LAYTON.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.)

Layton, April 6.—Mr. Kel Brink whose health has been considered in a critical condition for months past has been lately engaged in active business. He has purchased the Jason H. Tuttle farm at Tuttle's Corner for $1000.00, and will probably apply for a license at this time of court to keep a hotel at that place.

The "Ninny" of the Gazette makes mention of "Mrs. Frances Layton participating in the select tea at Margaret Shand's." No such person is known about here. "Ninny" seems to be a little off in his side or his correspondence as well as a little off otherwise. Hey?

Jason Le Hommedieu is suffering from an attack of pneumonia at the home of his parents, near Tuttle's Corner.

The number of people on the sick list has been greater the past week than at any time through the winter although one would think the dry weather and bright sunshine would aid in banishing disease germs and in restoring people to health. It would be wise to clear up all accumulations of rubbish and barn. Use lime and carbolic acid freely about sink, and waste pipe openings. Clean up, and white wash the cellar, and give a few days thoughtful attention to correcting any unsanitary conditions that may exist about the premises. It will surely aid in bringing about a better state of things.

Under prevailing winds flying embers upon several of his friends around Layton during Saturday and Sunday last.

Lin Burton is in charge of the engine, at the steam saw mill again, having recovered from his late indisposition. The present job will be finished in about two weeks, and the engine will then be moved to the Joseph C. Bevan's tract.

The "Silly Billy" of the Gazette other week yelps "said Burr" was charged with "Ninny" but the same as "marked" around it still. A rose by any other name would smell as sweet, etc. etc. In '1 about time for Inman? John to hunt up a new title last good idea to change a name when it begins to get unwelcome.

H. E. Montrose landed 4 of the finest beauties last Thursday, and Edson Van-Sickle caught three on Saturday measuring about ten inches each.

The general verdict of those who have had work done at the shops of Mr. Wanklin, at Brenas is that they now have a workman there who understands his business. This is good news to lots of people who have for a long time done better to a shop, and faced indifferently at that.

The road machine gets to work this week, but the best time for working our roads has evidently gone by as usual with little done. The soil once settled and dry it is put into the roads and up into a fine dust bath when dry, and a beautiful mud when wet. The time to work a road is a goodly road is just as the frost has gone out, and the snow thereafter the better for the roads. But the whole thing is at a sale of the dust, and should be long ago retained.

Every person owning a red of ground should this spring set a tree, or even several of them. A fruit tree preferably, but let it be a tree of some sort. The rapid cutting off of our forests will eventually have a disastrous effect on climatic conditions that hold no good to agriculturalists.

Peter Shampert's wife fell from a wagon load of household goods while moving last week, and was run over by the wagon. It split three ribs broken, a fractured scapula, and many serious contusions of the body. Dr. J. N. Miller is in attendance and the patient getting along nicely at this writing.

Who can remember seven consecutive days of fine weather as we enjoyed last week especially so near the first of April.

The laws governing the committee appointment of assessors of roads will be found by those interested in the Philadelphia Laws of 1888, page 127, chapter 238, and Laws of 1903, page 120, chapter 73. The law evidently forbids the appointing to office of a person whose bills are to be acted upon by the body of which he is a member. In the main it is a wise provision and correct in principle.

Benj. B. Hursch has added a De Laval separator to his dairy equipment, which takes the cream from the milk perfectly. The milk is white, while warm, and is fine for calves, pigs, etc.

Gardening was in order last week and owing to the fine condition of the ground, and the favorable weather we planted earlier than usual. The first was done March 30. Look out for snow.

A leading citizen of Branchville gave us a new train of thought a few days ago by remarking that Frankford, like Sandystown had in the last twenty years expended enough money on their roads to Matamoras every foot of road in each township, and that to-day there is absolutely nothing to show for the thousands of dollars spent in that time. When, Oh! when will this folly cease, and the people begin to make proper use of a material of which they have such an abundance, and the money of which they have so little by crushing stone and making a really good road.

Miss Anna Hornbeck is visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity for a brief season, after which she will join her parents in Philadelphia to which city they have recently removed.

A prominent Newton lawyer remarked to me recently that the time was within his recollection when the people of townships bordering the Delaware were looked upon as hard drinkers, or at least as large consumers of the ardent. Now he says I am informed that the pendulum has swung to the other extreme, and the Hotel men are complaining that the people as a whole are becoming very temperate, and in many instances obtaining the serious detriment of their business. I am tempted to remark that "It is an ill wind that does not blow good to some one."

A son of Mr. Ilgebow while fly-casting last week had the fly caught by a gust of wind and came around so as to hook in ease under his eye. Dr. J. N. Miller deftly cut it out, but it was a close call for that joy.

An liberal collection was asked for in the church at Layton last Sunday morning to pay arrears of salary due the late Presiding Elder amounting to some $100 for this church to raise. Owing to the hard times and to unpleasant recollections as to his share in an event that took place in Montague a little over a year ago, the people should not be blamed that the collection was a light one.

E. B. Klutner was suffering last week from a genuine attack of la Grippe.

The Delaware Valley Railroad company is said to be undergoing a reorganization. New blood and new interests have been included that will materially add to the probabilities of some real work on this line, in which our people feel so deep an interest.

Price Brothers big sale of horses at Branchville on April 10 will be the last of the season. It will contain some of the best selections yet offered. Fair dealing, and good business principles are making these sales famous over a great extent of country. The car came in Saturday afternoon.

The Boss has evidently made a dismal failure of raising trailing arbutus in Paradise Alley, so the market is in no danger of being overstocked yet this spring. As the weather is getting warmer maybe he might put a merry-go-round to sport, he knows how to cultivate them. Sure.

The Burk farm has 1000 bushels of potatoes stored and the carting of them to market is going on this week. There seems to be enough apples and peaches in farmers hands to make an easy market until the new crop comes in.

Read machine went to work on Monday morning with three teams on, and the breeze to the blade missing. Result, a break down, and the machine at the shop. Tine files, and the roads are drying.

Francis Layton, and Mrs. Lizzie Wintermute are both on the sick list to the regret of their friends. Dr. James N. Miller is in attendance.

The sunset Court convene to-day and the hotel men are on the alert for business. Opposition is anticipated in some quarters. We understand that Judge Magle is on the bench at this time. Any objections coming before Judge Huston and Magle will undoubtedly meet with candid treatment.

We do not wish to seem added to the indiscriminate use of tally, but we must in justice give praise to the typographical work of the PIKE COUNTY PRESS. In our correspondence of nearly 30 years, no paper has followed manuscript as perfectly as the PRESS. It is in marked contrast in a readiness of spelling etc., with another paper that circulates extensively in this valley. It is hardly possible that the faults in the newspaper referred to, may be in the correspondents as much as in the office work. The known morals of the correspondents in this section suggest this observation. H.

MONTAGUE.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.)

Montague, April 4.—Who is the biggest fool, the one who receives a package on All Fools Day, or the one who puts it up and pays postage on it?

Judge H. H. Fullerton and Coroner Jos. Harding with a representative of the Port Jervis Union, of Port Jervis, spent a very pleasant evening at the Brick House last Thursday.

Harold Chambers was the first to start the plow in this town this spring. Married at the Presbyterian parsonage at Port Jervis on Tuesday evening, March 28th by the Rev. George E. Gillespie, John Hill and Miss Alice Casterton, also at the same time and place, George Cole and Miss Fannie Burrows, all of Montague. Congratulations are in order.

There will be preaching in the Brick House school on Sabbath morning April 11th at 10:30. Every one is invited. Prizes Westlock is working for Samuel Smith.

The doctor will be as mad as a h—l when he returns this summer and finds what some mischief loving ones have done.

A resident of Montague concluded to change his residence a week ago and remove across the mountain. Everything was arranged so satisfactory, the goods loaded and ready to start, when he found the lady of the house refused to go along and didn't but she went to Pike county, while his hand and goods went across the mountain.

Chas. E. North is improving under the skillful treatment of Dr. H. E. Emerson of Milford.

Any one in want of a good cheap work horse can find one at Milville.

Wm. Angel has moved again.

Captain James E. Cole has a new carriage.

Dust instead of mud now and the darn little stones in the road are enough to make you swear.

Here is some poetry written by a Montague school boy who evidently has a genuine aptitude as poet or theorist.

A TWO-CENT MILLIONAIRE.

This poem is of wonder and its use. How we've been used to make one swear. It makes a person have a single hair. To hear the trouble this man makes.

Where he resides I'll now describe, 'Tis very near a mountain side, His house is built on a little hill, His house sits on a little hill.

Mansion near a cross road side, It can be seen as past you ride, And in it lives a holy terror, He's called a two-cent millionaire.

He was elected school trustee, Since then he never could agree, He talks enough to make one swear, To hear the two-cent millionaire.

He thinks himself above the rest, Alas, his mind is deeply pressed, He takes no notice and no care, But he's only a two-cent millionaire.

He and a friend each took things cool, Which happened to have a single chair, This was handed to the millionaire.

I guess he can't find time to pass, And talk about a window glass, He quizzed a boy and made him swear, And this boy never gave a cent to pass.

He's been trustee we think too long, To tell you if he's doing wrong, There isn't a one of us will share, To help the two-cent millionaire.

So now to him we give a rest, The next trustee to elect, the best, He's no more a two-cent millionaire, But he's a two-cent millionaire.

—J. W. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wood, Jr., of Matamoras, and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kerr, of Port Jervis, visited Montague friends to-day.

The town fathers of Montague, will meet in convocation at Burrow's Hall, Tappanstown, Saturday, April 10th.

Those who have not yet paid their taxes better get a gall on or put up with the consequences.

H. Ludwig, Montague constable, goes to Newton this week to attend court.

DINGMAN'S FERRY.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.)

Dingmans, April 5.—There is a great deal of sickness in this vicinity at present.

James P. Crona, who for sometime has been suffering with a complication disease, is considered beyond hope of recovery.

Mrs. Emily Downs, Mrs. W. F. Sinsley and G. Y. Crona are also on the sick list. Mrs. D. D. Hosenrath, who has been sick for the past winter, is slowly improving.

A team belonging to Isaac Smith thought there was not enough excitement and took it in their heads to run away doing very little damage however.

In last week's Press was a statement giving the cost of iron bridges in the county for the past three years, and also the increased cost per foot of the one just let at private contract, which seems to show that there is something rotten in Denmark.

Dick, if you don't believe the school houses are in the condition, come and see them. They show for themselves. I was passing Colles the other day and if there had been old flats in the creek where they were minus the glass, they would have given the impression that it was McFadden's flat that the New York Journal writes so much about.

Are there any superstitious elected in Delaware township? If there were, where are they? The small bridges I spoke about some time ago have not been fixed yet. One over the creek near Layton has a large hole in it covered with a half inch board. There is a 10 mile working tax so we should have fairly good and safe roads.

MATAMORAS.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.)

Matamoras, April 7.—Mr. Richard Jefferson is home from the Dental College of Philadelphia, and will remain here until September.

Prof. Duran's dancing class on Tuesday evening at the Dancing Academy in Port Jervis, Mr. Cross being absent, Miss Squires is the pianist at his class, every Friday evening at Sparrowhawk.

The Peeres' about fishing club is now actively preparing for their annual fish by building a big large boat. Colonel Quick, we understand is doing the work and they are also getting their shad net ready. They expect to start operations in a few days.

We took a large number of our citizens to Port Jervis last evening to get the election returns and mostly they were very interested spectators.

Today is the first shoot of the Matamoras Gun club. They expect a very interesting meet and we may look out for some big scores as we have some expert marksmen among the club.

Mr. Perry, who has lately been on the Skimmer farm below Ty-States, moved his out-cillage with his family and household goods, and also a large amount of stock. He goes upon Christian Hill on the Berlin Road farm which he purchased some time ago. His large number of cows and calves created much attention on the streets yesterday. This farm is considered one of the best grass farms in this section. We welcome Mr. Perry into our midst.

Mr. Edward Lord's residence in Matamoras, on Thursday evening, was the scene of a very pleasant event, when Miss Millie Lord of Landville, who is visiting her brother, Mr. Edward Lord, had a surprise given her. Miss Millie was sitting in the parlor entertaining a few friends, who had called upon her when, all at once, she heard a loud post at the door bell.

On going to the door she found a party of 25 of her young friends. Miss Millie was equal to the occasion and entertained her friends in a very pleasant manner. Fine refreshments were served, games were indulged in and the evening was spent very pleasantly. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lord did their share in making it delightful for their guests. The party, before going to Mrs. Lord's assembled at the home of Misses Lulu and Emma Hillman on Cookson street.

Master Ira McBride was tendered a surprise party on Saturday afternoon by about 35 of the young friends, little Misses Abbie London and Jennie Stangerson gave out the invitations. The meeting place was at Abbie London's home. At two o'clock the little people left for Master Ira's home. He was playing in the yard not suspecting so many of his little friends would call upon him. But he took the surprise all in good part and gave his friends a very merry and happy party. Good things were taken care of and very soon Mrs. McBride had a nice table prepared for the happy party of little friends. After supper had been played out, they all went their way towards home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hartz of Matamoras tender their thanks to their many friends who so kindly did them favors during Mrs. Hartz's illness.

There are boys in Matamoras, we are sorry to say who are doing much mischief, that is setting fire to the dry grass, and endangering houses and barns. Only a few days ago the grass was set on fire near some houses and it required a great deal of labor to put it out before much damage was done. We caution these boys to be more careful in the future as if they are not they will be arrested and sent to Milford.

There were missionary services at Epworth Church on Sunday morning and afternoon and evening also. At the morning service the Rev. F. Curtis, the pastor, preached a very nice sermon to his congregation, as this was the last Sunday he would be with them, providing he was not returned to his church as he leaves for conference in a few days. He took his text from Matt. 28: 19-20, entitled "The Servant's Parting Words." It was a very nice discourse. In the afternoon, the Sabbath school celebrated the missionary services with appropriate recitations and hymns.

The exercises were of a very interesting nature. Rev. Mr. Curtis addressed the children nicely, and the superintendent, Mr. C. Langton, gave a nice address also. He gave the little ones and the older ones very good advice. Following is the program that was rendered:

Opening hymn, No. 41. Prayers—Mr. Durant.

Quarantine—Blanche Watts, Katie Ketchum, Cora Hillman, Alice Quick.

The exercises in the evening were conducted in a missionary spirit.

Following was the programme: Hymn No. 8. Prayer—Rev. F. Curtis. Choir—"Far Away Voices."

Scripture reading—Mr. C. Langton. Hymn 117.

GREELEY.

(Special Correspondence to the Press.)

Greely, April 6.—Saturday last David McKinn, Jr. passed through here with two loads of household goods on his way to New Jersey where we understand he has rented a farm.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Burcher went to Wilkesboro April 1st where they expect to make their home. Mr. Burcher having purchased an interest in a paper manufacturing in that city. They returned Monday to this place as Mr. Burcher is building a house for Joe Ainsworth which will be finished before removing permanently.

Dr. Howard and friend Mr. Cutler, made a very pleasant call at W. Hartwell on Sunday.

W. V. Burcher spent a few days in Wayne county, looking after a few local matters. Many neighbors are coming. Young Mr. Clumet is moving in one of W. V. Burcher's newly bought houses as he intends to build a new house in the near future on his own land.
