LAYTON.

We extend to each of the Press Staff and to all its readers our wishes that each and every one may enjoy a happy and prosperous New Year. Also that if any one of them thinks they should "turn over a new leaf" that they will do so, and exert all their force of will to keep it from flopping back.

The Christmas tree in the Chapel at Bevens with the attendant exercises were very fine this year. Some one deserves much praise for devising and bringing to perfection these happy entertainments. The young were made glad by the liberal distribution of presents from the tree, and their elders can lay away in memory the pleasant social features and enjoyment of the occasion until Christmas comes again.

The Squire seemed to think somebody was after him with a sharp stick last week. Well a newspaper reporter should be able to carry his stick in his hand, and then it would be in danger once or twice in a while. Once when he has done nothing to deserve it, and twice when somebody thinks he has. Be easy on the reporters for they are the salt of the earth and all the other seasoning thrown in.

It makes some people look as sour as crab apples to be relegated from high political position to the tail end of the procession; and to lose the power to dispense post offices wrinkles their visage like eating green persimmons. "But every dog has his day."

Miss Jagger and wife will move to Chatham and begin house keeping this week. Mercer has secured a situation there hence their early departure for the city.

While there is so much kicking about the high salaries of office holders it is well to keep in mind that the same principle is applicable to ministers, doctors and lawyers. Perhaps there may be other professions too of which it may be said that their present fees or salaries will purchase double of almost every necessary of life that the like amount would twenty years ago. While farms and their products have shrunken half or more in twenty years, salaries and fees have remained stationary or advanced.

Will Clark who is employed in a New York store is enjoying his holiday vacation with his parents at Hainesville. Dr. Hughes drops in very readily into the harness and his time has been about filled from the start. He contemplates some considerable improvements to his newly acquired property at an early day, and perhaps to his own condition also. Fuller particulars later.

The shoot at Hainesville went off in great shape in spite of the severe cold. John Majors and H. E. Montross did some good rifle shooting and bagged most all the turkeys. A little indulgence was permitted in other games and quite money changed hands. They all say they had a—Oh! just a lovely, deliciously, good time. Everybody heard from entirely satisfied.

The hunting season is at an end, and though there has been an unusual amount of game killed there is still a few left. With a favorable winter there should be good shooting again next fall.

Blaise Cole and Esten Van Sickle are spending their holiday vacations at home with their parents. The former attends school at Bialertown, and the latter at Port Jervis.

We have an idea that the editor of the Sussex Record is contemplating a trip to the Klondike next spring. We should be sorry to lose the jolly editor who publishes the Lord's prayer, and the ten commandments every week as editorial. But the Lord will care for his own, and Howard is sure in this event to come out right side up over this. It will be a hard trip if it is any worse than editing a newspaper. What say!

Geo. W. Van Sickle in charge of A. D.

Brown's men is rapidly pushing to completion the Rosenkrantz store house. It is now evident that this will be the best building in town, and a credit to the place.

James B. Fuller has quietly planned and constructed a modern dwelling on the site of the one burned last summer. James will soon be at home in his own domicile, and driving the farming business as usual.

Isn't it funny that seven times out of ten the parents will educate their children for, and wish them to follow some other profession than his own. The miller don't want his boy to grow up a miller, and the blacksmith wants his to engage in some other work than blacksmithing. The farmer professes that he should study for a profession. Each being more familiar with his own business, the seeming hardships, and unpalatable features of it, gets to thinking that all others are what they appear on the surface, that they possess less hardships and discomforts than his own. If more attention was given to cultivating the natural gift or bent of youth there would be fewer failures in life than there are now under the present system, or rather lack of it.

"Highnoon John" was in town last Monday. Highnoon looks sour he dux. He was pickin up items far de Gazette, and he didn't make any inquires fur de fish warden I guess not. "Pears like I could see a front up each sleeve, and a sucker a stickin out of each pocket. No scales on Highnoon, but his fins do stick right up; I looed they dux.

There was a surprise party at the home of Ed Van Ness last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Ida Lanning, the former teacher at Shaytown.

Only two Christmas trees were got up in the valley this year, and both of them were in the churches at Bevens. The other churches had hardly recovered sufficiently from recent entertainments to raise the wind.

On October 28th, Geo. E. Hursch slaughtered a spring pig at 8 1/2 months old that dressed 212 pounds, and on Dec. 28th his two mates at 19 1/2 months old that dressed 205 and 220 pounds respectively. A total of 637 pounds. Now "H. L." please brush up those good farmers in Montague and find something to beat this.

A. E. Wolfe, of Dockertown, set up two granite monuments in the cemetery at Bevens and one in the Hainesville cemetery last week. The first two were to the memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenkrantz and Mrs. Anna Coelia Knight. The latter to the memory of Mrs. Estella Kintner. They were all of similar design, and now and durable in appearance.

B. D. Hursch is appearing in the construction of the line of the Hudson River Telephone Company from Newton to Dockertown.

While giving my horse a drink from the big spring in Culver's Gap last Wednesday, a snow white squirrel, of the gray species, crossed the road near by, and idly made its way over the rocks up the mountain side. It would have made a beautiful addition to the collection of a taxidermist.

Smith and Dusenberry's store at Layton is being enlarged and remodeled. The inside arrangements will be made to conform more nearly to modern ideas, and the effect when completed will be all that the most fastidious could desire.

When together the countenances of the twins express the joyous satisfaction, and when apart they have an abstracted air that is suggestive of a person fishing in a vacuum for an idea without the least indication that he is going to get a bite.

The steam cooker was charged again last Sunday with potatoes in the bottom, onions next, and apple dumplings at the top. There was not the slightest trace of flavor imparted to one by any of the others. We consider this a crucial test, and while we admit we were a little fearful of the result, the cooker came out with flying colors. No steam nor odor in the room and every article cooked to perfection.

MATAMORAS.

A very quiet wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 when Miss Abbie Abers and Mr. Henry H. Gillson were united in marriage by the Rev. Halleron. Miss Bertha Abers a sister of the bride and Floyd Harding were the witnesses of the ceremony.

On their return to the bride home in Matamoras a wedding supper was given to a few friends. For the present they will reside in Matamoras at the bride's home on River street.

Mr. Wallace Van Gordon, who is attending the Law college at Ithaca is quite ill. His mother, Mrs. J. Van Gordon left town on Tuesday to visit him as he cannot come home during the holidays.

Mr. Fayette Seymour of the Medical college of Philadelphia is home for the holidays. He will soon have M. D. attached to his name and congratulations will then be in order.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lord are visiting friends in Paterson, N. J.

Mr. J. Billman of Middletown was at his home for Christmas.

Services at Epworth church Sunday afternoon. Following is the program given: Selection by the choir; Recitations Della Knapp, Della Skinner, Abbie London, and Lilla Middaugh; Selection by the choir.

The Matamoras school closed on Thursday afternoon for the holidays. Prof. Kileoin and his assistants left town Friday for their respective homes. We wish them a pleasant vacation.

The Christmas exercises took place at Epworth church on Friday night and were of a pleasing nature. The children gave their recitations and sang their solos in a creditable manner. The church was decorated with mottoes, emblems, evergreens and ground pine. A large Christmas tree was filled with pretty things for the children and Santa Claus was on hand at the right time to distribute his gifts. Mr. Warren Kimble impersonated the old gesleman to perfection. First in the program was prayer by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Curtis. The choir gave a selection, which was followed by recitations. The chorus sang an exercise by 11 little ones. A chorus was sung by the infant class with Mrs. John Wonnacott as organist. Miss Cora Snyder's class gave recitations. Following this came the cantata, "The Christmas Tea Party." Last on the program was the appearance of Santa Claus impersonated by Mr. Warren Kimble. The little ones were very happy when each one was presented with a present.

MONTAGUE.

It looks as if we might have a little sleighing.

Mrs. Margaret McCarty for the third time within two years was stricken with paralysis. She has never fully recovered from her previous attacks and since being stricken the last time which occurred early last Saturday morning her condition is considered critical.

What did you find in your stocking? "H. L." sports a genuine Morschaum pipe, the gift of a Pike county friend.

Now is the time of year to begin to sweep your own door yard before doing that favor for your neighbor.

The fair and chicken social of the L. A. S. noted $14.42.

Miss M. Stidd is visiting her sister, Mrs. Levi Barkman, in Port Jervis.

Miss Berthaga Wainright is spending the holidays in New York.

Miss May Travis is visiting friends in Shenandoah county, N. Y.

Xmas day was more than quiet over here, most every one stayed at home.

Mrs. Ida Sargent, of New York, spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoyt.

A few rules to remember for the next week or two: Don't speak ill of your neighbor; don't get full; remember the sinner; don't send a kind' boy after hard cider; Go yourself or do without which is better; go to church; and don't when you are tipsy go along the public road acting like a fool. Now I wish you all a happy new year and close hoping no one has any bad feeling toward DICK.

The Week of Prayer.

Throughout the Christian world in late years the first full week in January each year has been devoted to special revival work. This first arose in response to an appeal from the missionaries in India for the church in all lands to combine at that season for prayer for the special blessing of God on mission work.

The topics in general use are suggested by the Evangelical alliance. It is a good thing for the various churches of a community to unite in the services of this week and cultivate more of fraternity and sympathy. Though the original intention of the meetings has been largely lost to sight, still the devotion of a particular time to calling attention to the claims of God upon us is wise. In too many churches little care is bestowed upon bringing men to repentance and conversion. What is called "a revival" is rare in many places, yet the mission of the church is largely to call sinners to repentance. No better way has ever been found than to set apart a particular season, call the church to united prayer and effort in the salvation of souls. In this work the League should be active. Every young Christian should develop talent and tact in approaching men and persuading them to a better life.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement has just been formally announced and will interest a number of Milfordites of Miss Marie Louise Ogden, only child of the late H. Corbit Ogden, and Mr. Guy Biddle, son of the late Edward J. Biddle, of New York. Miss Ogden's father was one of the very popular men of the City Troop, and her grandfather is Charles S. Ogden. On the maternal side, she is a granddaughter of the late Colonel Alexander Hamilton Bowman, for many years superintendent of West Point, and who built Forts Sumter, Moultrie and Pitsairn. Mr. Biddle is a grandson of Major John Biddle, whose gallantry is commended in General Winfield Scott's work. He is a great-nephew of Nicholas Biddle, president of the United States Bank and of his brother, Commodore J. Biddle and is a great-nephew of Commodore Nicholas Biddle, of Revolutionary fame.

(The young lady has for a number of seasons spent the summer in Milford.)

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if let to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction. —Oolagah, Ind. Tor. Chief.

This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and the grippe we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Druggists and General Merchants of Pike county.

The Pension List Grows.

Pension Commissioner Evans in his annual report shows that the names of about fifty thousand new pensioners were added to the rolls during the year. A net increase of five thousand in the whole number. There are nearly one million on the rolls now, and the amount disbursed for the pensions during the past year was about one hundred and forty million dollars. The report recommends that the complete list be published to aid the detection of fraud.

Wheat Growing on Change.

Some of the gamblers have been raising wheat for the past few days and some of them had a short crop. Several million bushels were manipulated, and hundreds of thousands of dollars changed hands. These grain gamblers are a curse to the country, but if their operations could be confined wholly among themselves the evil effects, and losses would not be deplored.

Looking Backward.

The close of the year naturally causes most people to look back over the way they have come. To many this is a joyous occupation. During the past twelve months many have for the first time in life recognized the claims of God upon them and have entered upon the life of faith and obedience. The new year brings fresh hope and rejoicing. Life means far more to them than it did a year ago.

Others have found sorrow and bereavements since the dawn of 1897. Graves have opened and closed for ever over the forms of loved ones. The sun has lost its brightness, and the flowers lack something of perfume and brilliancy. The touch of death is on all things, and whatever crowds surround and however pleasant the voices that speak the presence of one form, the sound of one voice, is ever lacking and loneliness is in the soul.

To some this has been a year of unfulfilled desire, of unkept resolutions of vows unpaid. Now is the time to think and re-resolve, to vow anew and earnestly to strive for mastery. It is not a foolish thing to make new resolutions at the close of the old year and opening of the new. It is rather a sign of real courage and genuine manliness. Spend a little time in review of the mistakes and of the successes of the year gone by. Set clearly before yourself the cause of the failures. Note where the strength has come for noble deeds. Determine to make 1898 a better year than you have ever before seen. What it shall be lies largely with yourself.
