LAYTON.

Our Jersey friends who organized to fish for shad last spring had two fishing shifts, and each fished on alternate nights. On Monday night the men's fishing shift went down to take their turn, but found that the other shift beaming over an shoals had fished on Saturday night and although clearly a violation of the law resisted the regular shift, and said they would take the chances. The Monday night shift was not only not allowed to use the drift of which they were equal owners, but were abused and sent off with threats, but were a school. The fisherman who was the matter in the house, all the fishermen who were in the Monday night shift are accused of giving information. This is wrong because as the Warden is in possession of names gathered from various sources of which this particular person was not cognizant. If he was giving info. that it would be done so openly and frankly that every one who wished might know it.

The Sussex Telephone company are in receipt of their first order of wire amounting to 8 tons. An additional order of about 9 tons will be placed as soon as satisfactory figures are obtained. This gives some idea of the magnitude of the task this young company has cut out for itself.

The shop at Beavertown is working its way into popular favor. The Messrs Wanklin prove to be expert horse shoers. Several horses that had gone wrong under the care of other smiths have been corrected to the satisfaction of their owners at this shop. If you have a horse that forges, interferences has contracted fetter or with other ailments try them. They understand their business.

Mrs. Mary Francis Williams of Scranton was visiting the family of Benj. Mettler last week and took in the picnic at Beavertown. Many friends of her girlhood days greeted her there, and it must be remembered that she had the happy days of yore when we were all boys and girls together.

While taking a lead across the mountain a few days ago on broad tires the manager of the Sussex Telephone company made something like the following observations: "A few leads passing by on wide tires would make me a fair bicycle path; a few more would obliterate these trails, and a few more would cover the roads, and since they are easier of draught why don't you all get the wide tired wagon?" As I could not controvert his statements what should I have answered him?

The Flat Brook Club to protest itself against poachers who would, and did steal trout from its own streams to sell them have since 1895 quit trying and gone to hatching their own trout. They have not abandoned any claims rights thereby, but do not suppose that if the club was still trying to catch trout they would be much less howling against the club!

People cutting peaches both ways across the mountain complain of the roughness of the road. In view of the traffic on this thoroughfare from Turtles Corners to Branchville, which has enormously increased in the last five years it is pertinent to ask whether the people will ever become awakened to the deep interest they have in putting this road on the grade that nature has made possible through the gap of the mountain, and of adopting a system of construction and maintenance that would relieve the trip of half its present difficulty. It is entirely possible and beyond question that such improvement would be increased traffic and ease of moving produce, pay for itself in less than five years. Money is not double itself in this time limit; it is not a good investment!

MONTAGUE.

Yes, we always like to come to a point over here.

How about it, does attending a party and getting f-l-g together?

A family jar of no slight proportions has broken the bliss of a married couple over here. It threatens to end in a cyclone.

If you want to know anything about the brush along the roads in Montague, ask Frank Layton and "H. L."

Port Jervis has a squalling cat, and Montague a few worthless, howling dogs. "H. L." is having his hands full at present. Wonder if he will give a Paines supper this fall?

Our minister, Rev. H. H. Spor, is ill with malaria.

Gottfried Wieland, Sr. has been able to visit the postoffice.

Samuel Smith is reported to be gradually improving.

Miss Mary Jane Preston, of Unionville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Cooper.

Edward Everett, with his family, of East Orange, is visiting friends here. As usual he is very up.

When a young man calls on his lady love seven evenings in the week, and four times between a wedding must soon occur.

Here you are: This town has a young lady who after laboring all day walks seven miles unaccompanied to a dance. At four in the morning she walks three miles farther after some clothes and then returns to her work.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Minieck Reformed Church was organized last spring. The congregation then was in debt for back salary about three hundred dollars. To-day the debt is wiped out and the ladies have over one hundred dollars in their treasury. Mrs. Robert Armstrong is president, and Mrs. Bessie Sayre, vice-president. All members are requested to be present at the next meeting Thursday, September 9th at the house of J. A. Cole.

One of the stage horses dropped down in front of the postoffice on Tuesday afternoon, and died in a few minutes.

Mrs. Caroline North and family left Milville Monday for Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will reside hereafter.

Charles Palmer and daughter, of Port Jervis, visited Misses host Pettibone yesterday. Miss Babbs has a cute little male.

The United States flag again hoists at Cherry Cottage.

George Armstrong has a good fresh cow for sale.

The Millville bridge is being repaired. There is one in Road
