HOW STONE LOST HIS JOB.

He Was the Original Offensive Partisan.

REFUSED TO TAKE ORDERS.

When President Cleveland Prohibited Republican Office Holders From Serving Their Party, Colonel Stone Promptly Went on the Stamp.

(Special Correspondent.)

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—"I suppose I will have to plead guilty to originating one expression in the political language of the country, although I don't give utterance to it," said the Republican candidate for governor the other day.

He has always been a good campaigner, since he began making Republican speeches before the war, and his remark quoted above had reference to this phrase, "offensive partisanship," which he used on the occasion of President Cleveland's election.

He is just what the district do. He went on the stump at the first call from the state committee, and President Cleveland promptly exacted the penalty by putting a man in his place whose partisanship, being Democratic, was presumably innocuous.

He comes naturally by his disposition, with New England blood on the one side of his ancestry, and Pennsylvania German on the other. His father, although only a 50 acre farmer, a poor man all his life, was the general trust officer of the neighborhood, and for 20 years before his death nobody in the township thought of making a will without getting him to write it, and appointing him executor of the estate.

One of the best descriptions of how he impresses people as a campaigner, by the way, appeared in the Scranton Tribune last week, as follows: "Colonel Stone, the Republican nominee for governor, is not a puppy nor a pouter, as those who met him yesterday can attest. He is a modest, straightforward and unassuming man, who without any flourish impresses the observer with his reserve strength and his sincerity. No man who looks him steadily in the eyes or takes careful measure of his words and manner will depart from his presence with a feeling of skepticism as to his integrity or his moral courage. The clean grit and stubborn fiber of the obscure Tioga county farmer boy who worked his way to the front by sheer dint of persevering studiousness and industry is in him yet, and also the candor and the total absence of vain pretension."

"Colonel Stone is not an orator and does not try to be. Those who shall go to hear him during the ensuing campaign with the expectation of hearing a thrilling exercise in word jugglery will be disappointed, because he is not that kind of a man. In speech he often becomes eloquent, but it is the rugged eloquence of honest earnestness, without a suggestion of stage play or make believe. His meeting with the people is hand to hand and face to face, entirely candid and unaffected. He indulges in no theatrical attempts to win applause or capture popular favor. He says his say with homely directness and his hearers are then left to judge of it for themselves."

"It is evident that Colonel Stone's brief visit to this region—which is merely preliminary—that the Republican candidate for governor will grow steadily upon the public respect and confidence the more he meets the people of the commonwealth. In his presence the electorate will be conscious, not of the hysteria which is a predominant characteristic of the various so-called reform movements of the day, nor of the semi-humorous thimble riging which seems to be inseparable from the Pennsylvania Democracy since the death of Samuel J. Randall, but it will experience instead the tranquility of assurance which comes from confident mastery of the situation. It will come to realize that the campaign is ended that in Colonel Stone we are to have a governor fit to face the full measure of the solemn responsibilities of the office."

Most Republicans in the state will have a chance to verify this description for themselves between now and November, for this is going to be an active stump campaign, and when it opens in Pittsburgh next month it will open with a bang of big guns. While there is a general feeling of confidence that it will be as easy as Porto Rico, there is an equally general feeling, inside and outside of the state, that in Pennsylvania, as in Porto Rico, for the sake of the moral effect the victory ought to be majestically large and decisive.

Deserves Aid.

"The Red Cross Society is our army's efficient ally in Cuba. But for it the suffering and death among the troops would be far greater than they are. The Red Cross Society receives no aid from the Government and has nothing to do with politics."

The "Public Ledger" makes the above editorial statement which is abundantly verified by all conversant with the facts. The story of sufferings which have been relieved by this far reaching and well organized charity will never be fully told because it has reached so many thousands. At Santiago when our troops were fighting and many were sick and wounded and the medical supplies necessary to relieve the immediate wants, the Red Cross with the State of Texas, their supply ship, came to the rescue, and the heartfelt thanks which rose from the thousands who were suffering on the battlefield and in the improvised hospitals should be sufficient to awaken spontaneity in aiding this great charity. Remember the sick and dying and give freely of your abundance.
