WASHINGTON LETTER.

Speaker Reed's Appointment of Committees.

The Dingley Tariff Bill—It May Be Made Less Protective—Mr. Cannon's Report "Who Will Name the Postmasters?"

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, March 22.—Speaker Reed has not authorized the statement that he will not appoint the other House Committee until the meeting of the regular session of Congress, next December. To all inquiries on the subject the Speaker has replied in substance that he has not decided the matter definitely. The impression left upon the mind of those who have talked with him on the subject is that Mr. Reed will be governed by circumstances. There is reason to believe that the committee assignments have practically been completed and could be announced at short notice. A gentleman whose position is as good as anybody's for getting advance knowledge of Mr. Reed's intentions, said when asked about the committee: "I don't know, but my guess is that the committee will be announced at the present session, but not until the joint resolution naming the day of adjournment has been adopted and signed by the President."

It having been made very plain by the business-like beginning of the debate on the Dingley tariff bill in the House that the Republicans intend to put that measure through just as it is on the floor of the March 31st, in accordance with the rule which has been adopted, the men who are trying to get the bill amended in all sorts of ways have transferred their attention to the members of the Senate Finance Committee, which has already taken the bill up for consideration. These men are now predicting that the bill will be amended out of all resemblance to itself in the Senate, but Republicans are loth to believe that the Republicans on the Finance Committee—Senators Morrill, Allison, Aldrich, Platt and Wolcott—will sanction any amendments calculated to make the bill any less protective to American interests. Senator Jones, of Nevada, holds the balance of power between the Republicans and Democrats in the Committee, and he has only recently said that he believed in protection as much as he ever did. Injurious amendments may be added on the floor of the Senate, but Republicans do not expect such from the Finance Committee.

Representative Cannon, of Illinois has a habit of getting off reports in such a dry and uninteresting way that he seldom fails to make his victim join in the laughter which usually follows. Speaking of the Indian Appropriation bill, one of those that failed at the last session, Representative Sayres, of Texas, expressed the opinion that President McKinley would not sign the bill if it were passed. Looking straight at Mr. Sayres, Mr. Cannon said very slowly and distinctly: "I have great confidence in my friend, but I would never shoot him for a prophet." Mr. Sayres joined in the shout of laughter. The House acted promptly upon the advice of Mr. Cannon, who was Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations in the last House and who will occupy the same position in the present House, and passed the Appropriation bill, that failed at the last Congress, just as they had been passed before, with the exception of one paragraph in the Indian bill. There was no occasion to do over again what had been well done at first.

Senator Allen, of Nebraska, undertook to give the Republicans and Democrats of the Senate, a scolding because the vacancies in the Senate Committee had not been filled, but he had no reply to make when Senator Chandler said: "Doesn't the Senator know that neither party has a majority here, unless it gets the co-operation of the Populists. Now I would suggest that if the Senator will only cast his vote with us, we will have the necessary working majority."

The speech of Senator Davis, of Minnesota now Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, in favor of the Arbitration Treaty, has made new friends for the treaty. Mr. Davis stated in his speech, which was made in executive session, that he had opposed the treaty as it was sent to the Senate, but that the amendments, now added, had removed the objectionable features and that he was heartily in favor of its ratification.

Postmaster General Gary has decided that except in cases which present some extraordinary reason for a deviation the old rules will be adhered to in the appointment of Postmasters. These rules in brief are as follows: Republicans will be allowed to name the Postmaster of the largest city in their Congressional district; Republican Postmasters will name all other Postmasters in their districts, and in districts represented in Congress by Democrats or Populists and in states having no Republican Senators, the choice will be made by the Republican Chairman or some other designated referee. The Congressional delegations must also keep track of the expiration of the terms of Postmasters, as the department will not notify them.

New Light on the Church Scandal at Layton.

Reverend C. H. Von Glahn announced after the usual services at Layton last Sunday morning: "That on March 23rd there would be an election of trustees at and for this church. This last election of trustees (last spring) not being legal." Our position that these trustees usurped a place of trust in the church organization and like many others became the plant tools of a designing hypocrite (if not worse) who should have long ago been fired out of a ministry in which he was worse than an incense-burner, seems now to have met with recognition as correct. The acts of these bogus trustees have left scars on the organization that long years will not efface. Where do those people stand who have so loudly proclaimed them as the lawful trustees, and who stood ready and willing to condone and uphold any of the base acts of which they might be guilty. It would shed one bright ray of light upon an otherwise disgracefully dark series of acts, for them to disclaim any further sympathy or complicity with this crew who are now evidently discredited before the public. It has been our impression that the Rev. C. H. Von Glahn was a Christian gentleman who had only to see the right to revulsion it. It is to be regretted that it did not become apparent to him before. As this exposes one of Pastor Deming's high-handed, and lawless acts, let us hope that the rest of the disgraceful brood will yet be exposed to the public gaze in their true light.

The Southern Climate.

Through the courtesy of E. Kimble we have read a letter written in January by his cousin Charles Burton of Santa Anna, California, in which some description is given of that climate. It says: "We have just finished putting in ten acres of barley which was done just in time as a fine rain came and it is up now." My flowers are lovely. We have not had frost to hurt anything on the place yet. The hens are happy and furnish six dozen eggs a day. The mountains north of us are covered with snow as far down as we can see them. The low foot hills between them and us shut off a little. The snow will remain on the higher peaks until after the 4th of July and that is where we most enjoy having it and have no shoveling to do, and do not have to house vegetables, flowers or anything. We can pick oranges now, and the peach trees are in full bloom, and the lower hills and valleys are all green and will soon be covered with wild flowers. The weather is lovely, everything is growing, and we have to use a kankorochof freely to wipe the perspiration which is being shed. The fishing is fine and recently caught 14 yellow tails the largest of which weighed 40 lbs. He bravely enquires if the fish up here climb out of the holes in the ice to meet the fishermen, when they go after them in winter.

The Management of Shohola Glen This Year.

Mr. Wm. Godfrey of West Haven, Conn., has leased Shohola Glen for the coming year. Mr. George Proctor will continue running the hotel across from the depot. Mr. John Vaght, Jr., will run the Little German Hotel at the entrance to the Glen. Mr. Sammis the owner of the Glen will manage the Switch Beek railroad as usual. He will also make needed improvements in the Glen preparatory to the opening of the Glen at an early date.—Gazette.

Prize for Our Naval Cadet.

"Naval Cadet J. W. Eoboly of Mauch Chunk, son of one of Pennsylvania's brave Democratic leaders in a former hope, is doing splendid work as a scholar in his class." The above recently appeared in the Philadelphia Press accompanied by a cut of the young man who is a student at Annapolis appointed by Ex-Congressman Hart.

A Remarkable Political Coincidence.

Every state, says the "Tribune," that voted for Lincoln in 1860 voted for McKinley in 1896, and every state that voted for Jefferson Davis in 1861 voted for Bryan in 1896. This is literally true, a id it is one of the most remarkable coincidences of the recent canvass. And McKinley had a larger majority in every state he carried than Lincoln had in 1860.—New York Sun.

AN INTERESTING DESCRIPTION.

Scenes and Events in Nice, Italy—The Carnival Described.

When in America people are always asking what country or place, I like best in the world; it has always been difficult to answer there are so many beautiful places in Europe and in Asia. Now after forty-ones acquaintance I must declare that Nice is the most beautiful, and the loveliest on earth. Of course nothing can compare with India for interest and the Himalayas for awful grandeur.

Nice with its mountains, its flowers, its fruits, its millions of oranges and lemons, its sensuous, its rich fisheries, fine scenery, glorious sunshine and temperate climate, beyond an equal to every other winter resort on earth. There is no Sunday here yet the people do unto others as they would that others should do unto them.

To-day the Sabbath we are in the midst of the merriest of the show and display of King Carnivals here. The whole procession during four hours passes before our windows from whence we can safely see the battle of Confronti. This Confronti is counterfeit or imitation sugar plums, made of plaster and colored to look appetizing.

The people in the procession and those at the windows and in the streets peep out another vigorously with tin snops full of the plaster plums. You to the man who ventures out with a good hat it will need docting the next day.

Everybody is in fancy costume and most of them wear wire gauze masks and helmets, otherwise they could not enter on the battlefield.

I have indulged in this entertainment during twenty five years, have often been wounded, and now an old veteran I content myself by looking on from my balcony. It is a satirical fact to look on and see others bleed when one knows that "Lent" will heal all their wounds. "This is one of the grandest displays we have ever had, and yet according to custom on Tuesday next these beautiful colossal figures of the King Carnival also Madame Carnava will be consumed, burned to ashes before the populace amidst a brilliant display of fire works; then during forty days the priests are to have it all their own way, when all men are expected to pray without ceasing.

The Sign of the Bear.

Prothonotary John C. Westbrook who is proud of having been born on the same day as Queen Victoria and who has more years to his credit as Prothonotary than perhaps any man in the state, is a firm believer in the ground hog, coon and bear sign of the weather. He relates that some twenty-five years ago a Scranton gentleman sent a black bear over to the Blooming Grove Park Association, then just organized, as a present. His bearship was relegated to the custody of "Bart" Carhuff who just knew how to manage such critters. Regularly in storm or sunshine, Bruin would come out of his hole in a bank of dirt which had been made to accommodate him and make him feel more at home in captivity, to partake of his breakfast, and would stay out. Bart said "wait until Ground Hog day and you'll see dis how he acts." Sure enough when that day came, and it was a bright sunny one, Mr. Bear came out early in the morning, saw his shadow and precipitately retired to his hole again. "Not content with the temptations provided by his keeper, he would induce him to appear, and for a long time he kept very sub rosa and could not be induced to come out. The weather fulfilled his expectations the bear was satisfied with himself as a certain prognosticator, and John C. firmly convinced that the bear and ground hog sign is practically infallible.

Josiah Allen's Album.

While Aunt Samantha is about visiting round, and trying to impoverish her friends with her monumental appetite, her partner feeling lonely, has invited his friends to spend this evening in the Presbyterian Church looking over the pictures in his old album. They are beautiful, and reminiscent of the good old times when the "new woman" on her bike, and the new journalism as a fake, and the sensational preacher with a fat take, and various other "new" things only existed in embryo. The good old times are gone but the old pictures are true to nature as nature was when Josiah and Samantha were young, many, many years ago.

PRIZES FOR TWO INVENTORS.

One for a Bicycle Brake and the Other for a Monkey Wrench.

A highly interesting competition between a large number of new inventions has just been decided by a very distinguished Board of Awards, and a handsome cash prize and solid gold medal awarded as the result of the decision. For some time the patent firm of John Westburn & Co., of Washington, D. C., have given a monthly reward of $150 to the inventor who should submit the best invention from the standpoint of simplicity, novelty and utility. The Board of Awards, composed of Senator William Stewart, of Nevada, Chairman; Representative Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia; Mr. John C. Eckoff, cashier of the Second National Bank of Washington, and Messrs. A. C. Moses, of W. B. Moses's Sons, and Frederick E. Woodward, of Lotthrop, two of the leading merchants of the capital city.

This Board has just selected the prize winners in the contest participated in by inventors who submitted their devices during the month of January. The prize of $150 goes to William Taylor, of Kenner, N. J., the inventor of a bicycle brake of simple construction, and the gold medal to Theodore G. Thomas, of Lamarque, Texas, for a monkey wrench of novel design.

Hewing to the Line.

Some writers for the Gazette during the last year seem to have been on the verge of having spasm, because as they claim I have been guilty of the horrible crime of using a few of my own nickles to aid in circulating the PIKE COUNTY PRESS. I think they have reason for these periodic spasms other than the philanthropic fear that I may impoverish myself in this good work. Of course the Press hews to the line, and perchance the chips fly their way, but bless us, we can't help that. The chips will hurt no one, unless they happen to alight on a sore spot. If then stand a sore spot, these hadst best stand a little back. Gentlemen, if you live respectable lives you will not find a line in the Press that would bring a blush to the cheek of purity itself. If the Press should err in this respect it will do so in chronicling your misdeeds. "A word to the wise is sufficient," although I apprehend that this trite saying may be lost in the intricacies of your obtuse mental perceptions, and therefore will in a manner be casting pearls before swine. I am sorry you have caught on to my charitable work in your behalf, for I did not really intend any right hand should know that the left was dispensing charity to the ungrateful. The chips will hurt no one, but the right was trying to elevate a "Sand Burr," or the "Honest (?) John," into something creditable to the race. You should subscribe for the Press a year yourself, and thereby realize what a vast difference in your mental growth would result in one year's reading of it. You have read the Gazette so long that you are saturated with its mischievous teachings, and until sensationalism, and narrow unfairness rock from your every pore.

Candidates for the Eighth District.

A dispatch from Washington says that Congressman Kirkpatrick, of Easton, has a candidate for a consular position in the person of Paul A. F. Walter, of South Bethlehem, who was born in Germany. Another Eighth district man who seeks a Federal appointment is N. S. Brittain, of Monroe county. He wants to be one of the auditors of the treasury, and he will have the indorsement of Congressman Kirkpatrick and other leading Republicans of that section.

STATE FORESTRY RESERVATIONS.

Where They Are to Be Located and Number of Acres.

A bill has been introduced in the House to provide for three State Forestry Reservations. One of not less than 40,000 acres upon waters which drain mainly in the Delaware river, one of the same area on the Susquehanna, and one on the Ohio rivers. The commission shall have the power to take by right of eminent domain and condemn the lands selected. If it becomes necessary to assess the damages by a jury it shall be done in the same manner as is now provided for taking and opening roads.

Nothing is said in the act as to how the county shall be indemnified for the loss of taxes on these lands. While the benefits which may accrue will be largely shared by the people of the whole state and presumably by posterity, yet the present burden of taxes for local purposes will be greatly increased only in the counties where the lands are taken, and they are very likely those least able to bear it.

We are in favor of forest reservations, and if those owning wild lands in this county could protect them and keep off timber thieves and fire bugs our forests would rapidly grow. But this cannot be done if taxes, and if this act should take, we trust that while those who would be law abiding and conservators of the forests are suffering the penalty of increased taxation for sins they have not committed, those who have been persistent, notorious violators of the law may have a finger as large as a man's thigh laid on them, and that not very gently either. If the state should take, and thus exempt from taxes half of the number of acres provided for, it would make "this one green spot" look considerably greener if the state protected its domain, and it would probably result in large accessions to our Sherriff's boarding house business. The vandals and the money grubbers have been warned that money would not always abide with them, but they have scoffed, and now their calamity seems likely to come.

GET THE PRICE AND COME.

BRIEF MENTION.

Judge Willard it is said will retire from the Superior Court Sept. 1st.

Just think of the offer, The Press and Tribune for one year only $1.65.

Post-master General Gary has announced that fourth class postmasters will not be removed until their four years expire.

S. B. Palmer has received a contract of the commissioners for building an iron bridge in Blooming Grove township, 35 feet long, price $445.

Dr. Swallow editor of the Methodist who was tried for libel at Harrisburg, obtained a verdict of not guilty but has to pay the costs.

Owing to the condition of the roads, the service at the Sawkill school house, appointed for next Sabbath, March 28, will be postponed to the Sabbath following April 1st, at 2.30 p. m.

Ex-Congressman Hart has secured two handsome flat pieces, and eighty balls, for the Sons of Veterans of Monroe county, and the balls forty pounds each. They will be much handsome for ornamental purposes than the unsightly mortars.

The Gazette correspondent from Milford says: "Bartlett L. Smith pleaded guilty and was sentenced to Eastern penitentiary." He did plead guilty to taking a small roll of wire worth probably 50 cents in order to save costs and annoyance, and because of the condition of his family, but sentence was suspended and he is at his home in Delaware township. Great injustice is thus frequently done by correspondents whose added brains are intent in other pursuits than the transcribing of facts.

WHERE IS MR. KESSLER AT 7.

He Must be Sitting up Nights Drafting Important Measures.

An inspection of the Legislature Record reveals the fact that on the final passage of the following bills Pike's Representative is recorded as absent or not voting.

To establish a separate Orphan's Court.

Laws protecting timber lands.

Constables of townships ex-officio fire wardens.

Building and Loan Association Act.

Act specifying additional securities.

Act relating to mortgages.

Competency of wife to testify against her husband.

In regard to violations of Borough ordinances.

Right to belong to labor organizations.

Compensation of female teachers.

Making minimum school term seven months.

To protect the American flag from insult.

Compensation for constables.

Suitable places for holding elections.

Abolition of independent school districts.

He was present and voted in the affirmative on an act to establish state forest reservations.

Of course he may have been busy drafting an act to prevent skeeters from raining their bills by boring in the heads of cranks and having them mangled by the wheels in the treadmill. Such a humanitarian measure would be duly appreciated by his constituents, and no doubt fully entitle him to a reelection at their hands.

"BEWARE OF VIDDERS."

Divers Other Matters Are Dangerous too.

Josh Billings once lectured on milk and after announcing his subject never once again referred to it. So this chapter will not treat of those forlorn creatures, who, either by the Divine act, or the laws of mankind, have been deprived of their life "partners." Dickens probably had in mind some other things when he put those words in the mouth of the senior Weller, advising his son, Samivel.

A foreigner, bearing a front name with a strong resemblance to that of Weller's fil, might after his recent experience here ferret out the sentiment that there are some other things to beware of, with greatest caution. He is a peaceful, quiet gentleman, not given to noisy demonstration, but with a strong aptitude for bridging over difficult places so that the wayfarer, man though a fool may pass in comfort and safety. Of course he does this for a modest compensation and not wholly on the principle of Abou-Adam. In fact, since the matter alluded to transpired, he may be retrograding in his ardent affection for some of his quondam friends, and the recording angel may have ample time to refill his fountain pen and turn to a clean page before writing him down as one who, etc., etc., loves all his fellowmen.

He came here to view the landscape, and discover if there were not some chasms in Pike which might need the skillful manipulation of an architect in iron. His advent became known and a certain one who longed for closer relations with some of his here proceeded to form such attachments as might induce him to part with a medium. That it might be made more binding legal methods were pursued and the aid of a minion of the law invoked to make the connection. It was a harmless friendly sort of invitation to be and appear in his own proper person coram judice, at some future day when the judge would have leisure to tie the knot. The connecting link, however, would not have it that way. The early bird catches the worms, and filled with this motto he proceeded to the temporary domicile of the innocent chasm spanner and placed his trusty followers on guard, that there might be no elusive flights in the early dawn. Boldly then he confronted the wondering disciple of combination trusses just as he was indulging in a maternal eye wash and firmly announced that he must go with him. Surprise mingled with visions of a long deprivation of the society of loved ones evoked a query from the truss man of wherefore is this thus? The minion pointed to the shield which adorned his manly breast, and said here is the strong arm of the Commonwealth, come. They went, and when Vanlan had cast off the emblems of his craft and donned the ermine, the harmless invitation was fully explained and the matter temporarily suspended.

Here endeth the first chapter of a veracious history and the moral is that if Pike is the one green spot there are some things in her still greener.

The Good Roads Question.

The roads have never been in worse condition than this spring. Between here and Port Jervis there are places which resemble the bottomless pit, and in brown they are not much better. The language used by many who are obliged to drive these mud canals would be very appropriate to that place too, and yet after a man pays his taxes for years and finds matters growing worse all the while, there is at least a semblance of excuse for vigorous language.

The bicycle riders are not out in force just yet, they can wait, but there are those who cannot, and they must use the roads now. Do they want any change? Would a good road be any advantage to them? Or are they satisfied to simply cuss the wheelmen for insisting on better roads. Lie down gentlemen and obey your own ears, if you take this view of the matter.

A fashionable wedding occurred at Stroudsburg last week when Rev. Henry E. Hilsman, pastor of Zion's Reformed Church at Newburg, Pa., and Miss Florence S. Edinger, a daughter of Hon. James Edinger, were united in marriage.

Many prominent society people from the two Stroudsburgs, Scranton, Philadelphia, Lancaster, Easton and many other places were present. Fine cuts of the bride and groom appeared in the Philadelphia Press of Friday, March 12th.

Spring has Not Quite Come Yet.

There will be slowly muggy weather and it is so comfortable to have dry feet. Farmers who are now wading around in water, inviting grip and pneumonia, can save large doctor bills and possibly the cost of administration on their estates by promptly sending up $2.34 to Johnson at Port Jervis and getting Johnson the best rubber boot. His offer brings his store right to your door. Convenient is it not?
