

The Kidneys and Blood

If you want to be well, see to it that your Kidneys and Blood are in a healthy condition. It is an easy matter to learn what state your Kidneys are in. Place some of your urine in a bottle or tumbler, and leave it stand one day and night. A sediment at the bottom shows that you have a dangerous Kidney disease. Pains in the small of the back indicate the same thing. So does a desire to pass water often, particularly at night, and a scalding pain in urinating is still another certain sign.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is what you need. It will cure you surely if you do not delay too long in taking it. Kidney diseases are dangerous, and should not be neglected a single moment.

Read what P. H. KISS, of Union, N. Y., a prominent member of the G. A. R., says:—"I was troubled with my Kidneys and Urinary Organs and suffered great annoyance day and night, but since using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I have greatly improved, and that dreadful burning sensation has entirely gone. I had on my lip what was called a pipe cancer, which spread most across my lip, and was exceeding painful; now that is almost well. I also had severe heart trouble, so that it was difficult to work; that is a great deal better. I have gained nine pounds since I commenced taking the Favorite Remedy; I am greatly benefited in every way, and cannot praise it too much."

Favorite Remedy is a specific for Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles. In Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, and Skin and Blood Diseases, it has never failed where the directions were followed. It is also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females. All druggists sell it at $1.00 a bottle.

Sample Bottle Free! If you will send your full postoffice address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. GAGE'S MONEY PLAN.

THE SCHEME FOR MONETARY REFORM READY FOR CONGRESS.

Outlines of the Recommendations Which Secretary Gage Will Submit to the Legislature for the Improvement of the Currency and Banking System.

New York, Nov. 24.—The Herald this morning publishes the following report of the Secretary Gage's proposed plan of currency reform, which will be submitted to Congress in his annual report. Briefly, the secretary proposes to establish a fund to set over to this division $125,000,000 in gold coin from the general fund of the treasury, to be used only for redemption purposes; to place in this division all silver dollars now held for redemption of silver certificates and all silver bullion and dollars coined therefrom bought under the act of 1890.

He also proposes that $200,000,000 in greenbacks be collected and deposited in this issue and redemption division, to be disbursed only in exchange for equivalent amounts of gold coin, this gold to be held as a part of the redemption fund, thus virtually retiring the greenbacks so collected. He proposes to refund the national debt in bonds, payable, principal and interest, in gold and bearing interest at 3 1/2 per cent.

In order to carry out these changes without unduly contracting the currency of the country the secretary proposes that the national bank law be amended so as to permit national banks to be established at a minimum capital of $25,000 in places having a population of 2,500 or less; that the tax on national bank circulation be amended so that the bonds be reduced to one-half of 1 per cent per annum; that the banks be allowed to issue notes up to the full value of the bonds deposited, and further, that the banks be allowed to deposit with the treasury of the United States greenbacks, treasury notes or silver certificates to the amount of $500,000-$1,000,000, against which the comptroller of the treasury shall issue to them national bank notes.

THE THORN TRIAL.

A Jury Selected and the Taking of Evidence Begun.

New York, Nov. 24.—The second trial of Martin Thorn for the murder of William Guidenuppe, the bath-rubber, is fairly under way in the Queens county court at Long Island City before Justice Meddow. The lawyers for the prosecution and defense directly attorney, agreed to secure a jury as quickly as possible, and as a result the following were selected with but little delay: Thomas Morris, carpenter, Corona; Jacob M. Wesels, farmer, Bayville; George W. Cox, Jr., a mason, Sea Cliff; William W. Hatfield, farmer, Hollis; Wellington Germond, carpenter, Hollis; John S. Dorian, a farmer, Woodlawn; Louis Fischer, carpenter, Long Island City; Nicholas Blake, farmer, Keyport; Charles Schreiber, real estate dealer, Valley Stream; George H. Ellard, watchmaker, Great Neck; Valentine Oatts, farmer, Hempstead; Elias Yalson, farmer, Port Washington.

As soon as the jury was completed District Attorney Townes opened the case for the prosecution. In a comprehensive statement he pointed to the case of the people against the accused barber before the court and jury and promised to prove everything that was charged in the indictment. His speech for the most part was delivered and finished the taking of evidence was begun.

Evidence was first taken tending to establish the corpus delicti, a constitutional examination of the body of the deceased, each one containing a portion of the discolored body, and several police officers were examined in the manner in which the different parts were brought to the New York morgue. Some of the bath-rubbers who knew Guidenuppe in life and worked alongside him, were also examined as to the identity of the remains which were found in four sections in three bundles, and they were positive that, judging from peculiar marks in the different parts, they belonged to the body of the missing bath attendant.

This evidence was substantially the same as that taken on the first trial, already reported in these dispatches.

A PRINCE OF RASCALS.

HOW WOODWARD MANAGED TO DEFRAUD EVERY ONE.

He Honored to the Jury of Thirty-seven Escapes From Jail—Wealthy People Were His Victims and the World His Field—Claimed to Have Got $1,000,000

New York, Nov. 24.—William Carroll Woodward, alias the Hon. Lionel Murgess of London and Colon and alias the Hon. William Hawley of Bombay and Tahiti, was found guilty of blackmail. In a marvelous career of crime extending over a period of 20 years this is the first conviction that has been brought to him, and for the accomplishment of this the public is indebted

WILLIAM CARROLL WOODWARD, to the skill of Assistant District Attorney Carpenter, whose management of the case throughout was both brilliant and thorough.

The distinguished rascal, with the facility which invariably at some time comes to all criminals, insisted upon going on the witness stand and telling the story of his life. He denied, it is true, the specific charge on which he was indicted, but his confessions as to his past life were so startling that a jury might have felt itself compelled to convict on general principles.

He sought to prove an alibi, the charge of blackmail by demonstrating that at the time of the conspiracy against the wealthy Mr. Bridgman he was engaged in "traveling between Boston and New York, sometimes by boat and sometimes by rail, teaching the dukes how to play cards and showing them how much there was about the game that they did not understand." But he was careful to say he had dealt only with dukes and that he turned no card within the city limits. He used New York as a sort of distributing center, spending here what he won on his travels.

Mr. Carpenter led him on dexterously. Now and then the court warned him that he was imperiling his case with the jury, but he kept right on. He seemed eager to show that whatever he had done abroad he had committed no crime in this city. He recited his foreign adventures, probably with a view to suggesting that he was so busy abroad and so far from parts so profitable that it would have been absurd for him to be at work here. He gave his opinion of the French police with a frankness that was charming, and as for the Scotland Yard staff he told of how they operated between chuckles. He would have asked nothing better than to have the best of them at a poker game, but for the fact that they had no money.

His Booty a Million.
"Well," asked Mr. Carpenter, "you got away with a good deal of money?"
"I did," was the reply.
"How much?"
"Possibly a million dollars."
"A million dollars?"
"Yes, maybe a few dollars less or a few dollars more. I am speaking now of my recollection at that time. A few thousand in those days meant little to me."
"Was that before you went to Ceylon?"
"Oh, yes; before. I went to Ceylon in a steam yacht which I purchased."
"You had a little affair there in relation to some diamonds?"
"Yes; but really that affair was much exaggerated. Ceylon is not the paradise that it's been painted."
"You and the diamonds, however, left Ceylon simultaneously, I apprehend?"
"Now," said the prisoner, "Ceylon is an English colony, and I am ready to go there any time they may think they want me extradited."
"How much were the diamonds worth?"
"Twenty thousand pounds. Some of the stones were poor."
Escaped Thirty-seven Times.
"How many times have you been in jail?" asked Mr. Carpenter.
"I am 27 years old, and I have been arrested 27 times. It was predicted that I would be arrested 40 times—that gives me three more times. After I have been arrested 40 times I will give the world a great medical discovery. A typhoid toxin, you see."

By admit leading Mr. Carpenter got him back to where the man most foolishly became vain, and he told of a wonderful trip he took around the world immediately after his diamond escapades in Ceylon. He spoke pleasantly of his life in the south Pacific, of his trip through Hawaii, of his extermination in California and his roughing it in Cripple Creek. After all, he thought he liked Australia best of all countries.

After the story told by Woodward, it did not seem possible that there could be any doubt as to the result. The jury surprised every one by remaining out one hour and 20 minutes, but when they returned their verdict was "Guilty as charged." Woodward looked at them calmly, buttoned his handkerchief about him and prepared for his march back to the Tomb.

It is one of the remarkable things in this man's variegated career of crookedness that this case of blackmail is the first case of any kind in which he ever had to face a jury, though he had been arrested frequently. He will be sentenced on Monday next, and probably will get the full term for the offense, five years in Sing Sing.
