EDITORIAL.

THE BATTLE OF MINISINK.

We have read "Woodburn," which is a poem by Charles E. Stickney, describing the part taken in the battle of Minisink by the Jerseymen. A map accompanies the pamphlet which shows the location and general contour of the locality of the fight. We visited the spot in July 1879 and the map bears out very clearly our recollection of the aspect of the country, and would give any one an excellent idea of the surroundings. This accompanied by the description brings to mind quite vividly the sad and stirring event which transpired there over a century ago, and which brought sadness and desolation to so many homes.

The poem is good, and the notes are of excellent historical value. We wonder, however, that Brother Stickney was not more careful as to topographical errors in a work of this character. On the whole it is very creditable, and as containing matters of historical interest will awaken a new zeal among those who are curious as to the early history of the valley.

FOR CUBA LIBRE.

The Cuban struggle seems to have been overshadowed by the Greek war, but reports from that unhappy island are that many women and children are being starved to death by the methods of General Weyler. That the situation is extremely harrowing there can be no doubt. Ruin and devastation blights Cuba, and she will be long years in recovering from the terrible struggle she is making for independence. Before the close of this century there should be an end of Spanish cruelty and Turkish dominion, and the civilized and Christian nations should unite in suppressing both. The people are tired of the diplomacy which aims only at the aggrandizement of a nation by enlarging her territory while totally disregarding the claims of liberty and Christianity. Such may be statesmanship in one sense but not in the broadest and best sense of the word, and the masses will see that leaders whose views are thus contracted are deposited from power.

THE WAR IN GREECE.

The powers will now, it is reported intervene, and stop the war between Greece and Turkey. What has been gained by allowing the conflict to progress thus far can hardly be conjectured. There has been considerable loss of life and it is demonstrated that plucky as are the Greeks the Turks are numerically too strong for them to cope with. Perhaps the time is not yet ripe to dismember Turkey, or perhaps the powers are not in a position to agree on a division among themselves of the spoils. We would like to see Greece maintain her position and be able to drive out her enemy. She has the sympathy of this nation at all events in her heroic struggle for the advancement of the cause of civilization, and though her efforts may be belittled by the selfishness of semi-barbarians aided by the grasping diplomacy of England yet she has proven her claim to a position in advance of the nations which are powerful enough to hold in check her philanthropic and Christian spirit.

THE Wantage Recorder made its appearance last week in a new and decidedly improved dress. The arrangement of matter is different and the whole make up, if one so young in the business as the Press may venture the criticism, is more attractive and methodical than formerly. It is an interesting paper.

The longest tunnel in the world has just been commenced in Colorado. It will run under Pike's Peak and will be twenty miles long. There will be branches aggregating thirty miles so that the Peak will have under it a system of tunnels fifty miles long. It is expected that the ore obtained will pay the cost.

A MACHINE has been invented to caricature faces on purely scientific principles. The humorist can now throw away his pencil and depend on this "little device" to do his work. Surely an anti-evolutionist bill will be needed when every amateur can twist your features with a little T-shaped contrivance.

The Pennsylvania Legislature took a holiday Tuesday to see the Grand dedication ceremonies. That overworked body can now return to ponder on the Reform measures and apportionment bills with renewed zeal. They needed rest.

Bad Roads Are Expensive.

Bad roads, mud, ruts and irregularities are expensive things. An old farmer used to say that ruts and freezing and thawing cost him a new wagon every five years. Very few people realize what rough roads cost them. Of course it is only a bolt to-day, a tire tomorrow, a wheel sprung next week or an axle warped out of shape at some other time, but these things come, sometimes over-lapping like shingles on a roof. They are put down to wear and tear and in a way accepted as the inevitable simply because roads have always been bad and one scarcely has a right to expect anything else. But the difference in the lasting qualities of a wagon on a thoroughly good road and an extremely bad one would surprise the owner of such a vehicle were he able to keep track of the exact figures in the two conditions.—New York Ledger.

The Unmarked Graves.

On a thousand battlefields—some times defeated, sometimes victorious—these heroes offered themselves as willing sacrifices on their country's altar. They were torn by shot and shell; they died in ravines, in ditches, in the silent watches of the night, with no eye but the all-pitying eye of heaven to aid them; they lingered and starved in prison pens; they were footed on the weary march; they shivered in the cold bivouac; they stood on the picket line, in sheet and in storm; they sweltered in the dust and broil of midday; they died in swamps and in unknown places; they were buried in fence corners and filled in gory heaps, right and left; so that there are 147,000 unknown soldiers of the republic sleeping in unmarked graves.—Colonel L. H. Whitely.

Confederates in National Cemeteries.

Over 9,000 Confederates are buried in the national cemeteries, all told, principally, however, at Woodlawn and Fins Point and at Jefferson barracks, Camp Cutler, City Point and Loudon Park.

A War Incident.

The first time during the war that a passenger train was captured and robbed was in February, 1864, when the rebels captured the Baltimore express train for Wheeling near Kearneysville, W. Va.

THE TIRE QUESTION.

Road Students Are Unanimous For the Broad Bearing Surface.

In an article in the Indianapolis Journal on "Broad versus Narrow Tires" a writer argues strongly for the former. He says in part: "Without one single dissenting voice the students of road economies say that the greatest road destroyer is the narrow tread wagon. It cuts like a knife, and, no matter how carefully the surface is graded and leveled, a rut is bound to follow its use. It finds every soft spot and cuts until a fine reservoir is formed to hold the rains. On the contrary, the wide tire not only keeps gravel but also dirt ruts smooth and in good condition. The amount of bearing surface presented to the road prevents any material cutting, but on the contrary, acts as a roller, smoothing out rough spots and solidifying the smooth ones.

"When the frost is coming out of the ground in the spring, the narrow tire gets in its work of cutting the surface and forming ruts to star the season with, while the wide tire is in itself a roadmaker, and in packing the upheaved surface, the wide tire is also easier on the team. A much heavier load may be hauled with the same power on wide than on narrow tires over any road in the state outside the larger cities. The same is true on the farm and in the fields."

Two Bunches of Roses.

It was just a bunch of white roses, but the ribbons that tied it together told its history—one was blue and the other was gray. It was to be placed on the grave of a boy who had fought for what he believed was right, and the gentle woman who was to put it there believed that all animosity had passed by and the blue and the gray might be firm friends. So the bunch she carried for her own boy's grave was tied up in this way, and in her hand was another one tied the same. It was to be laid upon the grave of the stranger. That stranger, whose name was even unknown to her, had died fighting like a brave man, and therefore deserved to be remembered and to have tribute shown to his courage.—New York Press.

Road Notes.

The better the road is drained the easier it is maintained. There is usually good road material within easy distance of every madhouse. Good roads mean as much as good crops to the farmer. Without roads no community can hope to "get there."

Moving for Good Roads.

The first county good roads league in the state of Pennsylvania was formally organized at Scranton recently. The name of the association is the Lackawanna County Good Road League, and it will be a branch of the National Association of Good Road Leagues of the United States, which is connected with the department of Agriculture.

Since it is possible that thou mayest depart from life this very moment, regulate every act and thought accordingly. Death, certainly, and life, honor and dishonor, pain and pleasure—all these things happen equally to good men and to bad, being things that make us neither better nor worse.—Marcus Aurelius.

HARRISBURG LETTER.

Prospects of the Bill to Collect Interest on State Deposits.

NEW BILL GOVERNING RAILROADS.

Corporate Directors Who Must Report to the State Railroad Bureau, The Post Reading Bill Directed to Detail—An Investigating Legislature.

(Special Correspondence.) Harrisburg, April 27.—The bill to compel the payment of interest on state deposits has given the members of both houses considerable concern, but the house has passed the bill almost unanimously. It is realized that its defeat means the development of some great indignation among the people. There is a disposition manifested in the senate to amend it so as to restrict the number of depositories and limit them to the cities. This will raise a howl throughout the country districts. The country members feel that country banks have a certain right to their share of the state funds if they can give the necessary bond. There seems to be an influence at work, however, to prevent in such a way as to make it impossible for those who oppose it, there seems to be no question that the people are so concerned in a bill which has been suggested of naming six banks will by no means be satisfactory to the people, because this would have a tendency to concentration, which is too much the case under present conditions.

The present legislature will be noted for its many investigations. The appointment of Senators O'Brien, Durbin and Harshbarger by the senate to investigate the charges that $30,000 had been raised to defeat the bill to abolish child insurance in the state is an evidence that there is a disposition in this body to clear them of the charges made against them. Speaker Boyer has not appointed a house committee to investigate this scandal. This body is becoming tired of investigation, and they are weary of any more of it.

Those who have been on the floor of the house or senate know very well that there is no truth in these charges. Lobbyists of this kind are consequently shunned from the city. The independent spirit that prevails on the various questions submitted leaves them without any influence to effect special legislation at this session. The legislature, however, has complied with the request of the inspectors of the Eastern penitentiary for an investigation into the affairs of this institution which will be reported promptly, in order to have the report ready by May 6. This is quick work, but it is thought it can be accomplished properly in that time.

Rev. A. Lambert Spenser, ex-minister to Greece, Serbia and Roumania, lectured to a group of representatives recently. His subject was the war between Greece and Turkey. The eloquent orator described the causes which have led up to the present conflict. He described of the patriotism of the inhabitants of Greece, and their eagerness to take up arms against a power that was so instrumental in the massacre of 100,000 persons, was so impressive that it put a blush of shame on his hearers to think that at the same time the Christian nations stood at arms and looked on the infamously Turk. Mr. Spenser said all these disabilities were allowed in order to satisfy a spirit of selfishness, fear, jealousy and the greed of power for a few of the unfortunates. Matches for the subject were handled in a most able manner.

Able Women Advocates. The superior arguments put forth by a delegation representing the Woman's Suffrage association of Pennsylvania, who held a meeting recently in the hall of the house of representatives, and the excellent impression they made will no doubt be greatly in their favor respecting the legislation they desire. The bill they are especially interested in relates to the descent and distribution of estates of intestates. The bill is now in the hands of the judiciary general committee, which saw fit to negative the measure. It has not been acted upon by the senate. The presence of these ladies, armed with such able argument in favor of their bill, made a very strong impression on the minds of the members. Their efforts will be repaid, as there is a very strong sentiment developing that their demands should be heeded. Their lecturer on the subject of woman's suffrage undoubtedly greatly impressed the members present with the justice of what they are striving for, and which, once extended to them, as they claim, will have a tendency to uplift the race to a higher plane of morality and civilization. Their meeting was made the more interesting owing to the presence of a choir of young Indian women from the Carlisle Indian school, who sang with excellent effect several very choice selections.

At the last meeting of the capital building commission it was decided to select an architect of reputation, who are to receive from $500 to $1,000 each to pay their expenses. These are to enter into open competition in order to secure a representation of the highest grade of architectural talent. If any of them win the prize the sum paid for his preliminary studies is to be deducted from his commission. These architects will come one of the jury of three which will decide the prize winner. Thirteen weeks are allowed architects to prepare their designs, and a contract for the architect of the building will, it is thought, be awarded about Aug. 1. There has been no objection made in reference to the material to be used, and the architects will have the privilege to suggest that which they think is best for the working out of their plans.

Holland Officials Indicted. New Orleans, April 27.—The visit of the Italy commerce committee to the city has resulted in the indictment of four of the leading officials of the Southern Pacific. The indictments have been found in the United States circuit court. They are directed against the railroad officials as follows: Third Vice President J. C. Stubbs of San Francisco; second assistant to the president and comptroller; William M. Hall of New York; Traffic Manager C. N. Bohn of Houston and General Freight Agent H. A. Jones of Houston. The indictment charges that these men gave illegal rebates to shippers and named several to whom the rebates are said to have been given.

value of policies each year in the west of a later. The house of representatives has certainly committed a great error in delaying the passage of this bill.

These are insurance bills that have been introduced that are desiring of delay. However, and the one to enable trans-continental to transport passengers is one of them. There should be an end put to the attempt to vitiate corporations with power to do an omnibus business, and such are intended to confer enormous powers and wholesale franchises upon large concerns in this state. Although there have been amendments made in this bill to meet the various objections, it is now practically the same as originally intended. It would render the most powerful X-ray to discover any essential differences of the measure as amended from that first introduced. The verbiage has been very artfully changed, and on the whole there is a disposition without a difference.

The passage of the bill in the senate, which is famous as a landmark, and judiciously framed, and its provisions are such as to commend them to all fair-minded men. This act on the part of the senate shows that at least a portion of our lawmakers are manifesting a disposition to be fair and rational. The bill in its present shape, and as passed by the senate, while forming the security of the public, when it is needed, give protection to journalism at such points as cannot fail to be recognized as altogether fair and reasonable. It is to be hoped the house will be disposed to extend fairness and justice, and accept the bill as passed by the senate, and also pass it finally.

An Investigating Legislature. The present legislature will be noted for its many investigations. The appointment of Senators O'Brien, Durbin and Harshbarger by the senate to investigate the charges that $30,000 had been raised to defeat the bill to abolish child insurance in the state is an evidence that there is a disposition in this body to clear them of the charges made against them.
