Muller vs. Muller, divorce, J. H. Van Etten appointed commissioner to take depositions of witnesses.

Commonwealth vs. James Sheridan, horse stealing. The prosecutor in this case is the father of the defendant, and the evidence showed that the son had taken a pair of horses out of the pasture field of his father, took them to Scranton and sold them to parties there. They were recovered and brought back and the son arrested and lodged in jail. The defendant took the stand and testified in his own behalf that his father had bought the horses and he, the son, had contributed $80 of the amount. That his father agreed that if he would come home and work he would give him the horses, but afterwards refused to do so. The son then says he went and took them, borrowed a halter of Henry D. Clark, and took the team to Scranton.

Dr. Emerson testified that he had been called to attend the prisoner while in jail and found him suffering at one time with symptoms of convulsions and he had an epileptic fit in August or September.

The jailer, L. B. Hissam, testified that Sheridan had fits and was queer in his actions and talk, and several other witnesses told of his running along the road and disconnected talk.

The jury found him guilty as indicted.

Commonwealth vs. Bartlett L. Smith. The defendant plead guilty to taking a small roll of wire and sentence was suspended until June term.

Herman Paul Schultz was brought in court and warned not to make a statement of his case as it might be used in evidence against him. He stated in reply to the question that he was poor and from the fact that he had been under lock and key for six months had been unable to wind up his business affairs or earn any money and so had no means to employ an attorney. He was then remanded back to jail.

Commonwealth vs. Ray Helms, assault and battery, John Bosler, prosecutor. True bill.

The grand jury made the following report:

To the honorable the Court of Quarter Sessions of Pike County: The grand jury submits the following report and recommendation. First, that a new and suitable table to correspond with the other furniture be bought and placed in the grand jury room in place of the old wreck now there and that the chairs in the grand jury room be repaired. Second, that the lock on cell No. 3 in the jail be repaired at once. Third, that the County Commissioners be requested to employ an architect to so improve the main court room that persons speaking to the court or jury can be heard with more distinctness.

This case came on for trial and after the evidence on the part of the prosecutor was closed, the defendant offering no testimony Mr. Van Auken, district attorney, proceeded with his argument to the jury. A Good Obituary

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press commenting on the fourteen members of Congress from this state who served in the last House and are now Ex's has this to say of the late member from the Eighth.

Representative Joseph J. Hart the Democrat from the old Mutchler district goes back to private life with but one term in Congress to his credit. Mr. Hart made a good impression among his colleagues, as a quiet unobtrusive gentleman, who seemed to realize that his party was very much in the minority and his best policy was that of the silent member. He served on the Naval Committee with commendable attention to his duties.

ANNUAL DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

Held in the Court House Monday Evening.

Pursuant to call the Democracy of Pike attempted to pull themselves gether and hold a meeting, the lid'd not state the object and there d not seem to be any, but about 8 clock, twenty-eight depressed, miserable, forlorn people who seemed o eye each other with suspicious looks, assembled. The reason of this suspicion was not apparent unless each one feared that the other had some dangerous and explosive resolution concealed about his person. If this was the case it was so effectually frozen on coming into the atmosphere of the meeting that it could not be produced, and all was harmonious harmony, frozen smooth.

Hon. John D. Houck was made chairman, the veteran Michael Lynn, of Palmyra, was nominated as one of the vices, and to balance him in size and weight, C. W. Bull, Esq. was placed on the other end of the bench as the other vice.

John C. Westbrook, Jr. and D. H. Hornbeck were elected secretaries, and the machine was ready for the grist.

J. B. Westbrook, G. H. Swepenizer, C. W. Bull, W. F. Beck and Hon. Jacob Klaer were nominated and elected as the County Committee for the ensuing year.

A very wet and cold blanket was then carefully thrown over the nutrified by the nomination of Hon. J. J. Hart as delegate to the State Convention. This pill was swallowed with a slight shiver. George A. Swepenizer then came forward with a roll of paper and a visible chill fell upon all, but the frost slightly dissipated when he began reading an amendment to the rules governing Democratic primaries. It was in substance that each Democrat wishing to be a candidate for office must notify the County Committee at least 10 days before the election and accompany his request with five dollars, another chill. That all names of candidates must be printed on one ticket, the voter to indicate his choice by a cross marked opposite the name voted for and that all tickets shall be prepared and delivered by the County Committee. The committee was then authorized to prepare tickets with the above amendments, for and against, to be voted at the next primary election. The cold was becoming intense and more suspicious glances were being cast, but after a few moments of silence, some one offered a motion to adjourn which was promptly put and carried, and the sasposa ended. A resolution indorsing the administration of Grover and the four years of clover, must have died a borrin, if it ever was conceived, for it did not even ail. Neither did the one condoling or otherwise the course of the late representative in Congress, some one evidently had the courage to eat such chunks of ice int. the already frozen sea. Why this was not done can only be answered by one up a tree by saying that probably nobody wanted to do it.

Neither did any impetuous adherent offer any "resolute" extend comfort to our present representative and senator.

Not a speech was made, not a gun was fired, not a keynote struck, but slowly and sadly they laid the remains to rest, and got out, thanking their stars that it was over, and that nobody had marred the unbroken frigidity with some ill timed and lukewarm resolution, damning with faint praise the party or some dearly beloved Democratic statesman.

We came away full of reflections on the ingratitude of the rank and file, and of man's inhumanity to man, and it took us an hour to get our fingers warm enough to write this truthful account of the annual meeting of Pike County Democracy.

If the weather gets very hot next summer we would like them to hold another here so as to cool off the atmosphere for a week or two. It would be hard on the ice men but very grateful to any one fearing sun stroke.

Kessler on the Wrong Side.

Representative Kessler with ten others voted against the bill prohibiting, and making it unlawful to manufacture and sell paper wrapper cigarettes or cigaretic paper. It passed all the same. He voted in favor of the act prohibiting the wearing of hats and bonnets in theatres and that bill failed on final passage.

Schultz in Jail Here.

Sheriff Courtright went down to New York Tuesday morning armed with with a requisition for Schultz, who, it is alleged, killed his wife last September in Shohola. At the Tombs after the proper legal formalities had been taken the prisoner was turned over to the sheriff who without incident brought him here and lodged him in jail.

The journey was uneventful, Schultz was quiet and said little beyond asserting his innocence. He is neatly dressed, looks well, speaks with a strong German accent, and when brought into court Wednesday morning appeared cheerful and self-reliant. He will not be tried at this term which will necessitate a jury term in June, when the Shields case will likely come on again.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, Re-Elected Speaker.

The Chicago Lake Front Case—The Tariff Bill Will Be Protective.—The Administration Will Go Slow on Appointments — Civil Services Rules.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, March 15.—Hon. Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, has for the third time been elected Speaker of the House, a position which, in honor and influence is second only to that of the Presidency. There was no opposition to the Republican caucus to the renomination of Mr. Reed or of any of the other officers of the House in the last Congress. It was in the cases of all of them, except Mr. Reed, simply one good term deserving another, while in his case it was two good terms, although not consecutive ones, deserving another. Republicans are naturally proud of big Tom Reed and his record as Speaker. He has had to face some very difficult and intricate parliamentary situations, but he has never even in a single instance failed to force from them credit for himself and for the Republican party. Although a partisan upon all purely political questions, no Speaker has ever had more, and few as many, warm personal friends among his political opponents. In starting in upon this extra session of Congress, the country and the party is to be congratulated that the work of the House will be directed by so experienced a parliamentarian as Mr. Reed.

A scandal of large proportions may be shown up in connection with the acts of Judge Lamoreux, Mr. Cleveland's Commissioner of the United States Land Office, in what is known as the Chicago lake front case. Secretary Bliss has set aside a decision of Lamoreux in favor of certain parties and ordered a new hearing of the case. Ex Secretary Carlisle, who is now the attorney of the parties whom Lamoreux tried to favor, may be mixed up in the scandal, as it is hinted that he was interested in the case while a member of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet. Lamoreux tendered his resignation and left Washington several days before the close of the Cleveland administration, but his resignation has not been accepted and present indications are that it will not be, but that he will be dismissed. Some very valuable Chicago real estate is involved in this case.

It might be supposed from the concerted yelping from the Democratic free traders at the now completed tariff bill, that they are really surprised to find that Chairman Dingley and his Republican associates have made a protection bill, just as the country last November directed the Republican party to do. They are pretending that they expected the rates of duty in the new bill to be much lower than they are. The new bill is a Republican measure from beginning to end, intended to supply the $50,000,000 annual deficit in the Government receipts, and at the same time to give idle American working men profitable employment by restoring the American market, the best in the whole world, to our own manufacturers and producers from whom it was taken largely and presented to foreigners by the tariff enacted by Democrats. Whether the tariff bill will become a law in its present shape is a matter beyond telling, but it is a bill that every Republican will gladly vote for just as it stands and no material changes are likely to be made before it passes the House. If changes are made in the Senate, it will be because they are necessary to get votes needed to pass it, and not because of any Republican objection to it. President McKinley would gladly sign the bill just as it is and have his administration stand or fall upon its workings.

President McKinley's rule requiring the Congressional delegations to unite in recommending men for office, while disappointing to a few individuals, is on the whole a good one, and one that makes it well-nigh impossible to make a bad appointment. The few appointments made up to this time have been pre-eminently good. The decision on the part of the administration to go slow in making appointments will also commend itself to the people at large, who are much more interested in seeing the policy inaugurated that will restore the prosperity of the country than in who shall get the comparatively few offices at President McKinley's disposal. Of course most Republicans wish to see all the places under the Government, not covered by Civil Service Rules, filled by good Republicans, men who are in sympathy with the party principles and policy and they all will be in the course of a few months, but for the present only such changes as are considered necessary, will be made. It is altogether probable that when more important matters have been disposed of, some of the extensions of the civil service rules, which are known to have been made solely for the purpose of keeping Democrats in office, will be set aside. Steps are now being quietly taken that will later on give the county a few surprises in connection with some of Mr. Cleveland's extensions of the civil service rules. There is no more sincere advocate of the true spirit of civil service reform than President McKinley, but where it is shown that the civil service rules have merely been made a cloak to cover the rankest partisanship, he will not hesitate to strip the cloak off the partisans.

Straining at Gnats and Swallowing Camels.

MILFORD, March 17, 1897.

MR. EDITOR.—My attention has been from time to time called to errors in the Auditor's Statement, and in this way I was induced to follow it closely. In so doing I find that the treasurer in transferring moneys from one fund to another charges a commission of 2% each way as having paid out and received the money. The commission on the amounts referred to is $1.27. Now how can a treasurer of county funds pay out to himself and receive from himself moneys he now has in his hands, and which he has charged a commission ready of 2% for receiving? If this is right, and if the county has any more surplus funds let the treasurer transfer them, (by order of the Commissioners of course), a few times from one fund to another and the difficult problem of a surplus will soon solve itself by melting away in commissions.

The board of auditors charge back on commissioner $3.50 one day's pay, because they claim a man cannot receive two days' pay for one day's work then why not charge back on the treasurer $23.27 if he is only entitled to 2% on money received and 2% on money paid out. At the rate of commission allowed he is receiving 2% on the money received at first 2% as treasurer for receiving it from one fund to another 2% as treasurer paying it out of one fund to another and 2% for paying it out generally or 8% on the money so transferred.

Did the astute auditors see this point, or were they straining at some gnat while swallowing this camel?

The Kilgour Family Approved.

A correction is made to the account of the marriage of Frank Kilgour, son of John F. Kilgour, to Miss Clara DeClyne of New Durham, by the bride's brother, Mr. J. DeClyne. Mr. DeClyne said the statement that Mr. Kilgour refused to recognize Miss DeClyne as his son's fiancee was a mistake.

Mr. Kilgour himself was not present at the wedding, but his three daughters represented the family. The Misses Kilgour are intimate friends of their brother's wife, and the wedding meets the approval of his family.—Union.
