EDITORIAL.
PITTSBURGH dispatches announce that every blast furnace in Allegheny county is at work for the first time in three years, and that more furnaces are now in operation in that section than ever before. Mr. Bryan, who insisted while in Ohio that he saw no signs of returning activity, should have looked a little more closely.

Dox's Review states that the present business in the boot and shoe line surpasses all records in shipments from the East for Novembers, being 27 per cent. larger than in the prosperous period of 1892, and that the total for the year will probably be the greatest ever known. The works are running full capacity, and the host of urgent demands would seem to indicate an inability to satisfy the demand.

American manufactures continue to be popular abroad despite the assertion that protection would make them unpopular. The London Economist, of recent date, says that England is becoming a large purchaser of American manufactures, especially in iron and steel lines, and that English manufacturers must cheapen their cost of production if they are to hold their ground against the American competitor.

The English statistician Mulhall has disappointed the free-traders by pointing out the fact that the exportations of the United States have increased three times as fast as the population during the protective-tariff period. Mr. Mulhall shows in a recently published article that while the increase in population in the past twenty years has been 58 per cent., the increase in the value of exportations has been 175 per cent.

And now the official organ of the Populist party in Idaho has abandoned the support of the silver theory and insists that the proper currency for the country is paper, to be issued by the Federal Government, and made legal tender for all debts. This is but a step further. If the mere saying so by the Government can make a dollar out of fifty cents' worth of silver it can make a dollar out of nothing's worth of paper.

Railroad earnings in August, September, and October have shown a large gain in nearly every case over the corresponding months of last year. The increase in October earnings was about $5,000,000 over that of last year, while those of August and September were even larger, thus justifying the attitude of the great army of railroad employees who last year cast their votes with the party of sound money and protection, irrespective of what their former party relations had been.

BEWARE OF SHARPER.
This is the season when the peripatetic vendor of wares is going around like a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour, and he finds many victims. It may be pictures, cheap chronos, or he offers as fine oil paintings, or he will enlarge the photograph of some member of the family, life size, very cheap, or he will sell you some useful article, or remnants of cloth at a ridiculously low figure, or perhaps it may be a gold brick of some other kind, any way it is a scheme to get your hard earned dollars for less than their value. Reputable merchants in your own town will sell you goods at a reasonable profit, and then if any thing is wrong you can have it made satisfactory. With the traveling seller it is different, you must pocket the loss because he has departed for other pastures. Patronize those who advertise in your home paper, and beware of the men who insist on giving you something for nothing. They don't do it. They manage to get the something and you will most likely be richer in only one thing—experience.

CARELESSNESS WITH FIRE ARMS.

The recent unfortunate accident by which a young man in the full flower of health and strength was stricken down again emphasizes the careless use and handling of fire arms. A gun is a dangerous, deadly thing and that fact should always be borne in mind by those carrying or using them, either alone or in company with others. There is no safety unless the utmost caution is constantly exercised. We have seen men carry loaded guns on their shoulders in the woods with the muzzle pointing forward, as well as in various other dangerous positions. The papers teem with accounts of more or less severe accidents from carelessness with guns and pistols, and yet men and boys go on wounding or killing themselves or others in the same careless manner.

When will they learn to exercise the necessary care and proper regard for life and limb?

Pilate's Account of the Crucifixion.

A translation of what purports to be a report made by the Roman Governor of the Crucifixion has just been published. He gives an account of his interview with Jesus in which he at first requested, and then ordered Him to observe more moderation in his discourses, and promised protection and that his palace of Justice should be open as an Asylum. To this the Nazarene with a divine smile replied "It is not in your power to arrest the victim at the Altar of expiation," and disappeared like a bright shadow behind the curtains of the palace. Pilate then describes the steps taken by him to avert the death of Jesus at the hands of the rabble. If the report is authentic Pilate was greatly troubled and would gladly have prevented the death of Christ, but he affirms that he found himself, with a handful of veterans in the midst of a rebellious city too weak to suppress a disorder, and having no other choice left but to tolerate it. He says the seditious rabble had seized Jesus, and although they felt they had nothing to fear from the Pretorium, believing with their leaders that he winked at their sedition, continued vociferating, Crucify him! Crucify him! The parchment describes vividly the civil commotion into which Jerusalem was plunged, and the furious animosity of the multitude as the crowd was borne along, whirling and rolling like living waves from the portals of the Pretorium to Mount Zion. He then describes the coming of Joseph of Arimathea and the weeping women to beg of him permission to bury Jesus of Nazareth, to which he gave assent and ordered his general Manlius to go and take some soldiers with him lest the instrument should be interfered with.

The Country Boy's Opportunity.
BY THE EDITOR.

The boy raised on a farm has a better chance in life than the city-bred boy. This is our profound conviction after years of experience and observation in city and country with young men in a wide range of industries. The farm-bred boy almost invariably has the better constitution—those elements of good health and ability to stand hard work that mean so much in this life. He is usually endowed with a stronger moral character. We are shocked if a country lad in our employ goes wrong; city youth are more likely to be suspected. Absolute integrity was never in greater demand in young men.

The city boy often has a pertness or "smart" air that country youth do not possess. But the latter more frequently develop the manly substantial carriage that denotes real character. His mind is better trained than the average town boy's. He may not be quite as glib in his book learning, but the farm-bred boy, taught in Nature's school to observe and understand, has a rare foundation upon which to build a knowledge of industry, art, science or any branch of farming.

The boy on the farm does not appreciate all this, but he ought to be thankful for his country life. After he has had some years of experience in other vocations, he will realize how true these words are. The farm is the place to rear a family.—An Agriculturist.

KEEP THE BOY AMBITIOUS.

Many of us have seen the discontented boy making a pretense of picking up stones or potatoes, or perhaps sulkily working his way across an onion or turnip field and we know something of his value in the economy of a farm. And on the other hand, we are all more or less acquainted with the resolute, energetic boy, whose limbs never seem to tire, and whose great ambition is to do the work of a man. One such boy, who is striving to do all he can, is worth a dozen of those who are striving to do as little as possible. And yet the two boys are primarily the same.

We coax the restive or refractory horse, and do not think time wasted in training him to usefulness; and yet some of us are unwilling to do as much for the boys who are being fitted for the higher and more intelligent work of the farm. We all like good stock and good land, and good seed—especially the last, for that is the secret of success. But of all seeds which yield satisfaction and prosperity, there are none so sure as the judicious sowing of reading matter and games for the long winter evenings, an occasional half-holiday during the summer, when the boy's nerves are strained and overwrought by continual hard work, and social, familiar conversation at all times. Make him feel that he has a personal interest in the farm, and is not a mere dependent, and he will come out all right.

Remember that work is well done when the laborer's heart is in it, but when the heart strays the work flags.—American Agriculturist.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

Farmers keep in mind the institutes to be held in Pike county at Milford Feb. 14th and at Dingmans Ferry, Feb. 15, 1898. W. L. Nesbit will not be present as heretofore announced and his place will be supplied by C. L. Peck, of Potter county, whose subjects relate to dairying and the use of farm manures. Hon. N. B. Critchfield, of Somerset county, and Enos H. Hess, of the State College, will also be present.

Every trade and business in these times requires the most watchful care to ensure even a measure of success, and this statement is particularly true of farming. The farm waste must be prevented and every economy of method practiced in order to obtain satisfactory results. But a small outlay of time is necessary to attend these institutes and many valuable hints and suggestions may be obtained. It will pay in more ways than one to be present and take part in the proceedings.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. "This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good." Sold by Druggist and General Merchants in Pike County.

L. A. W. Insurance.
One of the advantages of L. A. W. membership is a small life insurance, the heirs of any subscriber to the official organ who is killed in or dies as the result of a bicycle accident being entitled to $100. The first claim of this kind in Pennsylvania was paid two weeks ago, to the father of Willoughby K. Butterworth, who recently died from injuries received in an accident which occurred at Eighteenth and Oxford streets, Philadelphia, receiving a check for that amount through the Pennsylvania division office.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros., of that place and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by Druggist and General Merchants in Pike county.

A Common Cold
and common carelessness can make a combination strong enough to defy all the healing skill of the physician. Common carelessness lets the cold root and grow. Common carelessness says, between paroxysms of coughing, "It will be all right in a day or two," and the common end is confirmed lung trouble, perhaps consumption. The common-sense treatment of a common cold is a prompt dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most efficient and reliable cure for colds and coughs, and is constantly prescribed by physicians.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is now put up in half-size bottles, for half price—50 cents.

A Word with You.
It is worth your while to give attention to some reasons why you should be a reader of The Philadelphia Press. The Press is the greatest home newspaper of the United States. Its record of each day's events, in all parts of the world, is more complete than that of any other paper. It has no space for sensationalism or anything tending to lower the moral tone.

No other Philadelphia paper has equal facilities for obtaining prompt and accurate reports of news events, wherever they may occur. Reporters for The Press are in every section of Philadelphia every day, special correspondents of The Press are stationed at every county seat and important town in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, and at every news center in the United States and the world.
No other Philadelphia paper equals The Press in its special departments—the woman's page; the literary page; the market page; the pages devoted to church news, school news, society news, G. A. R. news, sporting news, etc.
The Press is an advocate of the principles of the Republican party, but it prints the news of all political events more fully than any other paper; hence The Press should be your paper, no matter what your political opinions are.
