MONTAGUE.

Woodcock season opens July 1st. Montague will not celebrate. By comparing the amount paid teachers in Montague and here it will be seen that our Board of Education is very liberal. Several guests arrived at the Riverside yesterday. Mrs. M. Louisa Thomas, of Philadelphia, is a guest at Dr. Bradley-Eyestone's Red Cottage. Master Britton Young, of East Orange, is at the Riverside. George Hornbeck, Jr. sports a new wheel. Oscar Bowman, of Branchville, was over here last week on business. Mr. G. Boline and family have left the Carswell farm and gone to Eldred, N. Y. Miss Edith Kleinmiller leaves Montague today for her Pike county home. Mrs. Luella McCoy, of Deckertown, is visiting her aunt, Miss Elleanor Cole. There is trouble arising in the church camp? Oversee Joseph Farling, of Port Jervis, is a frequent visitor down here. Mrs. Phoebe Cleo, of Layton, is visiting Montague friends. Haruo L. Roe, of the Deckertown Independent, finds it very attractive over here Saturday afternoon and Sunday. Blue eyes. The Misses F. and G. Mackoy, of Franklin Furnace, are at Mrs. H. Wentbrook. Robert Norton, of Port Jervis, was down here last week with his trotter. Josh Cole's "Little McCoy" has improved wonderfully of late. Josh now thinks he can clean up "Wild Bill" and make Jas. A. Rundle take the dust. Two men and three dogs and a shotgun were unable to kill a Montague woodchuck. The festival of the L. A. S. last Tuesday evening netted $24. Young men, keep on and you will see just what you are feeling for. Montague is civilized and not part of the Wild West.

OBITUARY.

Thomas Dutton, Sr. died at his home at Dattoonville, this township, last Wednesday about noon of general debility. Deceased was born in Nantwick, England, on July 1, 1811. In 1866 he came to this country and was employed by the D. L. & W. R. R. at their shops at Seranton. In 1881 he entered the employ of Erie Railroad at Port Jervis, where he was foreman of the boiler department till 1890 when failing health compelled him to resign. Mr. Dutton was twice married, his first wife being Eliza Collins, a native of England who died in 1871, the second wife, Mary E. Decker, survives him, also two sons of the first union, Thomas Dutton, Jr., of Montague, and James H., of New York, one son by his second wife, Samuel who resides at home.

MATAMORAS.

Charles Garrahart was very pleasantly surprised at his home on Saturday evening by about twenty of his young friends. Charles was equal to the occasion. He entertained his friends nicely with music and games and served nice refreshments. They all left before midnight, it being Saturday evening. His sister, Mrs. Dabbers Ball, of Waldwick, N. J., was at home on a visit. The evening was spent in a pleasant manner. The King's Daughters, connected with Egworth Church, gave a cake sale on Saturday afternoon at the store of G. H. Langton. Quite a number of cakes were sold. The cakes were of a very superior order. We trust the young ladies will have another sale soon as good cakes are always in great demand. D. L. Chase, who has a small general store with fruit and confectionery, postcards, etc., next to our butcher shop on Pennsylvania avenue, has just completed and perfected a most ingenious and handy gasolene steam engine for operating his peanut roaster. He made and devised every part of it himself in his shop. Mr. Chase says it is perfectly safe and his friends are advising him to take out a patent on the same. It has a nice little pop safety valve exhaust and everything that pertains to a stationary engine. The tank is of galvanized sheet iron. Well it is worth anyone's time to go and see it in operation. A lawn social was given by the Junior C. E. Society of Egworth Church on Tuesday evening at the residence of John W. Wesscott. On account of the rain the friends who had assembled had to be entertained in the parlors. Ice cream and cake was sold for the small sum of 15 cents, and refreshments were very nice. The waitresses were Misses Cora Billman, Blanche Watts, Louisa Stearns and Eva Chase. These little ladies waited upon their friends in a royal manner as also Mr. and Mrs. Wesscott and the Rev. Mr. Curtis entertained their friends nicely. Quite a neat little sum was realized. Miles, the ten-year-old son of Cornelius and Frances Bils, of this village, met with a sad fate about three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Together with his young cousin, Vincent Muesel, were playing near the canal in Germantown. Young Miles fell in and was drowned. His funeral took place on Tuesday in St. Joseph's Church.

Clay House and lot, is about to make extensive improvements on it. The house will be raised eighteen inches, and an addition 16 by 24 feet erected. Isaac will have a good and substantial home, when he gets it in shape to suit him.

The plea of hard times will serve many this year as an excuse for not celebrating the every glorious Fourth. As far as we have, the young people seem about evenly divided between Deckertown and Branchville, as the two most desirable points of attraction.

Wilson C. Gunn, James M. Stoll, Benj. B. Hursh and others are applying the points on their dwellings, or outbuildings and Hainesville is getting right into the procession. Even the church is receiving its share. Will some one please suggest a reason why the school houses should not be painted too?

It is stated on good authority, that Pastor Von Glahn remarked from the pulpit, in the church at Layton last Sunday, that while the Hainesville Church was being painted it would be impracticable to hold religious services in the school house at that place, on account of its filthy condition. Those who know, claim the pastor has exceeded the bounds of propriety, and also of truthfulness in making the statement.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDINGS

June 24th a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Adam Dilger when his only daughter, Barbara, was married to Herman Kroenke, of this place. Cole's orchestra furnished the music and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph B. Slesinger according to the German style in which two rings are given, one to the bride and one to the groom. The bride was handsomely gowned in heavy white silk trimmed with point lace, and the groom in the regulation dress suit. The rooms were suitably decorated with evergreens and pink and white roses. The Port Jervis Minister was present of which the groom is a member and rendered some fine music. About one hundred were present and a fine collation was served. The worthy couple departed on the same evening on a wedding tour which will embrace New York and other points, and on their return will live in Matamoras. The presents comprised many handsome pieces of silver, china and glassware.

GREELEY.

The weather is warmer but it is quite dry. A little rain would be very acceptable at present. W. V. Stinson makes weekly trips out this way delivering rice beer and refreshing soft drinks. Some city boarders arrived Sunday at the homes of Mr. Leanne and Mrs. Fousts who have been building large additions to their boarding house this spring. The Sylvania House will open next Sunday. And they will have some boarders on the fourth of July. Mary Roschline called on friends at Greeley Monday. Lucy Greening has left L. B. Rosenberger and gone to work at Mrs. Homingway's. Our mail carrier, Case Greening, will soon leave this mail route. His brother, J. W. Greening, will take it on the first of July. We hope Jerry will be as accommodating as Case who has been a good and faithful servant to Uncle Sam. Ernest Klioner has his collar well and nearly finished and will commence his house as soon as possible. The Greeley Club will hold a grand picnic on the fourth at their club house. Everybody invited. Richard Dotz has gone to New York for a week. Annie Remson opened the school at Greeley on Monday of this week. She is boarding at Mrs. George Hartwell at Burcher's Glen.

LAYTON.

On Friday last Alex. Hornbeck was caught snaring fish on lands leased by the Flat Brook club. The club secured his arrest, and Francis Layton went security for his appearance for trial on July 16, at the hotel of H. E. Mautras, before Justice Warner. Hornbeck though admitting fishing, pleads title, and will probably be induced to testify the case up. All who are interested should attend the trial as there will be an exhaustive review of the rights of the trout culturist, and the laws on poaching that will be highly educational and therefore of interest to everybody. It is evident those matters, when enough light has been thrown upon them will be settled and settled right. Every fair minded person should be willing to aid toward securing that result.

The house of Chas. McManis caught fire near the chimney last Thursday morning. It was seen in time, and as they believed extinguished, but some fire having fallen down between the siding, and the plastering, which they did not discover, it again broke out and gained such head way that both building and contents were destroyed. Insurance on building was $425.00. Contents had been insured previous to moving last spring, but the transfer of policy had not been made hence the contents were a total loss.

The main roads of the town have had the stones thrown out the past week, but the dust is so deep, that it makes little perceptible difference in their condition. James M. Stoll has been appointed Postmaster at Hainesville in place of James B. Fuller removed. An excellent appointment. Your correspondent and Mrs. Hursh had the pleasure of dining with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Van Sickle last Sunday, and being nicely entertained by music and singing afterwards. Before reaching home a pressing invitation to partake of a luncheon served by Dr. Miller and wife was accepted. Mrs. Miller is an expert in preparing sherries, and we are moved to ask why these delicious dishes are not often used in place of or in conjunction with ice cream at socials and festivals. It would be a dining card if they could prepare it equal that made by Mrs. Miller. Eston Van Sickle who has been going to school at Port Jervis during the last year, passed a successful examination last week, to advance of his class and was commended for his rapid progress. Messrs. Youngs and Smith are drilling a well at the race track above Port Jervis. They are competent men at the business. After July 1st Rev. Beak, Jr. will drive the Branchville and Milford stage, and carry the mails. We will miss the pleasant and accommodating ways of Frank Van Horn, the present driver, but no doubt Rev. will justify the good opinion of his friends, and prove a kind and efficient driver. Isaac Shafer, who purchased the Henry

A PEN SKETCH.

Again it becomes necessary to pay my compliments to "Tommy" John. It is with some reluctance that I proceed to do this in the manner I purpose doing, for the time was when this man was a friend, and as far as I am concerned, he should still be. While it pains me to expose the follies of this so-called christian gentleman, I feel it to be a solemn duty, and shall necessarily use plain English to do justice to his case. Had he not in an evil hour listened to bad advice, and become the willing tool of those who for a year or more, have used the Gazette as a medium through which to vilify me he would not have become the subject of this pen picture. A man I sense (as honest John is not) would not be thus used to traduce a friend. A glance at the make up of his mug will convince me that nature as an architect failed to include sufficient room in his top story for any great amount of brains, hence as I have pointed out, we should, we should, perhaps be too hard on honest John for what he does not know. But lack of wit does not justify lying, and that is what I am going to find fault about. In the Gazette of June 20, he retorts one of his falsehoods only in regard to the fall of the Pine Hill chimney, and in a manner characteristic of the man tells three or four more lies in order to soften the effect of the first one.

When he said I was seen in Branchville with a basket of hen fruit on one arm, and one on the other containing dairy products, wearing a cutaway coat with a PIKE COUNTY PINNAC sticking out of either pocket, he groups four silly lies together in a very small space. First I never wear a cutaway coat. Second no one ever saw me in Branchville with any PIKE COUNTY PINNAC sticking out of my pockets. Third nor with a basket of eggs on one arm, and dairy products on the other. At least three lies from the whole cloth. What must the people of Branchville who read the Gazette and are well acquainted with my methods of doing business think of a correspondent who will write such trash, and of the Gazette for printing it. If they know honest John as well as some of his neighbors do they would wonder why the Gazette and the Deformed church of Beavens do not kick him out altogether. They will be forced to do so eventually as that people may read the one and join or remain in the other without a feeling of being disgraced by the company they are in. I have always been taught to believe that a man who will lie is not a good newspaper correspondent nor a good member of a church, in fact that a man who will lie will be very liable to fracture the eighth commandment. May be these are old fashioned notions, yet if I lived in the neighborhood of such a man I would be an honest John or a Highman Hankins, or whoever else, I should certainly keep a sharp eye on my hen roosts, and a shot gun handy. I suggest to the Gazette that since honest John told two lies in the Gazette of June 7th regarding me, and in retreating one told three or four more, that judging from the make up of the man I anticipate he will keep up the arithmetical progression and let six or eight lies next time and so on until the Gazette will no longer have room to contain them all, or until the fate of Ammadah falls him of which there appears enough likelihood to justify the Gazette Company in beginning at once to take out life insurance on this degenerate scoundrel as a paying business investment. Of course honest John has been suffering some from big head since finding out he could write for the papers and the two Edwards at Layton who have grievous neck aches sports of their own have got poor Highman in some chiding like the same position the old man got his grandson with the baronet's nest. The old gentleman says, six he, Jakey just pinch the hole shut and then you can cut it off, and do as you like with it. Jakey in pinching the hole shut pinched the end of the nest off, and the angry hornets - well you can imagine the nest better than I can tell it. Perhaps Highman has wit enough to extract a moral from this and if so, may it rebound to his eternal welfare, to the glory of the church of which he is such a brilliant head, light, and the edification of his assistants who furnish him, with spiritualistic when he finds none in his own knowledge box.

OBITUARY.

ELLEN SHOTWELL WILLIAMSON. Another aged resident of this county has been called away and one known by many in this vicinity. Mrs. Williamson wife of ex-Sheriff John M. Williamson died at her home in Lackawanna Saturday June 20, of apoplexy aged nearly seventy-three years. She was the daughter of Dr. George F. Shotwell who was a practicing physician in Milford from 1827 to 1841. Her mother was Catharine Clarke who was a grand daughter of Jas. Barton one of the earliest settlers in the town. She married in 1844 her surviving husband and leaves besides him two sons, John S. of New York George of Wisconsin, and two daughters, Mrs. Kate Anderson and Mrs. Rouben Smith of New York. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Augusta E. King. The funeral was held Tuesday June 29, and the remains interred in the cemetery at Lackawanna.

CAROLINE HALSEY COX.

This venerable lady known to many of our older people died at the home of her brother-in-law John Nye at Hawley Pa., June 23 of general debility, aged eighty-two years and eight months. She resided several years ago in Milford and her son B. Halsey was employed in the Records office. She was a daughter of Judge Halsey of Sussex county, N. J., and is survived by one sister, Mrs. John Shouse who also resides at Hawley. The remains were brought to Milford Friday last for interment.

Henry L. Rosset naturalized. Commonwealth vs. Herman Paul Schultz. Defendant's counsel moved for a rule to show cause why new trial shall not be granted for reasons as follows: First, the court erred in not quashing the array of jurors 350 names having been directed to be placed in the wheel for 1827 and but 340 were placed in it; Second, the verdict was against the weight of evidence; Third, the verdict was against the law because the alleged threats made by defendant were remote and not in any way connected with the fatal wound; Fourth, that one of the Jurors had expressed an opinion as to the guilt of the defendant prior to the trial. The court granted a rule returnable at 11 o'clock July 19th.

The Commissioners at a meeting this week resolved to build a bridge at Deep Hollow in Delaware township but did not determine whether of iron or stone. We think wherever practicable county bridges should be built of stone, and there is no reason why with good foundations and sufficient arch way they should not be permanent, and not cost more than iron structures, according to the present apparent price of iron. Let us keep the money in the county, distributed among our own people.

More Railroad Talk.

From the papers we learn that application has been made for a charter for a new railroad to be called the Delaware Valley, Hudson and Lehigh Railroad Company. The company is composed of Dr. J. B. Lang, President; Hon. M. F. Coolbaugh, treasurer, and Miles G. Shoemaker, Rush, Pa., Charles Woolsey, Brooklyn, N. Y., E. F. Peters, Bushkill, V. Pride, Brooklyn, J. Kellow, Pen Argyl, and H. J. H. Shull, Stroudsburg, directors. The capital stock has been fixed at $250,000 and ten per cent. paid, etc. As usual the gentlemen connected with such magnificent enterprises are reticent, but say there is plenty of money and some of the members are very wealthy men. They also say that if property owners along the line will deal squarely, be liberal, and work with the new company the road will be built. The road will run from Wind Gap to Matamoras. We are eminently in favor of a railroad down the valley, and sincerely hope one will be built. This proposed road would be about fifty-five miles long. By the act of assembly the capital stock shall not be less than ten thousand dollars for every mile proposed to be constructed, ten per cent. of which must be paid in cash. This company therefore might have been capitalized at $550,000, and have paid in $55,000. They are so wealthy however they capitalize at $250,000, and pay in $27,500 more than was necessary to secure a charter. Just take this extra amount gentlemen, and deal liberally and fairly and squarely, and work with the land owners, and you will not have any trouble, not a mite, and then the road will surely be built.

L. A. W. Notes.

Owing to the national L. A. W. meet being this year scheduled for Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania division will not hold a State meet. The various State championships will be awarded by the State Racing Board to various meets throughout the State.

New York and Pennsylvania are this week tied for first place in the number of applications for membership in the L. A. W., each being credited with 565 names. The total number of applications is 1,945.
