EDITORIAL.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

The Philadelphia Times, in an editorial on the Democratic situation in this State, says: "Senator Quay bossed the Republican State Convention with apparent ease, but there are ominous murmurs of discontent throughout the ranks which threaten disaster in November. No man better understands the peril to which the Republican State ticket is exposed by the revolutionary spirit that is about throughout the party, and no one better knows the commercial infirmities of many of the Democratic leaders of the State. Having endangered Republican success by boosting the party, he will logically turn to boss the Democratic party to save himself from defeat." The Times deserves knighthood for discovering, or at least designating in such happy phraseology, a Democratic disease. Of course it is a heightened ailment, and only affects the leaders; that is, not all, but many of them. But, will the Times undertake to say that they are different from other articles of commerce, and when once bought and paid for, cannot be resold at an advance? Ah, there's the rub!

Political Rumors.

The Democrats having turned Mr. Harry out of the National Committee because he was for sound money, now think of abandoning the free silver heresy in this State, and making the campaign on local issues. Harry and his friends, however, can hardly forgive the manner in which he was treated and are not likely to give much aid or comfort to Mr. Garman and his methods, no matter on what issue they stake their chances. There are also rumors that he and Mr. Quay have formed a coalition in furtherance of their individual plans, but this seems hardly probable, from the fact that such a combination would probably injure both. All that Mr. Quay could hope to gain would be two or three representatives who might in the case of necessity vote him for Senator, while on the contrary he might lose many Republican votes. If Democrats desire to come over because of freaks in their own party, we, of course, would receive them, but there would be little gain when their reason for so doing was solely based on revenge. Besides there are going to be enough Republican votes in the State this year to elect the ticket by a large majority.

He lives long that lives well, and time mispent is not lived, but lost. Fuller.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Knowing that the very persons who are having the most to say about the delay in getting Gen. Shafter's army to Santiago would have led the harsh criticism had the army met with any mishap on account of being moved before everything was ready, and that the delay has been necessary and unavoidable President McKinley is taking matters as coolly as the boiling spell of weather now upon Washington will allow him. He knows that no time has been wasted, and that none will be; that Shafter's army is out for business, and that results are going to follow its landing in Cuba. The administration is not to blame because newspaper men who were not informed of the real causes of the delay printed their guesses, that the troops were held back because of rumors of the presence of an "alleged" new and dangerous Spanish fleet in Cuban waters, etc., as facts; censorship of news relating to important movements would be useless if the Government contradicted all the rumors started. Admiral Sampson has landed a force of marines in Cuba, at Guantanamo harbor, which will be held as a base of naval supplies.

Generals Copping and Lee, who are to command the army that is going to Porto Rico, have been sent orders to get their command into condition for embarking at the earliest possible moment, which is taken to mean that the movement upon Porto Rico is not to be postponed until the movement against Santiago is successful, but is to go ahead independently as soon as ready. Secretary Alger says that in ten days time every man in the army will be fully equipped for war. The Navy Department has published Admiral Sampson's official report of Lieut. Hobson's daring feat—the sinking of the Merrimac—and it is just as enthusiastic as were the newspaper descriptions and is calculated to make every American proud to be a citizen of the country that produces such men.

Senator Butler, of N. C., chairman of the populist National Committee, formally read Senator Kyle out of the populist party because he voted for the war revenue bill. The reading out process did not appear to worry Senator Kyle, who stated that he was responsible to his conscience and his constituents, and not to Butler, for his official actions. Mr. Kyle disposed of some them as "intentional and malicious falsehoods."

The House is now engaged in debating the Hawaiian annexation resolution under an agreement to vote upon it Wednesday afternoon. Its adoption by more than a two-thirds vote is certain. Speaker Reed's course since this matter has been under discussion has been greatly misrepresented. He is personally opposed to annexation, but his prompt decision when a point of order was raised against Gen. Grosvenor's motion "to proceed to public business"—made in the House for the first time in fifteen years,—in favor of Gen. Grosvenor, knowing that the motion was made to get the annexation resolution before the House, was proof enough of the falsity of the stories about his resorting to all sorts of parliamentary tactics to prevent the House getting an opportunity to vote on annexation. Two weeks ago Speaker Reed stated his position to Chairman Hitt and other members of the Committee on Foreign Affairs when they went to him for a special rule from the Committee on Rules. He said to them: "My advice personally is to postpone consideration of this question until next session. I frequently think I am wiser than the Republican party, while as often the Republican party is wiser than I am. You gentlemen must take the consequences." The only trouble with the Speaker in this case is that his judgment is against that of 95 per cent. of the Republican party and probably a majority of all other parties.

There is no boncomb about President McKinley's good will towards the ex-Confederates, or he never would have nominated T. L. Rosser, of Va., to be a brigadier general. Rosser got a lot of notoriety several years ago by making a crack-brained speech announcing himself to be an unconstructed rebel, etc. President McKinley only remembered that he was a gallant soldier, now seeking to fight for the country he once mistakenly fought to destroy. It is things like that that have caused it to be remarked more than once that "McKinley is as great in many respects as Lincoln."

President McKinley is well pleased with the war-revenue bill, now a law, as a whole. He would have preferred that the amount of bonds authorized should have remained at $800,000,000, as in the original House bill, instead of $400,000,000, as agreed to by the conference. He does not intend to issue more than shall be necessary to meet war expenses. That is why the first issue is limited to $200,000,000, and he hopes that all of these will be taken by the people in amounts of $1000 or less.

An Old Book.

Mr. Robinson Shepherd, of Delaware, Pa., left for inspection a few days ago a book bearing the title, "A Fall Account of the Siege of London-Derry," written by the Reverend George Walker, Rector of Donoghmore, in the County of Tyrone, and late Governor of Derry in Ireland, and printed in London in 1689. There is a chapter devoted to the description of the city, and an account of the siege. The town happened to be out of the hands of the Irish when all places in the Kingdom of any strength or consideration were possessed by them, because Lord Tyrconnel, when three thousand men were sent to England, to assist his master against the invasion of the Prince of Orange, sent away the regiment quartered in and about the city, and seeing this to be an error, he commanded Lord Antrim to quarter there with his regiment, which consisted of a swarm of Irish and Highlanders. Col. Phillips being under apprehension that there was intended a general insurrection of the Irish, ordered the gates of the city closed, and news was sent to Dublin of the so-called revolt. Then follow addresses to William and Mary, King and Queen of England, etc., and an apology for the failures charged on the Rev. Geo. Walker's printed account of the Siege of Derry, and a narrative of the same.

The book also contains an historical description of the glorious conquest of the City of Buda, the capital city of Hungary, by the victorious Emperor Leopold I. The book is a curiosity in style and print, and is well preserved for its great age.

There is on a fly leaf the following inscription: James Wilkin, of Derry, and Parish of Drumnamilly, and Barony of Coole, in the County of Fermanagh, is the proprietor of this book. Wilkin was a uncle of Mr. Shepherd.

A Soldier's Outfit.

The N. Y. Tribune, in a recent issue, assumes to specify the clothing and fixings most necessary for a campaigner's outfit, but if the list only contains the necessary articles, a soldier to be really well provided would need a baggage car.

Here are the things: Three suits underwear, three abdominal bands, 12 pairs cotton hose, 2 pairs heavy, and 2 pairs light shoes, 2 blue flannel shirts, 2 Madras pajamas, four dozen white handkerchiefs, one dozen towels, 2 bath towels, 6 Turkish wash cloths, one small hair pillow, three pillow cases, one pair groy blankets, one rug or sleeping bag, one talma, or waterproof cape, and a toilet case to carry hair brushes, razor, comb, shaving brush, soap, scissors, tooth powder, tooth and nail brushes, and miscellaneous articles, and lastly a portfolio well filled, completes the necessities.

Now add to this outfit a gun, which may be classed as a necessary, with the requisite ammunition, and accoutrements, and a "canteen," and put a soldier on the march in a temperature of say 90 degrees in the shade over rough roads, or through woods, climbing hills and forcing a path through tropical vegetation, and what fun he would have. He might also carry an angel food cake, a couple of quarts of ice cream, to say nothing of a lot of sandwiches, a bottle of chow-chow, and a pie or two. Just think what a picnic of a time he would enjoy.

Hair & Hints

It is much easier to keep the hair when you have it than it is to restore it when it's lost. If your hair is "coming out" it needs instant attention. The use of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will promptly stop the hair from falling, and stimulate it to new growth.

"Some years ago my hair began to fall out and I became quite bald. I was advised to try and had used it but a short time when my hair ceased to fall out and a new and vigorous growth made its appearance. My hair is now abundant and glossy." THOS. DUNN, Rockville, Wis.

Sensation of Hanging.

A Captain who was rescued from the gibbet at the intercession of Viscount Turmeau, after being partially hanged, related that having lost all pain, in an instant, by being rescued he had been snatched from a glorious light, the charm of which defied all description. All victims of partial hanging agree that the unpleasantly quick momentary; that a pleasant feeling succeeds, and that various colors start before the sight, casting everything else in oblivion. The mind averted from reality is engaged in scenes most remote from that which fills the eye of the spectator—the hideous gallows, and the struggling form.

Of Interest To Jersey.

The mosquito develops from its first stage, a speck resembling cholera bacteria, to active and venomous maturity in two hours and a half. The insect may be instantly killed in any of its phases by contact with minute quantities of permanganate of potash. A handful will oxidize a ten-acre swamp, kill all the embryo insects and keep it free from organic matter for thirty days at a cost of 25 cents. A few crystals may be scattered widely apart. A single pinch killed all the germs in a thousand gallon tank.

Buiding-Loan Trust Fund.

REALTY CORPORATION OF NEW JERSEY, GENERAL AGENT, 800 Broad Street, Newark, N. J. What it will do for you

For a monthly payment of $8 per $1,000—$6 of which applies on principal, $2 is interest. First—It will buy for you any house desired or build you a house according to your own plans, for a payment of not less than 10% down. Second—It will assume any mortgage on your property, and advance you more money, if desired, not to exceed 10% of its value. At above rates you would own your property free and clear in just 200 months; you can pay as much more as you wish, and reduce the time in proportion, or the full amount will be received at any time.

The first proposition enables you to convert your rent money into the ownership of a home. The second proposition enables you to reduce the interest rate on your mortgage and at the same time be paying off the principal each month.
