "Ground and Frence Committee," "Ground and Frence Committee," and "Supply Committee," Instructed to prepare a suitable program to be rendered at the close of the thy's work. A member of such committee was choren, to act as overseer of the work of the committee of which he was a member, and to record the completion of each item of work on a sheet of paper, on which was outlined the work was be done. The overseers handed in their reports at the end of each hour to the teacher, thus giving the latter an idea of the progress of each department of work.

TREE FACTS AND FANCIES.

In Arcadia, the children in the schools, after seeing that their immediate surroundings and the grassy lanes about them are made pleasant with fruit and shade trees, are said, in a spirit of frolic-some gladness, to select one near-by home after another in that country of good will, and plant about it until the entire neighborhood has caught the charm.

The requirement in a certain part of Germany that no pupil shall receive gradu-ation papers who has not planted one or more growing trees, is wise and full of sug-

Year by year the winters in Russia are becoming coider, the summer hotter, dryer and less fruitful, owing to the clearing of the woodlands which has caused evaporation to such an extent that many once capacious water courses are furned to awamp or desert land. An oriental proverb worthy to be re-membered is "With time and patience each leaf of the mulberry becomes the softest silk."

The most remarkable trees as to size are the haobab of Africa, the conferm of Up-per California, the banyan of India, the lindean of Germany, and the oaks and yews of England. There is an Arabian proverb that, with the planting of a tree, a blessing comes to him who drops the seed. A strange avenue of trees is owned by the Duke of Argyll, and it is year by year growing longer. Each of the trees in this avenue has been planted by some notable person, and a brass plate is fastened to the iron fencing surrounding the trees, signifying by whom it was planted. Whenever any remarkable guest visits inveracy Castle, he is invited by the Duke to plant a tree in this avenue, which is situated on the banks of Loch Fyne.

There are some sixty or seventy species

There are some sixty or seventy species of the maple, nearly half of them belonging to China and Japan. In North America only nine species occur.

The people of ancient Greece believed that in every tree dwelt a protecting nymph, or dryad. These dryads were thought to perish with the trees which has been their abodes, and with which they had come into existence. To willfully destroy a tree was therefore, an impious act, and very often severely punished.

RULES FOR TREE PLANTING. According to The Cultivator, the folowing rules should be observed for suo cessful tree-planting:

cessful tree-planting:

First, prepare the ground. Let the soil be deeply and thoroughly mellowed.

Take up the tree with planty of roots long enough to hold it erect without staking. If the roots are bruised, pare of the bruised portions.

Shorten in the head enough to correspond with the loss in cutting the roots; always do this before the buds swell.

Spread the roots equally on all sides and fill in finely pulverized soil, leaving no crevices or cavities.

Plant no deeper than before taking up, but raise the earth au inch or two to allow for settling.

Allow for the length of the roots as great as the height of the tree and cultivate to a corresponding distance. Never set young trees in a grass field, but always where the ground can be cultivated

If the roots chance to be frozen when out of the ground, they may be restored without injury if compactly buried in mellow soil before thawing. If thawed when exposed, they will perish.

Watering a tree in dry weather only wets and crusts the surface. A few inches of the top surface should be removed before watering.
