EDITORIAL.

The sensational report in a New York paper that we were near another bond issue is utterly without foundation. The treasury officials say they are getting more gold than they need or desire, the reserve now reaching about one hundred and sixty million dollars.

It will be good news to those owning lands on which there is unpaid purchase money due the State to learn that Secretary Latta has discontinued. This will afford great relief to many, and it is to be hoped that the next Legislature will either repeal or modify the law by striking off the excessive interest.

OUR EXPORTS INCREASE.
 Thirteen nations offered formal protests against the Dingley tariff bill, probably a larger number than ever before. The records of our commerce since that law went into effect show that in the face of nearly every country thus protesting our sales have increased under the law, instead of decreasing, as was predicted by the opponents of the bill. Taking the thirteen countries which offered protests, and comparing their purchases from us in the first two months of its operations with the corresponding months of the preceding year, they are found to be twenty-five million dollars greater.

THE OUTLOOK BRIGHT.
 Official figures continue to show such prosperity as has not been known for many years. The exportation of wheat in November was nearly fifty per cent larger than during last year, and the shipments of last week from the Atlantic ports are the largest recorded in any week for many years, if not at any time in the history of the country. In round numbers the actual exports of wheat for the crop year thus far has been a hundred million bushels. If the increase in price is taken in consideration it will be seen that farmers are getting a large sum of money for their crop this year.

Corn is also being largely exported, the increase for November being nearly a million bushels in excess of the month last year.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS AT CHRISTMAS.
 Christmas is coming and the Sunday schools are filling up with the boys and girls who want to be on the roll at that time for what there is in it.

They expect a reward not for well doing but for the reward itself. Perhaps their names may appear on the books as occasional attendants, but now they are regularly in place and will be until after the Christmas distribution when their zeal will again flag and they will become absentees. It is a doubtful policy to thus encourage such boys and girls, and has on the whole a demoralizing effect on the school. Those who attend regularly, are not slow to discover that their material reward is perhaps no greater than that of those who do not, and children often gauge their actions by no higher standard. If presents are given to those irregular in attendance at all there should be a system by which absences should count against them and a certain number of marks debar them from anything more than recognition. There is no reason why every boy and girl in Milford should not attend some Sunday school, no more than there is why the parents should not attend church, and if the Christmas presents were withheld from those who do not with reasonable regularity appear the deprivation might be one inducement for better attendance, though by no means the highest.

Now boys and girls try next year and see if you cannot become regular attendants, and so deserve not only the commendation of having done your duty, but the present you expect to receive as well.

Political Gossip.

There is every reason to believe that Congress will promptly ratify the Hawaiian annexation treaty, as has already been done by the Hawaiian Congress.

The country will congratulate Chairman Dingley on his new tariff law when Congress meets. Neither he nor Congress will have occasion to be ashamed of its record.

Those newspapers which were talking of "defeating Mark Hanna" for the Senate have suspended that kind of talk since the sentiment of the country has been heard on that proposition.

The attention of Mr. Bryan is respectfully called to the fact that there are whispered rumors from Mexico that its statesmen and financiers are seriously contemplating

A growing disposition is reported among the statesmen of China to adopt the gold standard, and there is reason to believe that that government will shortly follow in the steps of Japan, and lay aside the silver standard, under which it now suffers such inconveniences.

The attention of Mr. Bryan is respectfully called to the fact that there are whispered rumors from Mexico that its statesmen and financiers are seriously contemplating

That self-appointed "commission" of silver men who went to Japan in August to find out the real cause of the adoption of the gold standard by that country doesn't seem to be in any hurry about reporting. Can it be possible that the Japanese gold-standard statesmen have converted them? Or did they find the facts against them?

There is no particular cause for alarm over the announcement that Mr. Bryan and his silver associates, who recently put their heads together at Louisville, are determined to "keep up the fight for silver." The facts are that the Republicans made gains in the countries which Mr. Bryan visited in Ohio, and also made gains in the cities which he visited last year.

Work on the reciprocity features of the new tariff law is making splendid progress. A dozen or more countries have already indicated a desire to enter into reciprocal relations with the United States, and there is every reason to believe that this feature of the new law will prove even more satisfactory than did the reciprocity features of the McKinley law.

Grave doubts are expressed by the Chicago Tribune as to whether the merchants or farmers of the United States want a war with Spain. It argues that both these classes are just beginning to feel the steady influence of a conservative administration at Washington, and any steps which lead to or even threaten war with Spain would seriously affect the improved conditions.

AGRICULTURAL.

Edited by J. W. Palmer, Matamoras, Pa., to whom address all communications intended for this department.

A LAW CHANGE NEEDED.
 The vinegar law of this state is unjust and needs the attention of law makers. Under the requirements, farmers are greatly wronged. Four and a half per cent of acetic acid is required to be present in it and any person who manufactures for sale, keeps for sale or offers for sale any vinegar containing less than that amount is liable to a penalty of $100.

As a rule, vinegar made from cider contains the requisite amount of acid, but the farmer does not know how to test it and dealers will not buy it unless he can guarantee the vinegar to be up to the standard. If the state is so solicitous for quality of vinegar, it should furnish inspectors on the demand of any farmer who makes it, to test it free of charge and thus make it marketable. At the present time, all over the state there are immense quantities of vinegar in farmer's cellars which they cannot dispose of because of the laws restrictions. The state is clearly in the interest of men who make vinegar as a business and as clearly opposed to the interests of the farmer, whose vinegar, as a rule, is better and purer than that made by the trade.

Further, the law requires that every farmer shall brand on every barrel he may sell, his name, place of business and the words "cider vinegar," which is a foolish expense and which serves no wise purpose. One of the two things the state should do—repeat the law in its entirety or provide free inspection and an official certificate of its standing, when so required. The branding clause is simply useless and should be stricken out.

The above editorial from the New York Farmer applies so well for this state, that we republish it for the benefit of our readers. Only the other day, the writer was told by a groceryman that he would buy his vinegar, providing we would stand the fine if it should fail to pass the Pennsylvania state test.

THE TWO SUGARS.

Many people will be surprised to learn that the production of beet sugar is decidedly greater than the production of cane sugar. This fact is brought out, however, in a late number of the Forum, by an article from the pen of E. F. Atkins, in which he places the production of beet sugar for the world in the year 1895-7 at 4,991,000 tons of which the United States produced 40,000 tons, against a total of 2,846,500 tons of States produced 276,000 tons. This certainly indicates that efforts to test the ability of various sections of this country to advantageously produce beet sugar are based on sound reasoning—Stockman and Farmer.

Where the Wild Pigeons Are.

Thirty years ago there were large numbers of this wild wood bird in this section, and flocks containing hundreds if not thousands were common. They disappeared almost as if by magic and there has been much speculation as to where they went. It did not seem as though they could have been exterminated, and while the face of the country remained practically unchanged, they suddenly and without apparent cause deserted it, and for many years the sight of a single wild pigeon to say nothing of flocks of any size has been unusual. A correspondent in an El Paso Texas paper writes that August 3rd he returned from a trip over the new Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific railroad running from El Paso into Mexico about one hundred miles into an uninhabited heavily timbered country. He found wild pigeons there in a bunch of timber oak by the thousand, which to all appearances were the same birds which darkened our skies years ago. This location mentioned is in the Sierra Madre range of Northern Chihuahua, Mexico, and is a new wonderland which has hitherto remained undiscovered, and until a short time ago has been the roaming ground of the Apache. It has great forests of oak and pine which make it a fitting abode for the birds while in the valleys large quantities of corn and other cereals are cultivated.

Artificial Flowers.

In London and Paris thousands of women and girls are employed in the artificial flower trade. The petals have been heretofore made of silk, satin, muslin and velvet colored and then skillfully fashioned into the semblance of blossoms. This, Cassell's Magazine says, is all about to be revolutionized by the discovery of a substance for flower making which wholly eclipses the most delicate textile materials ever manufactured and which will probably take their place for this purpose. It is a very thin shaving from the inner pith of an oriental palm that grows in Formosa, and can be compared to nothing so well as the almost transparent petals of a white poppy or a delicate tea rose. A lily-petal is robust in comparison with this marvellous substance which has all the sheen and translucence, and even the slightly frosted appearance, seen in some white flowers.

It can be tinted far better than silk or muslin, and is practically indestructible. In wet weather it gives and falls a little limp, just as real flowers do, but when the sun comes out it crisps, reasserts itself, and takes a new lease of life and beauty. So admirably adapted are roses and carnations made of it for button-hole and other bouquets that when fairly on the market they will most likely make a considerable difference to the florists, as the fadeless flowers never really droop, and will do duty over and over again.

Stomach Trouble

Stomach trouble is the common name applied to a derangement of the system which is keenly felt but vaguely understood. It may mean inability to retain food or to digest it. It may mean nausea, pain after eating, fullness, inordinate craving for food, or entire lack of appetite. Whatever it means, there's a trouble, and it's with the stomach. If you have stomach trouble, you will be interested in this letter from a man who had it and was cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For nine years I suffered from stomach trouble. I tried the aid of the best doctors of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, and spent large sums of money, all in vain. One day while waiting a train in Delaware, O., I picked up a paper with a notice of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I got one bottle to try it. It did me so much good that I purchased from more bottles. I took four of them and gained in flesh, my appetite improved, and now I can eat anything. My stomach is all right, thanks to the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—CALVIN M. SWEENEY, Uniontown, Pa.
