MATAMORAS.

Prof. Kilcoln, Superintendent of the Matamoras High School, left Monday for his new position as teacher in Grammar School No. 22, on Stanton Street, New York City. The Directors and his friends in Matamoras regret exceedingly to have him leave his situation here. We trust he will like his work in the city schools, and wish him success in his new field of labor. Prof. Kilcoln's successor as principal of the public school is Prof. Johnson, who leaves a position in a reform school in Washington Co., Pa., to come here. It is understood that his wife will be employed in the school. He is a teacher of experience, and will keep the Matamoras school on the high level to which it has been raised by Prof. Kilcoln and his corps of able assistants. Miss Billie Van Sickle, of the Matamoras House, left town on Saturday for Paterson and other cities. The Sunday morning services at Epworth Church were of a very interesting nature. Mr. Spencer gave one of his very interesting sermons. His subject for the morning service was "Soul Winning," and every one was pleased with the way in which he explained the topic. In the evening he preached a sermon quite as interesting on "True Repentance," which was followed by a solo by Miss Hill, and a duet by Mr. Spencer and Miss Lulu Billman, accompanied on the organ by Miss Edith Snyder. Mr. Spencer is meeting with success. He has large congregations both morning and evening. Rev. Father Treis, of St. Joseph's Church, returned home on Friday, after being absent a week. He visited Washington, D. C., Fort Monroe, Newport News, Hampton Roads and Norfolk. He went by the Old Dominion Line to Old Point Comfort, and his return took a steamer to Norfolk and N. Y. He spent several days at Washington. Mr. Thomas Moore, of Matamoras, sailed on Saturday on the steamer Lusitania of the Cunard line. He will visit Dublin, Ireland, and other cities in Europe, and will be absent several months. His friends in Matamoras wish him a pleasant voyage and a safe return home. Mr. Chester Gray, a private in the U. S. army, has been home on a furlough. Chester likes a soldier's life. Mr. Charley Eisenberger, a former resident of this place, but now of Paterson, is home on a visit. Charley is one of Uncle Sam's boys, having enlisted in one of the New Jersey regiments. Charley has been calling on his old friends here.

DELAWARE.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather for the past week, there are yet some farmers who are not through seeding. Apples are a scarce article in this township, and therefore some people will undoubtedly be more temperate this winter. A large number of rabbits were bagged on Saturday. One party got eleven. Mrs. Calista Grist, of Flamborough, N. J., was visiting relatives here last week. The annual Teachers' Institute of this County promises to be unusually good. There will be preaching at Schuyler school house on Friday evening, October 21st, if the weather permits, by Rev. Geo. Whitehead. An eloquent sermon was preached at Mendon Brook on Sunday evening by Rev. Charles Crump. SPOTSDOWN.

LAYTON.

"Bob" Van Sickle is now owner of the trick pony that Will Ellett was performing with last week, and Bob will vary the performance somewhat, or I am a sinner.

Will Bovans has his application in for a position on a trolley line in N. Y., and is expecting his call at any time.

This is to call the attention of a gentleman, perhaps from the vicinity of Milford, that he dropped a useful article at the gate at Pine Hill Farm late one night about two weeks ago and that we are using it to protect our garden truck from frost until the owner sends us his address, or calls for his property.

W. C. Hursh, a veteran of the 1st N. J. Cavalry, met with the survivors of his regiment in their 19th Annual Reunion at Jersey City last Thursday. He reports an attendance of over 70, and a grand good time by all.

James Tucker, the pioneer chicken man of Sandyston, has the finest lot of squashes that we have seen in years. Any one desirous of securing some of this excellent material for pie or other culinary purposes will find it to their interest to give James a call.

Mary Ann did not get the squash. It is rumored that she did get $2 as an equivalent, and didn't have to use a stomach pump either.

Mrs. Geo. Porter, we are sorry to learn, does not improve in health, but on the other hand her condition is now thought to be critical.

The Herald correspondent wants to know who it was that left valuable property near Centreville, and that is what we are trying to get at too. We will all know when it is identified.

Don't forget the chicken pie supper in the Chapel at Bovans on the evening of Oct. 26. There will be lots of other good things, too, and the ladies at the Chapel know just how to entertain their guests. We have been there before, and think we know a good thing when we see it. Just 'twixt you and me we wouldn't miss it for a farm.

The dance at Peter Brink's last Thursday night was not a success. The boys forgot to take their girls, and of course no girls, no dance.

The festival at the Hainesville church on Thursday night was well patronized and nearly $50. was added to pastor Burley's bank account. The supper was elegant and everything went off charmingly until after a day or so when several participants were attacked by cramps, and other mauling pains which same they lay to the pot-pie supper. Whether the chickens were over ripe, or the devil was in the broth nobody seems to know.

A. S. Stoll, of Bevens, has one of the best fields of corn in the valley. DeAlton Dilliston says so, and he knows.

Wm. F. Rosenkrans continues to grade and get the grounds in order around his new store until it is admittedly the finest business site in the village. It is in good shape within, as well, and if you wish to see the newest and most perfect thing in scales just drop in and see his new computing scale. It is a beauty and a marvel of finish and exactness.

Several parties around here seem to have just cause for complaint of the extortionate charges by the express companies. Certainly, that is what express companies exist for. If the government had hold of this business, and run it as it does the mails what a saving would result to the people. H.

DINGMANS FERRY.

Husking corn, digging potatoes and sowing late rye keep the farmers here busy.

Geo. Burgess, employed by G. W. Donaldson, complained for some time of pain in his stomach, and Dr. Hughes, after an examination pronounced it appendicitis. He was conveyed to the hospital at Port Jervis where an operation performed and small seed removed from the vermiform appendix. He is now recovering nicely.

The family of G. W. Donaldson will remove to N. Y. about Nov. 1st.

Garret Brookhead, Jr., is quite indisposed and a physician has been called.

David Jagger has gone to Danville to visit a sick sister.

Mrs. McMurry of N. Y., made a business trip here recently.

Spring chickens are now selling at 10¢ a pound. Little pigs bring $1.

STORY OF A DIVER.

Perilous Adventures of a Man Whose Daily Work is Under River or Sea. Diver, Robert E. Case, of Portland, in the course of his ten years' employment as a diver has had many interesting experiences and close calls from death.

Chase is about 25 years of age, stands about 5 feet 10 inches and weighs over 150 pounds, and is one of the pleasantest men that one would care to meet. He is very modest—seldom talking about his own work, but a while ago the writer succeeded in getting him to tell a few of his experiences.

Probably one of the most important jobs upon which he ever worked, and certainly one of the longest, was the laying of the water pipes across the Kennebec River at Bath. This job required the laying of 3,000 feet of big waterpipe, with a ball and socket joint in water, the average depth of which was fifty feet. Sometimes the depth was over seventy and at times down to about thirty. The conditions there prevailing at that point were such that the divers could only work upon the tide, and so it took from August until the following April to complete the job.

A few years ago Mr. Chase nearly lost his life while at work raising a sloop which had sunk in Boothbay Harbor. He got fouled with the cable of a buoy which marked the location of the wreck, and was hung up for forty minutes. He had not a rope or cable in such a way that but very little air could get through it with the pump working to its best advantage, but the pump was an old one and did not work well. When he was finally cleared and hauled to the surface he was unconscious and black in the face from the want of air. It was feared that he would die, but he recovered, and on the next day he raised the sloop. He had covered part of the distance when he discovered a pile that would not have to be blown, but which could readily be hoisted to the surface with a rope, and signalled the tender to send him down a rope.

The tender misunderstood the signal, and turning to the man who was looking after the battery, called out: "It's all right, fire the charge!" Now it happened that the man who was looking after the battery was an old and experienced tender, and knew that it wasn't all right to fire the charge while the man was under water. He went to the side of the float and took hold of the lifeline just in time to receive the second signal for a rope from Chase. The rope was sent down, but it was night before Chase knew of his narrow escape. The tender who came near ending Chase's experience as a diver only worked one more day and then quit—never came around after his pay, either.

It was while at work on this job that Chase, together with his tender and helpers, was blown up by a dynamite explosion. He had been down and placed the charge, but the tide, which was setting out strong, washed it down almost under the float. Chase had just reached the top and leaned over the side of the float in the usual attitude of a diver when resting, when the charge was exploded. The shock threw the float and all the men into the air, and Chase must surely have been thrown into the water but for the presence of mind of the same man who saved him the other time, who caught him and held him on the float.

The wonder of this accident was that any one came out of it alive, for upon the float was a case of 100 sticks of dynamite, which, fortunately, was not exploded by the shock.

Chase says the most disagreeable part of his work is diving for dead bodies. He has made several quick recoveries of bodies during his career as a diver. One of these was in Lewiston about two years ago, when he recovered the body of a Bates College student named Wells. In just fifteen minutes from the time he dove he had the body out of the water upon the bank.

The deepest water in which he ever worked was off Egg Rock, near Bar Harbor. Here he was down 100 feet at work upon the wreck of a Gloucester fishing schooner.
