COLONEL STONE'S PLATFORM.
It will be my purpose when elected to so conduct myself as to win the respect and good will of those who have opposed me as well as those who have given me their support. I shall be governor of the whole people of the state. Abuses have undoubtedly grown up in the Legislature which are neither the fault of one party nor the other, but rather the growth of custom. Unnecessary investigations have been authorized by committees, resulting in unnecessary expense to the State. It will be my care and purpose to correct these and other evils in so far as I have the power. It will be my purpose while Governor of Pennsylvania, as it has been my purpose in the public positions that I have held, with God's help, to discharge my whole duty. The people are greater than the parties to which they belong. I am only jealous of their favor. I shall only attempt to win their approval and my experience has taught me that that can best be done by an honest, modest, daily discharge of public duty.

EDITORIAL.
SPECIAL PLEADING.
OUR neighbor in last week's issue editorially indulges in a little specious and special pleading in regard to the Democratic Congressional Convention held at Mauch Chunk and also asks that judgment as to the acts of that convention in nominating John E. Lauer be suspended. The candidate for this County knew before leaving Milford that Northampton had changed the date of the Convention and that her conferees would not be present on Wednesday, the 21st, and that therefore a full convention could not then be held. Were he and the Monroe candidate desirous of harmony when with knowledge of this fact their conferees convened and admitted the Lauer people? pleading first that the time of the conference could not be changed unless by mutual agreement, and, second, that as no one contested the Lauer conferees, therefore they should be admitted without scrutiny. Northampton wished to change the time of meeting; Pike and Monroe with a majority of conferees, and being a majority of the counties whose conferees were uncontested, refused to do so. Why? The two could have controlled the convention and comelled Northampton to either submit or withdraw. Were they fearful of the opinion of the Court, and so refused to wait lest they might be put in a minority position by its decision? They argue that Judge Albright's opinion could not settle the question of regularity of the conferees, because that matter was not before him. True, it was not squarely so, but it might be supposed that Democrats who were desirous of being law-abiding might at least await an opinion which would throw considerable light on the subject of regularity. But had they done so, would they have dared to so far set aside the Court's intimations as to urge the seating of the Lauer conferees? To disinterested beholders it looks as though Pike and Monroe, being afraid of the Scylla of law fell into the Charybdis of illegality.

TRIM THE MAPLES.
ANY person desiring to observe the effect of trimming our beautiful shade trees should make a tour of the town and carefully note the appearance of a number, which, prior to cutting away the dead branches and a judicious taking off of some of the lower limbs, were apparently diseased beyond recovery. Those same trees have now thrown out vigorous shoots and seem to have taken a new lease of life. A dead limb is a great injury to a tree, besides marring its beauty. There are now many trees the foliage of which indicates disease, but if the saw was applied, and all the limbs which appear decaying cut away and some of the larger lower ones taken off, we believe the life of the tree would be greatly prolonged. It is much easier at all events to make the effort than to allow the tree by such neglect to die, and to replace it with another and wait for the growth. But where the tree is past hope another should be planted at the proper place, and this fall is a good time.

THE POINTS AT ISSUE.
The opinion of Judge Albright in the matter of the legality of the two Democratic conventions held in Carbon, states as matters of fact that 74 of the 75 names placed by the county Chairman on the list met Aug. 29, the day specified at Concert hall. The number of delegates leaving the Hall represented 36% those remaining 37%. The delegates were regularly assembled, and their first duty was to organize so that their acts might be valid. The law requires that certificates of nomination shall be signed by the presiding officer and secretary. The first duty then was to select a presiding officer, and for years past that has been the custom, after being called to order by the County Chairman, but no rule or custom vests him with power to act in the organization of a convention beyond calling it to order. However after the list of delegates had been read and two had been nominated for presiding officers, a motion was made to adjourn upon which there was a viva voce vote. It is not proved that a majority of delegates voted for or favored an adjournment. The 36% acted in concert and with the chairman left the hall. The meeting in fact was not adjourned, and if the County Chairman so declared it, his action and the entertainment of a motion to adjourn was beyond his authority and was void. He had no authority to entertain or act on a proposition to disperse the unorganized body of delegates, at the utmost he had power to act only while the delegates were selecting a presiding officer. But even conceded he had such authority, such action would be wrongful because of the party rule which provides that in all questions voted upon any five members may require the ayes and nays. This demand was made, and known to the Chairman before he made the announcement of the proposition to adjourn, but he refused it. The delegation remaining, 37% in number, representing a majority of the 74 present organized, and admitted three more on contests, and then made the nominations. The other party of delegates, who had withdrawn, met at the Hotel, and with the one previously absent, who had then arrived, making 37%, made nominations and adjourned. The Judge therefore holds this to have been irregular and void and the Concert Hall convention to be valid.

A BIG SALMON TROUT.
A paragraph is going the rounds of the papers that a salmon trout weighing nine pounds was recently caught by a Jerseyman while bass fishing in the Delaware some three miles below Milford. Gen. Geo. B. McClellan is credited with having planted them in the stream, and the article says "a careful perusal of the reports of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission fails to show that any salmon trout have been planted at any time in the Delaware. If the person making the 'careful perusal' will turn to the report of the State Fish Commissioners made in 1896, page 433, he will discover that in 1871 a number of Easton and Philadelphia gentlemen interested in fish culture raised a sum of money and purchased 10,000 salmon eggs at New Castle, Canada. These were carefully hatched and transported to Easton, only 2500, however, arriving alive. A portion were placed in a spring on the Bushkill, about four miles above Easton, and the remainder in other springs on the same tributary of the river, and soon after Prof. Baird, the U. S. Fish Commissioner, presented fifty thousand spawn to Pennsylvania and New Jersey each. Of these forty-five thousand young trout were deposited in tributaries of the river, so that in less than three years no less than fifty-eight thousand, five hundred salmon were planted in the Delaware.
In 1877 a salmon thirty two inches long was caught in the Bushkill at Easton, and between that date and 1879 several were caught in the Delaware river, some weighing as much as twenty five pounds. After 1879 the catches ceased, and in 1884 the Commissioners admitted that the experiments were failures, and that our waters were not suitable to the fish. But in 1889 the Fish Commissioners, of whom S. B. Stilwell, of Scranton, was President, secured 100,000 eggs of Penobscot salmon, had them hatched at Allentown, and the fry, all strong and vigorous, were deposited in the streams tributary to the headquarters of the upper Delaware in Wayne County, and two years later 300,000 more eggs were hatched and deposited in the same streams. In 1895 a salmon weighing nearly fifteen pounds was taken in a net, and at the close of the shed season there was a record of 237 salmon caught. They were seen playing at Bushkill and at Egypt Mills, and at other points, and in 1896 many were taken.

MISSIONS AND THEIR BASIS.
It is safe to predict that the church will ever seek to defend its missionary work, and well it may, for it has come to be the essence of all that keeps the church of to-day alive. Losing its deep influence on the races most highly cultivated, it seeks by missionary work to extend its power to fresh fields and pastures new. That Matthew does not distinctly teach socialism is of little importance when we consider that the Christ, upon whom the church is founded, did put forth much pure socialist doctrine; if he is correctly reported. We should not endeavor to establish the Bible as an infallible reference book, when much it contains is in dispute. High literary authority not only ascribes other than the reputed authors as the writers of several books in it, but clearly shows that several others were not written until long after its chronology claims they were. Those facts cast a shadow on its authenticity also, and if not authentic, then like all other books it must be judged by the ordinary rules of literary criticism. It is not an infallible guide, or why should a dozen or more different sects, all differing radically from each other, draw the reasons for their existence from its pages and quote passage after passage, not only in defense of their several doctrines, but also condemning that of every other. The believer in Mormonism, in the death penalty, in a little wine for the stomach's sake, in slavery, in fact, almost every "ism" under the sun, can draw a defense from its peculiar views or doctrines from its facile pages. It was a great book in the infancy of the race, but the people are outgrowing it at a rapid rate, and its regular revisions to bring it up to date, with its use as a reference to show what varied conceptions of good and bad, of science in its various branches, and an ancient and semi-barbarous people were capable of, will give it a place with the purely literary world, and by whom it will be appreciated as a link in history solely. As a matter of course, as long as the use of it will enable the clergy to retain their power, serve as a foundation for all the different sects, and justify their numerous collections from the people, just so long it will be in demand, and the foreign missionary swindle will find plenty of defenders. Coughs That Kill.
are not distinguished by any mark or sign from coughs that fall to be fatal. Any cough, neglected, may sap the strength and undermine the health until recovery is impossible. All coughs lead to lung trouble, if not stopped.
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Cures Coughs.
"My wife was suffering from a dreadful cough. We did not expect that she would long survive, but Mr. R. V. Royal, deputy surveyor, happened to be stopping with us over night, and having a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with him, induced my wife to try this remedy. The result was so beneficial that she kept on taking it till she was cured."
R. H. HUMPHRIES, Sussex, Ga.
"My little daughter was taken with a distressing cough, which for three years defied all the remedies I tried. At length, on the urgent recommendation of a friend, I began to give her Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After using one bottle I found to my great surprise that she was improving. Three bottles completely cured her."

A CUBAN MILKMAN.
"How many cows are there about the streets!" somebody exclaims, and then he is calmly informed that the morning's milk is simply being delivered. A bunch of cattle and their driver stop before a house, and the porters come out with a cup for the morning's supply. It is seen then that the cows are being milked from door to door, for this is the way the acute Cuban housewives have taken to assure for their tables a lactical supply which is entirely fresh and absolutely pure.
Even with the cows milked before the door one must continue to watch the milk man, for I have even heard of their having a rubber water bag concealed under their loose frocks and connecting with a rubber tube running down inside of the sleeve, its tip being concealed in the hollow of the milking hand. Only a gentle pressure upon the bag of water within is needed to thus cause both milk and water to flow into the cup at the same time. The milk vendors of Italy and India have also learned their trade to perfection, for they practice this identical trick.
